BERLIN REPORTS SINKING OF FOUR ENEMY VESSELS

12 Others Damaged; Bombs Find Marks.

BERLIN, April 10 (AP).—Nazi Germany, fighting furiously with her fleet to keep British and French men o' war from the Norwegian coast, proclaimed tonight the destruction of at least three British destroyers in the battle of Narvik, Norway. She also conceded the loss of two big cruisers to the fire of Norwegian coastal guns and strove systematically to get her bearings in Norway and Denmark, which Adolf Hitler is "protecting"—against their will.

A fourth British destroyer was damaged and is unfit for battle at Narvik, the German high command stated.

"The attack was fought off by units of our navy which are stationed there, with heavy damage and losses for the English," the command said. "Three British destroyers were destroyed. The British admiralty admits an additional destroyer was badly damaged and is unfit for battle. On Monday, a British destroyer was sunk on another occasion."

The Battle Score Card.

Tonight, then, the German battle score in the new theater of sea and air war stood:

Four British destroyers sunk, four British battleships, two battle cruisers, three heavy cruisers, one destroyer, and two transports badly damaged [mainly by air bombing].

Two German cruisers, the new 10,-000 ton Bluecher and the 6,000 ton Karlsruhe, sunk by Norway's shore batteries in Oslo fjord and at Kristiansand, respectively, while covering troop landings yesterday.

With this outand-out sea warfare on her hands Germany sent warplanes out to the northern North sea to engage the British navy at several points, to scout the whole area, and to blockade the Norwegian and Danish west coasts from the air.

Germany's Picture.

DENMARK: "Order reigns supreme."

NORWAY: German forces occupied Hamar, Norwegian lake town north of Oslo to which the Nygaarsvold government of Norway first fled, while the German minister, Breuer, tried to cut the knot of conflicting claims of authority in Norway by visiting King Haakon himself and asking him whom he considers premier, Johan Nygaarsvold or Vidkun Quisling, the Norwegian Nazi who yesterday proclaimed a régime led by himself.

This meeting took place at Elverum, 75 miles north of Oslo near the Swedish border, where a battle between Norwegian and German soldiers was reported fought today. The results of the conference were not immediately known.

Drives Thru Mine Fields.

The high command disclosed today what perhaps was the most dramatic incident of the occupation—the furious defense by Norwegian shore batteries which sank the two German cruisers.

Describing the destruction of the Bluecher, the high command said it "was showered with shells from Oslo fjord coastal guns until it was badly damaged, but it drove ahead on its mission of protecting transports until it ran into Norwegian mines, where it sank in a thunder of explosions."

Similarly, the much older Karlsruhe was shelled at Kristiansand until it went down, but not, however, until it had afforded maximum protection to landing parties. Most members of both crews were reported saved.

Promise Not to Interfere.

In Berlin, German authorities insisted they did not intend to interfere with the internal affairs of either Denmark or Norway—except where military questions or Germany's security is involved.

Authorized sources, obviously with an eye toward reassuring American public opinion, categorically renounced any interest in Iceland, which has Christian of Denmark for king, or in Greenland.

Far more evasive, however, were statements about whether North Schleswig, an area of 1,500 square miles, was included in what Denmark will get back after the war, under the German pledge to respect her territorial integrity.

In the German view, Schleswig is

20,200 WATCH AS CHICAGO BOXERS TIE EUROPE, 4 TO 4

Chicagoland's Golden Glovers fought Europe's champions to a 4 to 4 tie in the ninth International Golden Gloves bouts last night in the Chicago Stadium before 20,200. The Europeans gained a tie when Olle Tandberg, giant heavyweight from Sweden, won a decision over Cornelius Young in the final contest. Chicago rallied to take a 4 to 3 lead after losing three of the first four bouts. There were no knockouts.

LONDON CLAIMS ROUT OF HITLER FLEET AT OSLO

Fighting Rages on Wide Front.

LONDON, April 10 (AP).—A broadcast by the British Broadcasting corporation late tonight said British warships "appear to have routed" German forces in Oslo fjord and "there has been ruthless bombing of Norwegian towns in the neighborhood by German planes."

All day long Britain struck blow after blow at Germany with her air and naval might along the entire western coast of Norway and far into the Baltic sea approaches, fighting a constant chain of bitter battles which may hold the key to the fate of Scandinavia and the European war itself.

Five British destroyers raided Narvik fjord, engaging six new and large German destroyers and, after the German defenses were battered, other British thrusts were reported being made to the south.

Say Cruiser Torpedoed.

The admiralty asserted that a British submarine torpedoed a German cruiser off South Norway last night and that "it is thought the cruiser was sunk."

Later the Stockholm radio said that a German warship was reported to have been sunk by British action near Arendal, Norway, on the northern shore of the Skagerrak.

The royal navy bid high for Narvik. More than 300 men may have been lost. Five destroyers of the Hero class stormed the Narvik fjord at dawn, engaging the six German destroyers and running into heavy fire from coastal batteries and German guns newly mounted there.

In this initial thrust, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the house of commons, Britain lost two destroyers and had two damaged, one seriously; one German destroyer was said to have been torpedoed and believed sunk and three others were left "heavily hit and burning."

Unable to Pursue.

The German ships were left "in no position to attempt pursuit," he said.

Commons, which listened in silence as Chamberlain told of the British losses at Narvik, cheered wildly as he continued to relate the damage to the German ships and to tell of the sinking of seven vessels believed to be carrying supplies or munitions for the Germans.

The five British destroyers which steamed into Narvik fjord were fairly new. They were the 1,340 ton vessels Havock, Hostile, Hotspur, and Hunter and the 1,505 ton Hardy. The Havock was completed in 1937, the others in 1936.

Fire from Shore Batteries.

The Hunter was sunk by concentrated fire from the six German destroyers and the shore batteries. The Hardy was badly damaged, beached and lost. The Hotspur was severely damaged and the Hostile less seriously. Only the Havock escaped unscathed.

As the British ships withdrew, the Havock covering the retreat of the limping Hotspur in a spirited rear guard action, the German munitions ship Ravensfeldt, Chamberlain said, was encountered and blown up.

WAR BULLETINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 11, Thursday.—It was reported here today that 150 British and French war vessels and 600 planes were fighting against 100 German ships and 1,000 planes for possession of Norway.

LONDON, April 11, Thursday (A.P.).—A Reuters (British) news agency, in a Stockholm dispatch, said early today that the German cruiser Emden was reported to have been sunk by Norwegian action.

LONDON, April 11, Thursday (A.P.).—Reuters, British news agency, reported today that the German troopship Antares, 2,593 tons, was sunk last night off the west coast of Sweden. It said 34 survivors who were landed at Lysekil reported the ship hit a mine.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 11, Thursday (AP).—A traveler arriving today from Oslo said that the airdrome at the Norwegian capital was bombed last night by British and French planes.

LONDON, April 11, Thursday (AP).—A proclamation reaffirming Norway's determination to resist the German invasion and rejecting a German demand for recognition of a Nazi puppet government under Maj. Vidkun Quisling has been issued by Premier Johan Nygaardsvold, Reuters, British news agency, reported today.

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—The German short wave radio, in a broadcast picked up by NBC, reported tonight that a new government composed of the two principal opposition parties had been formed in Denmark. The German announcement added that the Danish reichstag approved yielding to the German occupation.

LONDON, April 10 (A.P.).—A Reuters dispatch from Stockholm said tonight that the radio station at Tromsoe had broadcast an appeal to the British fleet to send assistance because two German warships were landing troops at Aalesund, about 130 miles north of Bergen.

TWO VIEWS OF GERMAN RUSE

Two new versions of how Adolf Hitler's military forces accomplished their swift invasion of Norway and occupation of Denmark were contained in dispatches yesterday from Tribune correspondents in Berlin and Paris. Their versions:

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 10.—Military experts in Berlin today disclosed more details of how large forces of German soldiers were smuggled into Norway while the British navy was supposed to be in complete command of the North sea and the western Skagerrak.

They said that some 20 or more nondescript German transports carrying 60,000 men slipped thru the Kattegat out to the Skagerrak and around the west coast of Norway without, it is reported, being sighted. In fact, a military expert said, two fast observation planes acting as lookouts for the transports were unable to find any British warships.

The German ships not only avoided detection, but also succeeded in running the gantlet of the many minefields supposed to have been sown to prevent the Germans from navigating the Norwegian coastal waters. However, the majority of the ships, it was said, left before the mines were laid.

Troopships Disguised.

As the convoy proceeded north practically all of the key Norwegian ports were captured and Narvik was taken in 30 minutes during a snowstorm.

The invading troops and ships did not move in battle formation, but were strung out with some troops in boats disguised as merchantmen or fishermen, the Germans asserted.

In order to maintain secrecy, the Germans had plotted the mission as far in advance as possible and in so much detail that special money was printed for use in buying supplies.

Ferry Army Train to Denmark.

Danish citizens unwittingly assisted the German invasion, it was revealed. German officials telephoned attendants at the Gedser, Denmark, end of the ferry line between Gedser and Warnemuende, Germany, on Monday night that a special load of merchandise would be over early Tuesday morning. The special load was an armored railroad train carrying a complete army unit.

Planes also were used to take troops to points north of where ships could safely proceed.

Explaining the success of the secrecy which cloaked the troop movements, the Germans disclosed that for weeks German propaganda has been directed against England and France for violating the neutrality of the Netherlands and Belgium and every one expected a move in that direction first.

So smoothly had the propaganda prepared the way that big Danish towns and the long bridge of islands between Denmark and Germany were occupied within two hours without any opposition, the Germans boasted.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 10.—An ingenious explanation was given out here today about how Germany succeeded so swiftly in occupying Kristiansand, Bergen, Trondheim, Narvik, and other places along the Norwegian coast which the British navy presumably controled completely with patrol ships and mines.

According to the French, the Germans had carefully planned the operation for a long time and, instead of troops being landed by phantom ships which had escaped the British naval watch, these troops actually were on the spot in Norway as "tourists who were quickly formed into a fifth column."

Hid on Merchant Ships.

It is believed here that for some time the Germans had been sending their nationals into Norway and at a radio signal these men donned military uniforms and seized control of the places where they were living.

Furthermore, according to this version, German merchant ships which had been carefully camouflaged and disguised for some time, had been anchored in Norwegian fjords. At a signal from the German admiralty, these ships unmasked their armament and their crews put on uniforms, landed, and surprised Norwegian authorities. Then they took over the towns, except for some places which had forts and defense works.

Key to Success Is Surprise.

Some French commentators today also explained that during the operations the Germans used a new type bombing plane capable of launching a torpedo weighing nearly half a ton.

The element of surprise appears also to explain in a measure the German success and swiftness of operation. It is reported here that until the last moment the Germans put all observers off the scent and that military attachés in Berlin were diverted with an invitation to visit the Siegfried line.

JULIANA AND FAMILY TO JOIN WILHELMINA IN HOLLAND'S CAPITAL

THE HAGUE, April 11, Thursday (AP).—Princess Juliana, heiress-apparent to the Netherlands throne; her consort, Prince Bernhard, and their two baby daughters, the Princesses Beatrix and Irene, last night left their palace at Soestdijk, in Utrecht province, to stay in The Hague with Queen Wilhelmina. The "little white palace" at Soestdijk is in the heart of the Netherlands' main defense line of flood waters and fortifications. Most of Utrecht province will be flooded in case of German invasion.

NORWAY'S ARMY REPULSES DRIVE ON NEW CAPITAL

King to Put Nation on Empires' Side.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 11, Thursday (AP).—Heartened by the British navy's powerful thrust off southern Norway, the Norwegians early today were reported to have repulsed German attempts to advance by land north of Oslo.

Two hundred Germans and the same number of Norwegians were reported to have been killed yesterday in a fierce battle at Elverum, the new capital 75 miles north of Oslo and 25 miles west of the Swedish border. The Norwegian government and king had fled to Elverum on Tuesday.

It was reported King Haakon later today would proclaim the intention of the Norwegian government to fight side by side with Britain and France against Germany. Haakon was said to have refused a German demand that he recognize the pro-Nazi government which Maj. Vidkun Quisling proclaimed in Oslo.

Negotiations Not Likely.

The Swedish radio reported there now was no question of negotiations between Norway and Germany. It said also that Carl J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament, would speak to his nation over the Swedish radio and reaffirm Norway's determination to resist.

Reports from Elverum said German attacks were repulsed "all along the line" and that there had been no further clashes for more than eight hours.

The Norwegian soldiers at Elverum were aided by hastily armed volunteers. The Germans were aided by fighting and bombing planes during the battle.

The Norwegian government and army general staff were said to have taken all their archives intact from Oslo to Elverum. The Bank of Norway was said to have got all its gold and bank notes out of Oslo safely. The royal family was reported safe.

Surprise 500 Soldiers.

Before reaching Elverum, the Germans had occupied the parade ground at Gardemoen, near Eidsvold, 30 miles north of Oslo. A large force of Norwegians which was ordered to occupy the ground failed to reach it before the Germans, who were transported by bus. Five hundred Norwegians were surprised near Eidsvold and disarmed without a fight.

Fierce fighting was reported between the Norwegians and Germans at Skarnes, 40 miles south of Elverum and only 30 miles from the Swedish border.

Details of the German occupation drifted into Sweden from the thousands of Norwegians taking refuge on this side of the border.

Eyewitness accounts of the attack by German planes and warships on Kristiansand fortress, on Norway's south coast, said the streets were filled with granite splinters and the spire of the cathedral was shot down. Crying women and children filled the air raid shelters for three hours until the fortress fell. Three or four buildings were set aflame.

EMPIRES RENEW PLEA FOR MORE U. S. AIRPLANES

Washington, D. C., April 10 (AP).—Agents for France and Britain renewed their attempts today to obtain more and later models of American military aircraft.

Arthur Purvis, head of the Anglo-French mission, and Sir Henry Self, British air expert, called on Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr., head of the President's commitee to coördinate foreign and domestic airplane purchasing.

Purvis said the conference concerned release of planes and added: "Naturally, we want everything the manufacturers can supply us."

Among the planes which have been made available to the empires is the new Grumman fighter, which was given its first public test this week. The plane has two 1,200 horse power Wright engines, is said to have a speed of 450 miles an hour, and carries two cannon and four machine guns.

GERMANY LOSES MOST VESSELS IN SEA CONFLICT

The sea battle which raged yesterday and Tuesday in Scandinavian waters, the greatest naval action since the battle of Jutland in the world war, already is believed to have claimed 25 ships, including actual fighting vessels and supply ships. There was a multitude of reports, many of them conflicting, but a total loss of 25 vessels seemed to summarize best the results of the fighting thus far. Each nation's estimated losses follow:

GERMAN.

Three troop transports, four cruisers, one warship of the pocket battleship class, two destroyers, one unspecified type of warship, seven supply ships. Of these reported 18 losses the Germans admitted only two cruisers had been sunk.

BRITISH.

Four destroyers, as reported by the Germans. London acknowledged only two destroyer losses.

NORWEGIAN.

Two warships, both of 4,116 tons, and a destroyer.

The battle actions were concentrated at four places—in the Skagerrak and at Narvik, Bergen, and Trondheim.

German Plans to Rule Norse Strike a Snag

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 10.—The Germans are having trouble in setting up a pro-Nazi régime in Norway, it was reported here today. Maj. Vidkun Quisling, despite his numerous friends among influential Nazi leaders, is having trouble forming a new government. The Nazis said they "do not intend to interfere in the internal government of the Norwegian kingdom."

The occupation of Denmark also did not run as smoothly as earlier German reports indicated. Today's German war communique admitted that "several short engagements" took place between German and Danish troops owing to the delayed transmission of orders.

However, it was claimed the fighting ended after the Danish commanders informed the troops of the government's orders to refrain from resisting. German papers told of "Danish prisoners who were treated very generously." They added that "one captain was even allowed to retain his pistol."

Hot Coffee Impresses Nazis.

The papers also were full of stories by German newspaper men, detailed as "P. K. or Propaganda Kompanie" with the invading forces, telling about the hot coffee they are enjoying in Denmark.

The Germans declared their troops are not "requisitioning foodstuffs in Norway and Denmark, but are paying for them." According to the Danes, these payments are being made in a special variety of German notes on the basis of two crowns to a mark. The Danes assert that the purchasing power of the crown is approximately that of one mark.

May Use Bases Against British.

German military circles have no illusions that the lightninglike occupation of the Norwegian coast is only a successful beginning of a daring enterprise involving grave risks, German newspapers said. Substantiating this, the German war communique said "the naval operations are still proceeding."

Authorized sources also said the Germans intend to use Norway as a base for further activities directed against England.

30 BRITISH SOLDIERS GUARD PACIFIC ISLE AGAINST GERMAN RAID

HONOLULU, April 10 (AP).—Sailors on the cableship Dickinson, returning from Fanning Island, said 30 British soldiers were stationed there to prevent a recurrence of the German raid on the island in the world war. Fanning Island is south of Hawaii.

ENGLAND'S NAVY TRAINS GUNS ON NORSE CAPITAL

Panicky Residents Flee from City.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 10 (AP).—Panic stricken residents of Oslo, the Norwegian capital occupied yesterday by the Germans, fled by every available conveyance today after British warships were reported to have forced the rocky Oslo fjord and threatened to bombard the city unless it was surrendered within a few hours by its masters.

The city was ordered emptied of its population at 11:15 a. m. (4:15 a. m. Chicago time) Wednesday. The British, said delayed dispatches reaching here by way of the Swedish-Norwegian frontier town of Charlottenberg, threatened to start shelling the town at 1 p. m., but whether the bombardment actually took place was not known.

Mothers Faint in Crush.

Long columns of cars, trucks, and buses began taking the civilians still in Oslo from the city.

The crowds at railway stations were so great it was almost impossible to push up to the gates. Mothers, with children in their arms, fainted in the crush.

About half the 250,000 population had left before the Nazis occupied the city.

The entry of the British into Oslo fjord was reported to have followed a long battle at the fjord entrance, in which the Germans were believed to have lost 40,000 tons of warships, including one vessel of the pocket battleship type, in contacts with both British guns and the navy and coastal artillery of the Norwegians.

Breaks Up Transport Fleet.

But this battle was only one piece of a giant jigsaw puzzle of sea action today that ranged from northern Norway at Narvik to within sight of the Swedish shore at the juncture of the Skagerrak and Kattegat.

One unit of the British navy plunged into the mined Skagerrak and broke up a fleet of 10 German troop transports in a three hour battle tonight within sight of the Swedish coast, sinking two of the transports and a destroyer.

Other units were reported to have recaptured Trondheim and Bergen, on the Norwegian west coast, from the Germans. An unconfirmed report indicated other British forces may have forced entry to Narvik, the ore port, after a first failure, and landed marines there.

Count Ten Troopships.

The shooting up of the German convoy was seen from Paternoster reefs, near the Island of Marstrand, where the arm of the North sea, the Skagerrak, meets an arm of the Baltic, the Kattegat.

Swedish fishermen, who at once manned their boats to attempt rescue work, counted 10 big gray German troopships escorted by warships endeavoring to stand off the British fleet.

They said two of the big transports went down. Other reports said a destroyer also was sunk. The roar of the naval guns began about 6 p. m. and continued for three hours, when the transport fleet appeared scattered.

Swarms of planes fought overhead above the smoke and gun flashes.

The battle took place just southwest of the Paternoster skerries, a group of low, rocky, barren reefs just outside Swedish west coast mainland waters and hardly more than 35 miles from the northern tip of Denmark.

C. J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament, himself announced the capture of Trondheim, where four German cruisers were reported anchored yesterday. Authoritative British quarters here said Bergen also was retaken.

That the Germans were having difficulty in Oslo fjord, water gateway to the capital which supposedly was cleared of opposition yesterday, was indicated earlier today in the distress signals of the German steamer Curityba. The messages said she was being fired on by coastal batteries at Nyviken, deep in the fjord.

Tonight, German planes were reported to have resorted to bombing small towns in the vicinity of the fjord. Huge fires were set in Drammen, Drobak, and Oskarsborg with the Norwegians apparently still in possession of the towns. Important fortifications near Oskarsborg were forced Monday by German warships.

Heavy Air Fighting.

The German ship of the pocket battleship type was reported sunk by the guns of the coastal fortress at Horten in Oslo fjord and by the cruiser and minelayer Olaf Trygvarson, Norway's newest warship. The Olaf Trygvarson is of 1,596 tons and carries four 4.7-inch guns.

The report did not say precisely whether one of the famous 10,000 ton pocket battleships, Luetzow [formerly the Deutschland] or Admiral Scheer was involved.

Heavy air fighting accompanied the naval action in the fjord, and a German destroyer which ran aground was bombed by British planes.

Norway lost her two largest warships, the 4,166 ton Norge and Eidsvold when the Germans seized Narvik, the ore port, early yesterday in a snow storm. Five hundred men of their crews were drowned or killed in the short lived action.

A Norwegian customs officer who boarded an incoming German whale oil ship discovered the Germans aboard were disguised soldiers, but was prevented from giving an alarm.

Then two German destroyers hove in view thru the blizzard and opened fire on the Norge and Eidsvold when they attempted to resist. A British steamer was sunk in the harbor.

A Reuters [British news agency] dispatch said that a German ship, presumably a transport, was sunk by the Norwegian destroyer Aeger during the occupation of Stavanger and that German planes later bombed and sank the Aeger.

FAR EAST FORCE WEAK, BRITISH AND FRENCH SAY

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 10 (AP).—Fear that Germany may move into southeastern Europe to secure oil and food supplies was heightened tonight by an admission of British and French officials in the near east. The British-French forces there are powerless at present, the officials said, to offer effective resistance.

Turkish officials said Turkey wants to call a new meeting of the Balkan entente within 10 days to try to line up Rumania, Greece and Jugo-Slavia with Turkey on the side of France and Britain.

BURNS FATAL TO REPAIRMAN.

Burns suffered while repairing an oil burner proved fatal in St. Luke's hospital yesterday to Edward Peters, 46 years old, of 117 South Halsted street.

GERMANS REPORT 4 BRITISH SHIPS SUNK; DAMAGE 12

Say Heaviest Toll Inflicted in Battle of Narvik.

German property, illegally handed over to Denmark by a plebiscite of the treaty of Versailles.

Germany's war needs will be supreme during the period of "protection" of Denmark and Norway, it was stressed today, but Germany does not intend to administer the two countries.

Since, however, the press and radio are considered military functions in time of war, authorized sources left little doubt but that some sort of German control would be established over these.

Economic Dependency.

Heretofore Denmark exported 55 per cent of her products, mostly agricultural, to England and 38 per cent to Germany. That she will supply only Germany now is self-evident.

As for Sweden, it was said there would be no interference if she saw her way clear to shipping noncontraband goods to Germany's enemies. But it was pointed out she will have a hard time routing such goods to England and France. In other words Sweden, even without German protection, seems completely in Germany's economic orbit.

Asked who would pay for the cost of the protection Germany is giving Norway, authorized sources merely smiled and said:

"If you mean it in a wider sense, England will, of course."

LONDON, April 10 (AP).—Gustav Pritz, Swedish minister to Great Britain, told a meeting of business men today that shipping between Sweden and Britain had been cut off entirely. "What's going to happen now I cannot say," he said. "There is nothing for us but to hope for the best and wait and see."

BRITISH SET GERMANS' NEW AIRPORT AFIRE

LONDON, April 11, Thursday (AP).—The air ministry early today reported two royal air force fighters set afire a refueling tank on a Norwegian airdrome yesterday, destroyed a German bomber, and badly damaged two others.

The ministry said the British aircraft while en route home engaged another German bomber which "is unlikely to have reached home."

A communique reported "two long range fighters searching over Norway for enemy aircraft sighted two enemy bombers about to land on an airdrome recently occupied by the enemy. In the face of intense antiaircraft and machine gun fire, both our aircraft immediately dived to attack. One enemy aircraft was destroyed and the other was very severely damaged. In addition, a refueling tank on the airdrome was set on fire and a third enemy bomber which was being refueled was damaged and probably destroyed in flames."

Ask Chicago Police to Save New Yorker from Gunmen

New York authorities asked Chicago police last night to try to save a New Yorker from gunmen believed to be plotting to kill him. The intended victim was said to be Sholem Bernstein, also known as Joseph Burman, who was believed to be in Chicago or on his way here from New York. The New York authorities gave several addresses at which Bernstein might be found and asked that he be taken into custody for his own protection in event he is located.

DIES IN HOSPITAL; PLAN INQUEST.

Henry Tilles, 51, of 31 South Sacramento avenue, died in Chicago State hospital yesterday, apparently of a heart attack. Because he was injured Dec. 4 in an auto accident at 79th street and Yates avenue, an inquest will be held.

JAPANESE DISCUSS POSSIBILITY OF NAZI DRIVE ON SCOTLAND

TOKIO, April 10.—Germany's invasion of Norway will be the prelude to warfare on a larger scale, it was believed here today. Among the possibilities discussed were a German invasion of Scotland, intensive air warfare against Britain and a general spring offensive.

The pro-German newspaper Hochi predicted that the United States might be involved, in which case Japan "will be forced to cast off its cloak of noninvolvement."

Most officials are impressed by the secrecy Germany maintained in the preparation of its moves on Denmark and Norway. Editorial comment dwells on the hard lot of neutrals, and blames England and Germany equally. Whereas, the Russian invasion of Finland was condemned, Germany's attack on Norway is condoned by acceptance of the plea that Britain first infringed on Norway's neutrality.

DENMARK SLICED OFF, BRITISH TRY A NEW 'GROCERY'

Look to Canada for Lost Supply of Food.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 10.—Besides naval and military problems, Britain today is faced with numerous others affecting food supplies, shipping, finance, national economy, and diplomacy as a result of the extension of the war to Scandinavia.

Denmark is the source of considerable food supplies, especially butter and bacon, both of which are being rationed, and the food ministry immediately announced arrangements with Canada which will enable the nation to keep its larders full.

However, as a result of the invasion the rationing, which allows eight ounces weekly per person for both products, is being reviewed. The nation was assured that exceptionally big supplies have arrived recently so no immediate shortage is expected.

Advantage for Trade Seen.

The board of trade announced the cessation of imports from Denmark in the long run will be advantageous as the trade balance between the countries always has favored Denmark. In 1938 England took 89 per cent of the Danish exports of meat, mostly bacon, 71 per cent of the egg exports, and 47 per cent of her fish. Total Danish bacon imports were equal to 32 weeks per capita consumption of the British under the rationing system. Denmark sent the equivalent of 20 eggs per person to Britain yearly. One-fourth of the total butter imports were Danish.

The food ministry said these averages have been reduced since the war started because the government has been making other provisions for these products in anticipation of German action.

Concern also is felt regarding the fate of British subjects and diplomatic agents who evidently have now fallen into German hands in Norway and Denmark.

Problem Over Shipping.

There also is a question over the status of the enormous Norwegian merchant marine. It is likely the "full association with Norway policy," which was announced by France and Britain, will bring these ships into control of the empires.

Economically, besides food, the shutting off of iron ore imports from Narvik would hit British industry.

Another effect on shipping was the immediate suspension of war risk insurance under the old rates for neutral ships now bound for Norway and Denmark.

The stock market suspended trading in Danish and Norwegian exchange and bonds.

TURKISH PAPERS LINK INVASION TO RED-NAZI PLAN

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 10.—Events in Scandinavia make any talk about neutrality "pure nonsense," Turkish newspapers said today. They asserted Germany's aggression against Norway and Denmark was clearly premeditated. They described it as part of the following soviet-German plan, saying that after the Russian gains in the Baltic states and Finland, Germany is getting her share of the bargain.

Most newspapers assert a vast plan for hegemony "that would extend over the whole of Europe, and perhaps the whole world, is being systematically worked out." In these circumstances, the papers say, there is no more sense in neutrality.

"It is clear that Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, and the Balkan countries," they add, "will in turn fall victims of ruthless aggression."

Hear Germans Free Prize Crew Taken Off the Flint

LONDON, April 10 (AP).—The Stockholm radio today reported that German forces in Trondheim had released the German prize crew taken off the American freighter, City of Flint, and interned by Norway five months ago. The City of Flint was handed back to her American crew after the German captors put into Norwegian territorial waters Nov. 3.

Nazi Naval Attache Quits Turkey; Hastens Home

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 10 (AP).—The German naval attaché left here today by special plane for Berlin. It was learned the trip was in response to a summons from the German capital for hastily called conferences.

HISTORY REPEATS AS NAVIES FIGHT NEW 'JUTLAND'

Parallel to Biggest Sea Fight of World War.

The present large scale naval engagement between British and German forces in the North sea inevitably recalls the greatest sea battle of the world war, called by the British the battle of Jutland and by the Germans the battle of the Skagerrak.

By a coincidence which neither Admiral Sir John Rushworth Jellicoe, in charge of the British grand fleet, nor Admiral Reinhard Scheer, German commander, expected, it was an engagement between the entire British and German fleets.

The battle was short but deadly. It began in the afternoon of May 31, 1916. Admiral Jellicoe, with 24 capital ships and 75 smaller vessels, was steaming southeast in the North sea to meet the remainder of the fleet under Admiral Beatty, 100 miles or so off Jutland. The German fleet was at sea steaming forth in an effort to draw the British ships into an area where U-boats were waiting to torpedo them. The German fleet did not, however, want a pitched battle.

Beatty Sights Enemy First.

Admiral Scheer hoped his fleet might cut off a portion of the royal navy and destroy it, either with U-boats or surface craft. The British, while willing to engage the German fleet under circumstances of their own choosing, did not wish a large scale battle in waters alive with submarines and mines.

At 2:15 p. m. Beatty wirelessed Jellicoe that the enemy had been sighted. Jellicoe, 75 miles distant, increased the speed of his fleet. Before aid arrived, however, the German ships had contacted Beatty's unit and by 4 p. m. a running fight was on. Two of Beatty's six battle cruisers were speedily sunk and, with Beatty's wireless out of commission during a large part of the time, Jellicoe did not know until 5 p. m. that the entire German fleet was at sea.

Shortly after 6 p. m. Jellicoe and Beatty were within sight of each other, altho smoke and haze cloaked the battle scene so that Jellicoe could not see the German armada. Jellicoe ordered his ships to deploy, placing the Germans, altho neither side knew it, in a perilous position. The poor visibility saved them. Scheer retreated and advanced three times, finally ordering torpedoes to be released.

German Fleet Flees.

The German fleet then fled. Jellicoe, seeing the torpedo barrage loosed, ordered his ships to scatter. Seven British ships, witnesses said, dodged the deadly missiles. The German fleet, meanwhile, was in full retreat. Because of the darkness, combined with the fog and smoke, Jellicoe decided against following the enemy.

Altho the German fleet never again ventured forth on the high seas during the two remaining years of war, both sides claimed victory. The savage fighting took a heavy toll. The British admitted losing 14 ships with a total tonnage of 114,100 as against Germany's 11 ships of 63,015 tons. German officials said they lost 2,683 men and the British 6,617. The British denied the mortality figures.

50 NORWEGIANS SEEK A WAY TO GET HOME FROM PARIS TO FIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 10.—Fifty Norwegians sat on their suitcases in the Norwegian legation here today and wondered how to get back to fight for their country. Business men and students of military age, they reported to the Norwegian minister as soon as they learned Germany had invaded their country. No orders concerning them have been received from Oslo.

Five hundred Norwegians are residents of France and most of them asked advice from the legation.

'HORSE OF TROY' NAZI INVASION TO FAIL—REYNAUD

Ore Route Permanently Cut, French Told.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 10.—Premier Paul Reynaud told France's senate today that Germany's "horse of Troy" invasion of Norway is certain to fail. The Nazis will not be able to save the sea route over which they have been receiving Swedish iron ore, the premier said, France and Britain having cut it.

"Whatever happens hereafter," he said, "we can affirm that for the duration of the war not a single ton of minerals will leave Narvik, Norway, for Germany. The sole permanent corridor of communications has been cut. For the allies this is a capital benefit."

Tells of Nazi Trick.

The premier said German combatants clad as merchant seamen had made their way into Norway and then donned battle raiment.

"The immediate future will tell what befalls these sailors who used the horse of Troy strategy," he contended.

[The premier's "horse of Troy" remark apparently referred to reports of Norwegian refugees that German troops were carried secretly into Narvik harbor aboard whaling ships.]

"Once the ephemeral booty of the invasion has been devoured," Reynaud continued, "one fact will remain. It is this: Germany will no longer be able to get food supplies by way of Denmark or Norway, for these two windows opening out on the deep are being closed. The allied blockade will be applied with all possible rigor in the regions now subject to German control.

"Hitler, who boasted many times of not scattering his forces from a single front, must now distract men and material to attempt to prevent the strangulation of his iron route."

German Fleet Exposed.

Reynaud said a great part of the German fleet now is exposed to the British-French sea forces. German ships that penetrated Norwegian ports are blocked there, he added.

Reynaud's speech was interrupted by applause half a dozen times, particularly when he announced that the Blucher and the Karlsruhe, German cruisers, had been sunk.

The premier was to have been questioned in a secret session about his war plans but developments caused the senate to postpone the questioning until April 16.

ICELAND TAKES CONTROL OF OWN FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Relations Formerly Ruled by Danish Officials.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, April 10 (AP). —Iceland's parliament, the oldest in the world, today took full control of this North Atlantic island's foreign affairs in view of the German occupation of Denmark, to which Iceland is linked by the Danish crown.

A resolution adopted unanimously said that the situation created by the German invasion of Denmark made it impossible for King Christian X., monarch of both Iceland and Denmark, to exercise his royal powers.

Denmark's principal part in administering Icelandic affairs was in foreign relations and fisheries inspection within territorial waters under the Danish-Icelandic union.

Guard Faroe Islands.

LONDON, April 10 (AP).—The empires, it was learned tonight, already had taken what they regard as adequate measures to prevent the tiny but strategically important Faroe Islands from falling into the hands of Germany. These islands, between Scotland and Iceland, belong to Denmark.

A spokesman said there were no indications of any German attempt to land on the Faroes or on Iceland, from which German bombers theoretically could raid Canada.

"Indeed, the allies intend to see that they do not land there, on Iceland or Greenland," the spokesman said.

[The Germans yesterday disclaimed any intention to occupy them.]

The Faroes, 22 hilly little islands, are 200 miles northwest of Britain's Shetland Isands.

Canada Discusses Greenland.

OTTAWA, Ontario, April 10 (AP).—Immediate fate of Greenland, a Danish possession, now that Germany has occupied Denmark looms in discussions here, but the external affairs department declined today to comment on whether Canada would take over supervision of this territory. The impression in Ottawa is that Greenland cannot be neglected because of the danger of its being used as a submarine or air base for German activities.

The decision will be whether it can be best patroled from Great Britain or Canada.

NAVY WILL SPEED BUILDING, REPAIR OF 13 WARSHIPS

Washington, D. C., April 10 (AP).—The navy took preliminary steps today to speed construction or repair of 13 warships and auxiliary vessels even before congress had completed action on a supply bill providing funds for the work.

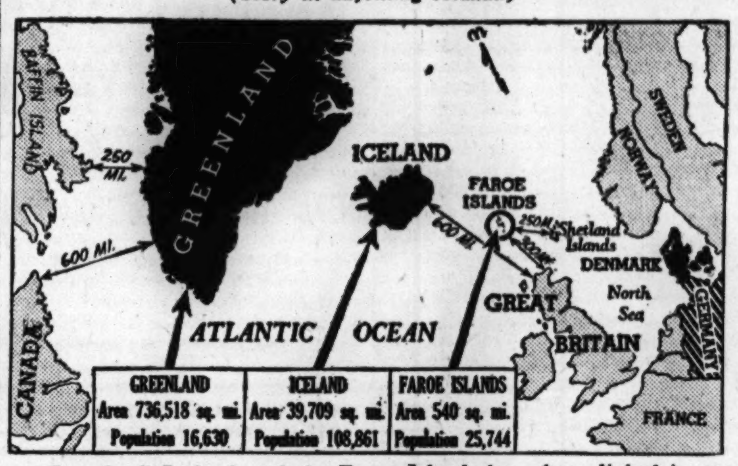
During the day a senate appropriations subcommittee approved legislation providing for naval expenditures of $967,414,878 for next year. This action was not taken, however, until after bids had been opened on the machinery for two seaplane tenders and bids had been requested for construction of two 10,000 ton cruisers and for machinery for six new and three existing submarines.

The bill approved by the subcommittee was $119,896,699 below regular and supplemental estimates of President Roosevelt and $642,878 above the house approved sum. The supplemental request, for $8,000,000, was made after the bill reached the senate and has not been acted upon by the house.

Fairbanks, Morse and company, Chicago, submitted a low bid of $1,435,350 on the propelling machinery for the two seaplane tenders.

Status of Danish Islands Changes

(Story in adjoining column.)



Greenland, Iceland, and the Faroe Islands have been linked in one degree or another to Denmark. Their fate, with Germany occupying Denmark, is expected to be linked closely with the empires. Canada is expected to step into Greenland because of the danger of its use as a German base. Iceland's parliament has taken full control of its own affairs. The empires already have taken steps to prevent the strategic Faroe Islands from falling into the hands of Germany.

NAZIS BOLSTER SOUTHERN TIP OF SIEGFRIED LINE

Dozens of Units Built in 2 Months.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 10.—Altho the theater of war has shifted to the north, the Germans are pushing their work to strengthen the southern extremity of the Siegfried line.

En route from Basel to Berlin on a train that runs for an hour along the Rhine on its way north to Freiburg, I saw that dozens of units had been added to the line since I passed it two months ago.

Some of the new fortifications have been completed but many are under construction. There is no attempt to hide the work from the French in the Maginot line strongholds across the Rhine. The river in this area is about 100 yards wide.

Play at War as Foe Looks On.

The German forces in this zone conduct themselves as tho the enemy were hundreds of miles away. I saw two dozen German soldiers with their rifles in their hands rush across a field and throw themselves on the ground. They arose, ran a little farther and flung themselves flat again. They repeated the maneuver and I first thought they were trying to advance to another outpost under the fire of the French. Then I noticed several soldiers calmly walking along the edge of the same field. The troops flinging themselves on the ground, I was told, were practicing attacking in line of skirmishers. Gabby Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs, standing on the French side, could have hit them with a baseball.

Smoke Betrays Forts.

Some of the new fortifications are of reinforced concrete and project above ground. Others are underground in grass covered fields and their presence is betrayed only by stove pipes from which smoke curls.

Altho most of the completed fortifications are camouflaged with grass or shrubbery on the Rhine side, they are visible from the rear. At the back of many of them German soldiers linger like a group of youths at a corner drug store.

Occasionally, where a military road runs along a ridge, the Germans have erected brush screens about six feet high to obstruct the enemy's view,

Envoys in Denmark Pay King a Farewell Visit

BERLIN, April 10 (AP).—A DNB, German official news agency, report from Copenhagen said that King Christian of Denmark today received the British, French and Polish ministers in a farewell audience.

BUSY COPENHAGEN SWALLOWS UP ARMY OF ITS 'PROTECTORS'

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, April 10 (AP).—The German occupation of Copenhagen moved ahead with clockwork-like regularity today but most of the city showed no sign that an alien war machine was controling the country's destinies. War transport vehicles moved into the city carrying German warriors, but they were quickly absorbed in the busy capital. German machine gun units and sentries guarded some strategic points but on most streets in the business districts there were only the usual crowds of pedestrians.

There was little question that the German army was well established in the city by nightfall. It was assumed the Germans had set up defense equipment in and around the city.

Their new situation was brought closer home to the Danes today with publication of a decree limiting the purchase of household necessities to four days' supply. The government's first move, after accepting German "protection" under protest, was to take into the cabinet six new members representing both left and right parties to give it wider political representation.

Tribune Color Map Helps Classes Follow War News

The CHICAGO TRIBUNE color map of the Scandinavian countries, published in late editions yesterday and in early editions of today's paper, helped Chicagoans to keep up with the war news. Among the many schools where the map was put to use was the Gage Park High school, 56th and Rockwell streets, where social science classes gathered around the map to follow developments in the northward spread of the European war.

PRESIDENT BARS U. S. SHIPS FROM NEW ZONE OF WAR

Norse Coast and Russian Ports Put Under Ban.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—President Roosevelt today proclaimed all of the coast of Norway and part of arctic Russia as within the European war zone barred to United States shipping.

Mr. Roosevelt extended the zone which until today began at the north coast of Spain, circled the British Isles and the North sea, ending at Bergen, Norway. It was enlarged to take in all Norwegian territorial waters and the Kanin Penninsula, which is Russian territory.

The barred waters of Russia include its arctic ports, such as Murmansk, where Germany once held the American freighter City of Flint, and Archangel, on the White sea, where the United States had an expeditionary force at the close of the world war. The zone now includes the narrow strip of land which Russia allowed Finland to retain on the arctic circle.

No Action on Status.

No action was taken by the President to list Norway or Denmark as belligerents. The White House is awaiting full reports from diplomatic sources to determine whether a state of war exists in Scandinavia. In the Russo-Finnish war, neither the Finnish nor Russia arctic coast was declared in the war zone because this government maintained—as it does in China—that there was no war because one had not been declared.

The President's proclamation closed all northern Europe to American shipping.

The only European routes left open to American ships are to Portugal, Spain, and neutral nations in the Mediterranean.

Immediately after announcement of the proclamation, Secretary of State Cordell Hull issued supplementary regulations which are somewhat more strict than those issued when the original war zone was defined. At that time ships en route to the war zone were allowed to continue to their ports of destination. Modified regulations do not permit this.

Three U. S. Ships in Zone.

American vessels in the newly defined war area are not affected. At present there are three American ships, all of the Moore-McCormack Line, in Norwegian harbors.

No plans have been made for the removal of Americans now in Norway and Denmark, Hull reported at his press conference, because the state department has been unable to communicate with its officials in the two nations for 24 hours. Late in the afternoon word was received from Copenhagen via Berlin that Minister Ray Atherton and his staff are safe and well. There are about 3,000 American nationals in Norway and Denmark.

Late this evening the President issued an executive order freezing all balances and foreign exchange transactions in this country involving Norway and Denmark and their nationals. Similar orders were issued at the time of the German absorption of Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, and Poland.

This action followed an earlier order to the Federal Loan administration to mark time on advancing authorized credits of 36 million dollars granted the Scandinavian countries by the Export-Import bank.

Confer on Credits.

Mr. Roosevelt acted on the advice of Lending Administrator Jesse Jones and Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, with whom he conferred at noon.

The decision affected loans of 10 million dollars to Norway, 10 millions to Denmark, 15 millions to Sweden, and 1 million to Iceland.

Under bank regulations the money can be drawn only when the authroized nation presents receipts for purchases of American goods other than war materials.

"We discussed with the President the loans to the Scandinavian countries," Jones said, "and agreed that, for the time being, we would stop, look, and listen—at least for a few days. We will wait and see how things go over there.

"The credits are all for exports and they have no way to get the goods over there."

American Ships Barred from New Zone

(Story in adjoining column.)

The diagonal lines on water mark area from which American shipping has been barred. The southern part of the zone was closed at the start of the European war last fall. Waters north of the broken line were closed by proclamation yesterday.

British Down Four Bombers as Nazis Raid Scapa Flow

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 11, Thursday.—Waves of German bombers last night raided Scapa Flow, British naval anchorage in the Orkney Islands, north of Scotland, the admiralty and the air ministry announced this morning.

At least four of the raiders were shot down, three by antiaircraft guns and another by a fighter plane, it was said. Two other raiders were damaged so severely that it was believed they could not return to their base.

Two Downed in Moray Firth.

Only a few hours earlier, the British said, two other German bombers were shot down while attempting to raid a convoy in Moray firth, in extreme northern Scotland. The ships fell into the firth. A third bomber was believed to have been destroyed.

In their raid on Scapa Flow the Germans flew in formations of varying size and kept the district in a state of alarm for two hours beginning at 8:30.

Towns Machine Gunned.

The planes dropped bombs and made machine gun attacks against the towns of Stromness and Kirkwall, which is a contraband control base. No warship was damaged, said the British, but a service man in a village was shot thru a foot.

The raids presumably were intended to divert reinforcements from the British fleet battling Germans in Scandinavian waters.

Infantry Active at Front.

PARIS, April 10 (AP).—"Local infantry activity at various points of the front" said the British-French high command's communique tonight.

VATICAN'S DELEGATES ORDERED TO PHONE WAR REPORTS TO POPE

ROME, April 10.—Pope Pius XII. today was reported to have instructed all nuncios and apostolic delegates in western, central, and northern Europe to communicate directly by telephone to the secretariat of state all the important developments of the war.

This morning he ordered several prelates to take down reports of broadcasts made in the belligerent countries, and instructed Msgr. Montini, head of his private secretariat, to telephone him the most important items. Theodore Suhr, apostolic vicar to Denmark, was able to reach the Vatican by telephone from Copenhagen, so the pope had a complete account of the German occupation of that country.

Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's special envoy, arrived here from Florence today to keep in touch with the Vatican and report to President Roosevelt on the attitude of the pope toward the latest German coup.

BELGIANS, DUTCH TIGHTEN GERMAN BORDER DEFENSES

THE HAGUE, the Netherlands, April 10 (AP).—The Netherlands and Belgium reaffirmed their determination to defend their independence and neutrality today, acting to forestall any surprise attempt to embroil them in the spreading European war. In addition to general "precautionary" measures, both countries tightened restrictions along their borders with Germany.

The eastern Netherlands provinces of Limburg and Gelderland were virtually isolated as roads and bridges were closed to ordinary traffic. German soldiers pushed antitank barricades across roads leading to the Netherlands border. On both sides of the Belgian-German border troops felled hundreds of trees to clear lines of fire.

The Belgian press echoed official assertions that the defense forces were in such an advanced state of preparedness that further measures were unnecessary. The semiofficial Belga news agency said today that, while soldiers on leave had not been recalled, no new leaves would be granted. The Netherlands stepped up defense precautions by canceling practically all leaves for the armed services. It ordered all lights kept on night and day to distinguish the country from blacked-out belligerents.

LOGANSPORT CLOTHIER DIES.

MORE AMERICANS TO LEAVE FOR FRENCH FRONT

PARIS, April 10.—French army officials and members of the American colony attended a luncheon here today in honor of the young Americans who this week will go to the French front as drivers with the Myron T. Herrick section of the American Volunteers ambulance service. This is the second section of the service formed under the auspices of the world war veterans, the American Legion and other world war services.

Cars of the Pershing section of the service were the first American ambulances to go to the front. In five weeks they have carried 1,800 cases from the front lines.

There are 26 drivers in the section of 20 ambulances, each donated by Americans.

PREPARE TO SHUT HONGKONG TO ANY SHIPS, PLANES

HONGKONG, April 10 (AP).—In a general tightening of wartime restrictions, British colonial authorities were today empowered to forbid the entry into or departure from Hongkong of ships and aircraft of any nationality and use force to do so.

Other steps announced today provide more stringent censorship, a ban on association or communication with any person who may "even be believed to be engaged in assisting the enemy," and heavy penalties for sabotage.

American interests are affected insofar as Hongkong is a regular port of call for several American shipping lines and is the far eastern terminus of Pan American Airways' trans-Pacific passenger and mail service.

HIT-RUN KILLER'S AMAZING LUCK IN COURT DISCLOSED

Kept License and Escaped 99 Days in 3 Cases.

The amazing court record of Norman Haiges, 37 years old, a hit and run motorist who climaxed several hours of tavern drinking last week by driving his truck into a mother and daughter and killing them as they stood waiting for a street car, was disclosed yesterday by the files of the Municipal court.

In the last four years Haiges, a partner in an oil reclaiming business, has been sentenced to jail on three occasions—twice for drunk driving and once for reckless driving. Under the three sentences he was to have served a total of 130 days in the county jail. Actually, however, he served only 31 days, the files show.

Privileges Never Revoked.

Beyond this, the records indicate that in none of the three offenses were Haiges' driving privileges revoked. In addition, police report that when he surrendered on the day after the fatal hit and run accident last week a state driver's license, certifying his legal right to drive an automobile in Illinois, was found in his possession.

The Chicago Motor club yesterday launched an independent investigation of the case. Charles M. Hayes, the president, said that the club's legal department will take the matter up with officials of the court and the secretary of state's office in Springfield to determine what action may be taken to keep such drivers off the streets.

Haiges' victims were Mrs. Margaret Baine, 45, and Miss Lydia Baine, 25, both typists, who lived at 2619 Jones street. They were struck down at Halsted and Van Buren streets on the night of April 2 when Haiges, who had driven his truck in front of a Halsted street car, swerved it into them to avoid the street car.

Admits Having 10 Drinks.

At the coroner's inquest Haiges' brother, Ralph, a passenger in the truck at the time of the accident, accused Haiges of having insisted on driving the truck after consuming 15 drinks of whisky. Haiges admitted that he had had at least 10 drinks. He was held to the grand jury for manslaughter.

Haiges' first offense was on June 3, 1936, when he was arrested for driving while intoxicated. Records show that on June 12 Judge Gibson E. Gorman sentenced him to 10 days in jail. However, Judge Gorman considered the sentence served because Haiges already had been in jail for eight days. Thus he was released immediately after having been found guilty.

Questioned as to why he had not revoked Haiges' driving rights, Judge Gorman said that it was his custom at that time either to impose a jail sentence or revoke driving privileges, but not to inflict both punishments on such a defendant.

Served 23 Out of 90 Days.

Haiges was even more fortunate in his second offense. On March 28, 1938, he was sentenced to 90 days in jail by Judge James M. Braude for reckless driving with his truck. But he served only 23 days, being released April 20 when a motion to vacate was heard. Incomplete court records fail to show what disposition was finally made in this case, but they do show that Haiges again was allowed to retain his driving privileges. Newspaper clippings of the case show that he appeared before Judge Braude with his wife and four children and pleaded that his truck was their sole means of livelihood.

"I do not recall the case, but I know that in such cases at the time, if it was a choice of taking away driving privileges and thus making state charges of the defendant and his family, we sometimes allowed him to keep on driving on the chance that he would straighten out," said Judge Braude. "This might have been such a case."

Escaped 30 Day Term.

On Jan. 12, 1939, Judge Jay Schiller found Haiges guilty of drunk driving and sentenced him to 30 days in jail. Again, however, on Haiges' plea that if he should be sent to jail his family would be destitute Judge Schiller postponed sentence until May 19, then placed Haiges on probation for six months. He retained the right to drive his truck.

"Haiges earned his living with the truck," Judge Schiller said. "If I had taken away his driving rights or sent him to jail his wife and children would have become state wards. I didn't feel right in doing that, so I put him on probation."

Judge Schiller said that, prior to last May 1 when the Illinois drivers' license law went into effect, revocation of driving privileges was a haphazard procedure at best. He said that it was probable that at the time Haiges appeared before him the court had no knowledge of the two previous convictions.

Mexico, Mo., April 10 (AP).—J. E. Turner, 28 years old, pilot and Robert Melson, 23, were killed tonight at the city airport when their airplane crashed in an attempted after dark landing. The two had gone for a ride after finishing work late today and were seen flying over the city shortly before dusk. Neither the city airport, nor Green airport are equipped with lights for night landing. Persons who viewed the wreckage said the motor probably failed when pilot was about to land.

COURT RESEATS OFFICIAL OUSTED BY GOV. RIVERS

Upholds Contempt Fines Against Five.

Atlanta, Ga., April 10 [Special].—The Georgia Supreme court today ruled in effect that Gov. E. D. Rivers exceeded his authority when, last Dec. 2, he discharged W. L. Miller as state highway chairman and subsequently barred his return to office by proclamation of martial law in defiance of a state court injunction.

The Supreme court handed down decisions on an appeal made in behalf of Gov. Rivers and his highway department aids on a lower court's action in three mandamus and quo warranto cases. Miller had obtained an injunction in the lower court—the Lanier county Superior court at Lakeland—against interference with his duties as highway chairman.

Miller Restored to Board.

The Supreme court's rulings today restored Miller to full membership of the state highway board and to the chairmanship. It declared Commissioner James L. Gillis lost his board membership when he resigned his own place to take Miller's. It also declared that Commissioners L. L. Patten and Herman Watson are required to recognize Miller as chairman of the board.

Furthermore, the decision upheld the sentences pronounced by the Lanier court against Commissioner Patten, Marvin Griffin, aid to the governor, R. C. Ulmer, D. R. Longino, and Woody Wilson, capitol guards. They were adjudged in contempt of court for interfering with Miller and twice ejecting him from the highway building by order of the governor.

Judge W. R. Smith of the Lanier court had fined the five men $200 each on the contempt charges.

Court Is Unanimous.

All six members of the court concurred in today's decisions.

"The law contemplates that the state highway board shall consist of three members, one of whom shall be chairman," the court held. "The law prescribes fixed terms for these officials and does not confer upon the governor the power of removal with respect thereto."

Commenting upon the contempt cases, Chief Justice Charles S. Reid said: "A person who ignores or violates a court order is guilty of contempt if he has knowledge of the order, even tho it had not been actually served upon him."

Gov. Rivers withheld comment on the court's ruling. He left the capital by auto for his home in southern Georgia where it was said he would study the decisions.

How'd You Like 26 Vacations This Summer?

SURE—you can live through it—that stretch of four dreary months before you kiss this town goodbye.

But—how would you like to get away Friday for a real vacation? We mean this. And it goes for every week-end in the year, too!

Come down and look at this 1940 Nash today—and see how easy it is.

To begin with—there's no need to pack up, or carry along a tent or wire ahead for lodgings. Not with a Nash! It has a big Convertible Bed so that you can drive right up to where the big fish live—and camp on their doorstep.

Don't worry about going too far. Under that sleek hood is a big 99 H.P. engine that will whisk you to your favorite spot a couple of hours sooner. As for economy—it's a 1940 Gilmore-Yosemite economy winner—best in its class with 23.76 miles per gallon.

So get behind the wheel. Tap your toe . . . flick a gear lever . . . and head for the lakes.

In the tireless, mile-gobbling gait of the Fourth Speed Forward, you find that distance doesn't matter anymore.

A straggler blocks the way—but you tap the Automatic Overtake . . . and sprint right by him.

Soon you're far up in the hills . . . the road is rough and winding—but you never notice it or feel it in the wheel. With Nash's new Arrow-Flight Ride, you cruise along as smooth and steady as a duck on a lily pond.

A few hours more and you're there—'way at the other end of the road map . . . still as fresh and rested as when you started. And you're sure no other car has ever been as much fun and pleasure to drive—as this 1940 Nash.

So hurry up, Mister—the week-end's coming and those fish won't wait. Get out your rods and get going now.

That's the price at the right. The way we feel about it, we print it boldly. Compare it with what you have to pay for a smaller All-3 car.

We believe that—dollar for dollar—Nash is America's greatest value. And we can prove this with the Automobile X-Ray.

Because we put every bit of our $45,000,000 of resources solidly behind this one make of car—it costs you less to get a lot more.

For instance—a 7-bearing crankshaft instead of the usual 3 or 4 . . . a double instead of a single frame, and 300 pounds more of fine materials and features give you extra safety, longer life, higher resale value.

Hurry, man! Get started right on your week-end vacations. Drop in today; see our exhibit, take a ride!

Sedan illustrated is Lafayette Series, delivers at factory for $845. The Weather Eye, Fourth Speed Forward, White Sidewall Tires, Rear Wheel-Shields are optional extras. 2,000 dealers offer nation-wide service. Other Nash models deliver at the factory for as little as . . . $795

DEWEY CARRIES DOWNSTATE IN G. O. P. TRIUMPH

Receives More Votes than Both Democrats.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Two highlights stood out last night in the downstate Illinois voting on presidential preferences as more complete results of Tuesday's primaries were received.

1. Thomas E. Dewey was rolling up more Republican votes outside Cook county than President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner combined on the Democratic side. Dewey had no opponent in the Republican primary.

2. The Dewey vote plus Garner vote in the entire state promised to surpass the Roosevelt vote.

One political theory has been that most Garner votes would go Republican if the President were nominated for a third term. When returns on the preferential primary stopped coming in for the night, 1,200 precincts were missing of the 3,960 downstate total.

Garner Gets 17 Per Cent.

The vote in 3,292 downstate precincts gave Roosevelt 372,399; Garner, 76,011. Garner, who made no campaign, was getting about 17 per cent of the Democratic ballots.

In 2,760 downstate precincts, Dewey had 429,484 Republican ballots. They were from 532 fewer precincts than those giving the Garner and Roosevelt vote as above.

If these ratios continued thru the missing precincts, the total downstate figures would give Roosevelt 447,955 votes, Garner 91,400, and Dewey 616,622. In these extensions Dewey would have 53.33 per cent of all votes cast on presidential preference downstate. Roosevelt would have 38.76 per cent and Garner 7.91 per cent.

Roosevelt Wins Cook County.

In Cook county, where 389 precincts are missing, Roosevelt has twice as many votes as Dewey. Garner has garnered about 12.5 per cent of the vote. As the tally now stands, with 1,589 precincts missing, the bulk of them in Republican downstate—out of a total of 8,336 precincts in Illinois Roosevelt has 1,023,622 votes, Garner 169,997, and Dewey 760,014.

If the percentages so far prevailing are applied to the missing precincts the extended vote in Illinois is: Roosevelt, 1,162,600; Garner, 282,000; Dewey, 977,900. Of this projected total of 2,422,500 votes, Roosevelt has 48 per cent; Dewey and Garner combined have 52 per cent.

Republicans found cause for claiming the primary results show the Republican swing which started two years ago is increasing in Illinois. The primary vote was not a large one in totals. The incomplete returns now indicate the Democratic total vote will be in the neighborhood of 1,450,000 and that the Republican vote will be around 1,000,000.

Comparisons with 1936, 1938.

If final figures uphold these indicated totals, the Republican primary vote will be almost as large as in 1936, when it was 1,077,000, while the Democratic vote will be about 150,000 less than in 1936, when it was 1,597,000. The Republican vote would show a gain of 200,000 over the party's 1938 primary vote of 806,000. The Democratic vote would be a drop of 290,000 from the 1938 primaries when it ran up to 1,744,000.

As the Republicans looked over the table of counties, they saw prospects of predominance in Illinois in November. In Sangamon county, seat of the Springfield statehouse machine, which put the President's name on the ballot without his written consent, as required by law, Roosevelt had 19,242 votes, Garner, 3,577. Dewey got 26,583. In McLean county, heart of the corn belt, Roosevelt had 7,344; Garner, 1,292; Dewey, 12,950. Will county gave Roosevelt 11,530; Garner, 1,049; Dewey, 18,550.

City Extends Date of Curb on Package Liquor Sales

The date on which the city ordinance banning sale of liquor packages in drug, grocery, and department stores becomes effective was extended yesterday from April 30 to Oct. 31 by the city council. The ordinance was passed last year.

TWO GET PRISON TERMS FOR FIELD STORE ROBBERY

Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court sentenced Walter Hugh, 34 years old, and Howard Sallows, 32, to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary yesterday when they admitted the $17,400 robbery in Marshall Field & Co.'s loop store Feb. 25. The judge agreed to hear arguments tomorrow on a reduction of the sentence.

Hugh, a WPA painter living at 1641 Millard avenue, and Sallows, a money guard in the store who lives in Geneva, were boyhood friends in Minneapolis. They met here again last Christmas and plotted the robbery, carefully rehearsing it and arranging a set of signals. As Sallows was escorting a cashier into an elevator Hugh, who was unarmed, stepped in, disarmed him, produced a key to the money chest, and made off with a zipper bag containing the money. Most of the cash was recovered later.

Hugh's wife and three children and Mrs. Sallows, the mother of two daughters, were in court. When the defendants pleaded for leniency Judge Prystalski said: "You have violated the law and I cannot send you back to your families, as sorry as I feel personally."

END GOVERNMENT CASE IN MUSICA MAIL FRAUD TRIAL

New York, April 10 (AP).—The government rested its case today in the mail fraud and conspiracy trial of five men who were connected with affairs of the late F. Donald Coster-Musica's McKesson & Robbins drug empire.

Fifty witnesses testified for the prosecution, and the government offered about 650 exhibits. The defense introduced 175 more exhibits during cross examination.

Assistant Federal Attorney Kaufman announced that the government was withdrawing one of the 10 mail fraud charges in the indictment. The indictment, in addition to the mail fraud charges, contains one count of conspiracy and three counts charging violation of the securities and exchange act.

Coster-Musica, an ex-convict, gained control of the McKesson & Robbins drug company and engaged in a series of financial operations. He committed suicide when his operations were exposed.

STUDY JUDICIARY COALITION FOR JUNE 3 ELECTION

Possibility of a coalition movement is seen in the almost simultaneous convening of the Democratic and Republican Cook county judicial conventions this afternoon.

The Democrats are called to meet in the Roosevelt room of the Morrison hotel at 2 p. m. and the Republicans will gather in the Crystal room of the Hotel Sherman at 3 p. m. By this arrangement, negotiations will be possible between the two sessions and it is reported that sides are more than half willing to agree on a joint ticket if one can be worked out.

Having had barely enough time to catch their breaths after the hard primaries of Tuesday, both Democrats and Republicans are reluctant to face a new campaign for the judicial election on June 3. Five of the Superior court judges whose terms expire are Democrats and the Caverly vacancy on the Circuit bench is considered a Democratic place.

LIKE—YET UNLIKE

By CALEB

"IT IS remarkable," said my adviser of the moment, "what a 'Golden Age' of interestingness has centered round the creation of fine art objects and gracious wares for the home. I account for it on two grounds: the fact that America has gradually become a Mecca for the best talent, and the further fact that so much talent has concentrated itself on new materials, processes and forms."

To illustrate his thought, he took me first to the current display of Argental tea and coffee services, pitchers and buffet accessories in our china section. "Before us," he commented, "is an instance in point. Some years ago, foreseeing the probable difficulties of obtaining fine merchandise from Europe as regularly as before, Max Wille organized the 'Metalcraft Guild,' modeled after similar groups that have existed abroad for centuries. The guild idea in Europe — of which the Wiener Werkstaetten and Deutsche Werkstaetten were famous instances—operated as distributing centers for the products of recognized craftsmen not equipped to do their own marketing on an adequate scale.

"The Metalcraft Guild functions in precisely the same way for numerous craftsmen with workshops in different parts of the United States. These Argental pieces embody fine handcraftmanship to the maximum, working with certain exclusive processes on a non-tarnishing alloy startlingly like, yet unlike, aluminum in many of its properties. And being produced in widely varying locations, each piece carries the stamp of individuality expressing its particular producer's own artistry. Beside brilliancy of execution in the design itself, this ware also has a distinctive 'color,' or soft cast, wiped onto the metal in the final buffing, which differentiates it both from silver and from aluminum."

Over on the Washington street side of the second floor we found further novel originality and new subtlety of finish—in the work of Carl Sorenson. "One of our best-known Danish designers and craftsmen," my companion remarked, "Sorenson specialized for years in intensive study of ancient bronzes. His purpose: to achieve, by some modern chemical process, an equivalent of the magnificent shading and color which centuries have given to the patina of pieces found in Pompeii, China and Syria. And, as you see, he has uniquely succeeded. These genuine bronzes not only boast masterly form, but seem to have been antiqued by Time itself." . . .

To lovers of truly fine things, today's practical artwares afford a scope of selection that makes any hour spent in reviewing them educationally profitable.

ASSEMBLY RACES PRODUCE UPSETS IN LATE COUNTING

Slain Representative Given South Side Vote.

Numerous upsets and surprises featured the voting Tuesday for nomination to the Illinois legislature. There were several close races still in progress last night with a few precincts missing or results disputed.

Representative Stanley E. Martynowski was beaten by Eugene P. Dukes, young florist, in the west side 27th legislative district. The defeat was about two to one.

Final results in the 3d district on the south side drastically altered early returns, giving one of two Republican house nominations to a dead man. He is Representative A. Andrew Torrence, colored, who was killed by a disgruntled former precinct worker the day before the primary.

Death Called Murder.

A coroner's jury decided yesterday that Torrence had been murdered by Cornelius Woodward, also colored, of 3558 Indiana avenue, who was captured and died of copper sulphate poisoning a short time later. A verdict of suicide was returned at an inquest into Woodward's death.

Torrence's name received 4,440 votes against 2,402 for the third high man, Joseph E. Snowden, colored. Mrs. Mabel Reinecke and Harry Lipsky, members of the election commission, said that Torrence's vote will be proclaimed the same as tho he were alive. John F. Tyrrell, attorney for the Republican county central committee, said the "vacancy" will then be filled by the G. O. P. senatorial committee for the district.

However, in 1926 the election board ruled differently. Francis P. Brady, a Republican candidate for clerk of the appellate court, died on the eve of primary day. Most votes were cast for his name. The board certified that the nominee was the next high candidate, William Walter Scott.

Skarda Holds Good Lead.

In the 15th district, on the west side, Representative Edward E. Skarda held a good lead, 13,929 to 11,449, over James J. Polodna, who received Democratic organization support. Skarda had been given the blessing, but when he got into the ward committeeman race it was taken away from him. "Who says the machine can't be beaten?" Skarda remarked.

The Rogers Park-Evanston district, the 6th, maintained a lively interest in the G. O. P. house contest. With seven precincts missing, Alan E. Ashcraft Jr., apparently had one of the two house nominations of his party cinched with 36,929 votes. Charles W. Swanson, who in 1935 was nominee for city treasurer, had 36,552 and former Senator James J. Barbour had 36,509 votes.

Republicans seemingly had returned both incumbents in the 8th district house battle [Lake, McHenry, and Boone counties]. However, C. Russell Allen, with 19,788 votes, was still within striking distance of Representative Harold Kelsey, who had 22,057, with seven precincts missing. Representative Nick Keller was safely ahead with 28,098.

MRS. DOROTHY PYLE.

Mrs. Dorothy Pyle, 28 years old, a waitress, testified yesterday that her husband, Delbert, tore off her uniform and wrapped it around her head in the course of a quarrel. Delbert is an electrician.

"Was he trying to short circuit you?" asked Judge Joseph Sabath. Mrs. Pyle said she guessed so. She was granted a divorce on the ground of cruelty.

The couple married Oct. 2, 1937, and separated Feb. 1, 1939. Mrs. Pyle lives at 6150 Greenwood avenue.

IOWA REPUBLICAN GROUP FIGHTS TO RETIRE SPANGLER

Des Moines, Ia., April 10 [Special]. —A showdown on the fight to unseat Harrison E. Spangler of Cedar Rapids as national committeeman is expected to overshadow all other events during the Iowa Republican convention here Friday and Saturday.

Harrison E. Spangler.

Spangler, 60 year old attorney who has held the post of national committeeman since 1932, is encountering opposition from a wing of the party whose candidate is Martin M. Cooney, 39 year old war veteran from West Union.

Backing Cooney are four Republican state leaders, one of whom is former Gov. Dan Turner of Corning. Turner, in 1930 during his successful race for the governorship, attempted to read Spangler, then state chairman, out of the party.

A poll of the 2,025 convention delegates made by a Des Moines newspaper indicates the drive to oust Spangler may fail. The poll showed that 55.9 per cent of the delegates who replied would support Spangler, 35.4 per cent would back Cooney, and 8.7 per cent had no choice or preferred other possible candidates.

Investigate Red Flag on Nebraska U. Campus

Lincoln, Neb., April 10 [Special].—The police department is investigating the appearance last Friday morning of a communist flag on University of Nebraska stadium. The incident was dismissed at first as a college prank, but the American Legion auxiliary's Americanism committee demanded assurance some action was being taken. A swastika banner appeared on the campus of Chadron Teachers' college after the school publication had condemned the University of Nebraska pranksters.

IT'S ONE ON JOE AND A BARREL ON THE HOUSE

Everything (Up to One Beer) Is Free.

The rim of hair around Joe Flynn's bald pate became grayer yesterday as unwanted publicity brought thirsty but moneyless hordes to the door of his tavern at 1246 North Clark street.

Flynn at empty till.

Mr. Flynn is by way of being a politician. He supported Dwight H. Green in the Republican primary and was assisting in the jubilation Tuesday evening when he learned of the trouble that was going to beset him.

"I am certainly going to be over tomorrow," said one of his friends. "But I don't see yet how you can afford to give away so much."

"So much what?" said Mr. Flynn.

"Everything," said the friend. He displayed this handbill:

> FREE FREE
> FREE FOOD - - FREE DRINKS
> AT > GRAND OPENING of the
> ORIENTAL ROOM
> AT
> FLYNN'S INN
> 1246 N. Clark Street Between 7 and 10 P.M.
> Wednesday Night, April 10, 1940
> EVERYTHING FREE
> Dance to the music of Marvin's Orchestra
> YOUR MONEY WON'T BE ANY GOOD!
> BE THERE AT 7 PROMPTLY
> JOE FLYNN
> Mayor of Clark Street

Mr. Flynn said the handbill was a forgery. He slept badly Tuesday night, and yesterday he was out tearing down as many of the orange bills as he could find. Then, knowing the work was incomplete, he laid in an extra barrel of beer and hoped for the best.

At 6 p. m. the line began to form. There were a lot of hoboes in it. Mr. Flynn mounted a keg and told them it was all a mistake, but that he intended to stand a drink for everybody who had come more than a mile. Everybody had, and the barrel of beer vanished.

After that Mr. Flynn hung a sign on the door, "NO FREE DRINKS."

"I can't understand who would do this to me," said he. "It must have been some Democrats."

Revive Two Found Near Suffocation in Fruit Car

Stanley Gill, 22 years old, and Kenneth Ponder, 20, of Corpus Christi, Tex., were revived by firemen yesterday when they were found unconscious and close to suffocation in a fruit car in the railroad yards at 254 South Water street. They entered the car thru a ventilator at Champaign in Champaign county, and the ventilator closed against them. An oil heater used to maintain proper temperatures for a cargo of bananas consumed the oxygen in the air.

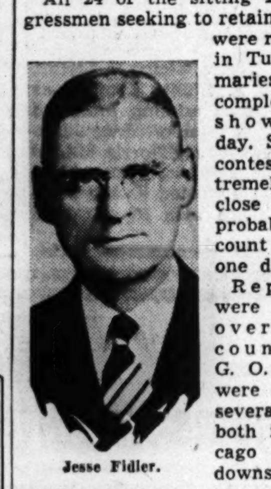
24 INCUMBENTS RENOMINATED IN CONGRESS RACES

Republicans Show Gains in Many Districts.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

All 24 of the sitting Illinois congressmen seeking to retain their posts were renominated in Tuesday's primaries, virtually complete returns showed yesterday. Some of the contests were extremely close—so close there will probably be a recount in at least one district.



Jesse Fidler.

Republicans were jubilant over the vote counts. Sizable G. O. P. gains were shown in several districts, both in the Chicago area and downstate.

Some leaders predicted that the Republicans will take at least three or four more seats from the Democrats in November, which would give the G. O. P. an Illinois majority for the first time in 10 years. Of the 25 Illinois district congressmen, 10 are now Republicans and 15 are Democrats.

Hot Fight in 15th.

One of the hottest congressional primary fights in the state was waged in the 15th [Galesburg] district, where Congressman Jesse Fidler, Canton Democrat, triumphed over Russell M. Gunn of Quincy by only 43 votes. Complete unofficial returns gave Fidler 10,724 votes and Gunn 10,681.

Another spirited downstate battle was fought in the 14th [Rock Island] district. Here the Republican incumbent, Anton J. Johnson, Macomb farmer, was closely pursued in the earlier returns by Benjamin S. Bell, former Rock Island county state's attorney, but later returns gave Johnson a winning lead.

Former congressman at large Lewis M. Long of Sandwich won a write-in campaign in the 12th [Rockford] district, where no Democrat filed nominating petitions. Congressman Noah M. Mason of Oglesby, the Republican, was unopposed.

Race for Church's Seat.

Considerable interest centered about the 10th district Republican race for the seat from which Congressman Ralph E. Church is retiring because he undertook to try for United States senator.

George A. Paddock, former Evanston alderman and treasurer of the Cook county G. O. P. central committee, won the battle with the aid of a large Chicago majority after running fairly even with State Representative Drennan J. Slater along the north shore. Paddock's final plurality approached 6,000 votes. The G. O. P. nomination in the 10th is tantamount to election.

In the predominantly colored 1st district former State Senator William E. King had no trouble disposing of former Congressman Oscar De Priest for the Republican nomination.

Moreland Wins in 7th.

James C. Moreland, three times the G. O. P. nominee in the huge 7th district, won his fourth nomination over Alex Loeffler, former tavern owner, and former Congressman M. A. Michaelson.

This struggle was enlivened by the revelation that four of Loeffler's henchmen, precinct captains for Joseph Porcaro, G. O. P. ward committeeman in the 28th ward, were filed as candidates. All four withdrew.

Some political experts give Moreland a more than even chance to defeat Congressman Leonard W. Schuetz in November.

Another Republican victory in November is regarded as a possibility in the 2d, where former Congressman Patrick H. Moynihan was nominated in a hot fight with Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th] to face Congressman Raymond S. McKeough in the election.

Two Missouri Delegates Given Free Hand by G.O.P.

Bethany, Mo., April 10 (AP).—Third congressional district Republicans today elected two uninstructed delegates to the national convention. Some sentiment for Thomas E. Dewey appeared in preconvention talk, but his name was not mentioned on the floor. Named as delegates were W. F. Phares, Maryville, former state chairman, and G. L. Zwick, St. Joseph, former Buchanan county probate judge.

ORDERS HEARING ON CHARGES OF 'OR ELSE' THREAT

The laundry injunction case involving interpretation of the phrase "or else" was referred to Master in Chancery John J. Kelly yesterday by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer. The hearing will be held next Tuesday.

The Metropolitan Hand Laundry Owners' association is seeking an injunction to restrain the Chicago Laundry Workers' International union from threatening or intimidating members, and from calling strikes against members who refuse to sign new individual contracts with the union.

Attorney Morris K. Levinson, representing the owners, told the court that union agents have continued to tell them to "sign up or else" since the injunction suit was filed March 15. He reiterated his contention that "or else" implies violence. Attorney Floyd Thompson, for the union, said no threats had been made.

DEWEY BACKERS HAIL SUPPORT IN MIDWEST POLLS

Manager Cites Ability as a Vote Getter.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 10.—The large vote rolled up by Thomas E. Dewey in the Illinois and Nebraska primaries indicates his selection as the presidential nominee at the Republican national convention on an early ballot, it was declared today at his headquarters here in New York.

J. Russell Sprague, manager of the Dewey-for-president campaign, declared the young New York racket-busting district attorney had conclusively demonstrated in his primary performances that he was the best vote-getter with the "rank and file of the voters." This is a "Dewey year," Sprague asserted.

According to dispatches reaching the headquarters here, Dewey will receive from 75 to 90 per cent of the votes cast in the Illinois Republican primary. Since he was unopposed this vote was of the complimentary variety. Dewey supporters would have considered it satisfactory if he had been given 60 per cent, they said.

Defeats Vandenberg Again.

In Nebraska the New York prosecutor again defeated Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg in a preferential primary. This was regarded in the Dewey camp as an especially hard won victory since a majority of the regular G. O. P. leaders were backing the Michigan senator.

Last week the entire slate of 24 Dewey instructed delegates triumphed over Vandenberg's candidates in the Wisconsin primary. The Illinois and Nebraska primaries, however, are advisory rather than binding on delegates to the Republican national convention. Illinois' 58 delegates and Nebraska's 14 will be under moral suasion to vote for Dewey as the party's nominee.

Dewey Expresses Thanks.

Dewey expressed his thanks to the voters and his managers in Illinois and Nebraska during a press conference today.

"I'm deeply grateful to the Republicans of Illinois and Nebraska for their confidence and splendid turnout in the voting," he declared.

"I want to thank publicly Leonard C. Reid of Chicago [manager of the Illinois campaign and Dewey's cousin] and J. Lee Rankin of Lincoln, Neb., [33 year old attorney who headed up the Nebraska campaign] for the fine management they gave to the campaign on my behalf."

In response to a question whether he intended to resign his post as New York district attorney if the Republicans nominated him for President, Dewey said he had not considered the question. It was recalled in this connection that Alf Landon, the G. O. P. nominee in 1936, did not resign as governor of Kansas and that Franklin D. Roosevelt did not step down as governor of New York when nominated for President at the 1932 Democratic convention in Chicago.

MAYOR OF BERWYN AND 4 BONDHOLDERS HEARD BY GRAND JURY

Mayor Anton Janura of Berwyn and four holders of the suburb's special assessment bonds were witnesses yesterday before the grand jury investigating the conduct of Ernest W. Mau, resigned treasurer of Berwyn, and Matthew Berg, former treasurer. Robert Wright and C. Vernon Thompson, assistant state's attorneys, have been presenting evidence for the last week looking toward indictments charging forgery.

Mayor Janura.

Mau and Berg were acquitted on a directed verdict when the state staged a "sitdown" Feb. 14 in their trial on a charge of embezzling $3,726 from the assessment fund. Attorney Harry H. Hitzeman and his wife, Rosalyn, the state's star witnesses in that trial, are to be grand jury witnesses today. Judge William J. Lindsay's charge that they had been contemptuous in evading questions led to the collapse of the earlier trial.

The total shortage in Berwyn's treasury, according to Wright and Thompson, is $500,000.

Western Springs Ex-Police Chief Faces Elgin Charge

Clarence Berg, 40 years old, who resigned as police chief of Western Springs in 1936, was held to the Kane county grand jury yesterday on a charge of burglary. The hearing was held before Justice of the Peace A. J. Strickman in Elgin. Berg, who has lived recently at Plato Center in Kane county, was unable to furnish bond and was sent to the county jail at Geneva. Testimony showed he was arrested Monday while trying to break into a coal company office at 216 Brook street, Elgin.

SEEK SLATTERY'S AND LUCAS' AID ON LAKE AIRPORT

United States Senators Scott Lucas and James Slattery were asked by the city council yesterday to exert their influence to aid in bringing about establishment of a lake front airport in Chicago, as a part of the United States air defense program. The action was taken on the recommendation of the council aviation and recreation committee headed by Ald. John J. Grealis [44th].

A resolution offered by Grealis reminded the council that 18 months ago the Chicago Aero commission reported that a lake front airport would be of material aid in the country's defense program.

In the report the commission said, "Students of national defense are unanimous in their belief that a lake front airport would aid the national defense program."

PRIMARY IS OVER! BROOKS, GREEN CONFER ON PLANS

Await Final Tabulation on Vote Getting Powers.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The most friendly postprimary race in Illinois yesterday was the race between Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee for governor, and Wayland Brooks, G. O. P. nominee for United States senator, to see who comes out on top in the complete returns from Tuesday's primary.

Downstate figures were unusually slow in coming in. While it was recognized that the missing precincts could have only a percentage effect and have no bearing on the main result there was intense curiosity in the question of what they would show with reference to the relative vote drawing powers of the two men who now are running mates for the November election.

Emerge from Rival Camps.

The two did not run against each other in the primary, since they were seeking nomination for different offices, but they were in opposing camps until yesterday. Brooks teamed up with Richard J. Lyons, candidate for governor against Green. The incomplete figures showed that Brooks and Green may have run something like an even race in total votes thruout the state.

But there was not the slightest symptom of rivalry in the conduct of the two the morning after the voting. They exchanged greetings early in the day and later met for a conference preliminary to long ones to be held later. They went about the loop together, were photographed together, and received congratulations together.

Comparisons Not Available.

An exact comparison of just how the two fared was not possible because the number of precincts heard from on the two offices was not the same. Returns were received from 150 fewer downstate precincts on the senatorship than on the governorship.

With 968 precincts of the state missing Green received 519,042 votes and had a lead over Lyons of 130,668. With 1,118 precincts unheard from, Brooks' total was 511,632 and his lead over Congressman Ralph E. Church was 157,646.

The same 169 precincts were missing from the Cook county tabulation and the totals showed 225,501 for Green and 220,977 for Brooks. Of these precincts 143 were Chicago territory and the city totals to date gave Green 169,428 and Brooks 176,598. These figures reconcile with the Cook county figures because, while Green carried the suburban area Brooks lost it to Church, a north shore resident, by approximately 5,000 votes.

Final Figures On Vote.

Final unofficial figures on the total Republican vote cast were unavailable except for Chicago. With 143 precincts missing the total number of actual ballots cast by the Democrats was 785,525, which was a decided falling off. In the mayoral primary last year that party cast 954,311 votes. Its total in the 1938 off year contest was 933,596. In the last presidential year, 1936, it was 853,060.

Republican ballots cast in Chicago this year, with the same 143 precincts missing, totaled 323,753. Last year the G. O. P. cast only 281,845 in the mayoral primary and in 1938 it hit its low mark of 191,497. The party vote in 1936 was 343,905.

The generally accepted explanation for the big drop in the Democratic vote in the city and the fact that the Republican did not go higher was found in the record that 150,000 Republicans voted Democratic in the mayoral primary. They were not allowed to switch this year and there is no method of determining how many of them consented to accept the one ballot available for them, the Democratic, and how many of them did not vote in either party contest.

A projection of the available figures indicated that Green's majority in the state will be shown as about 152,000 when the returns are all received and that Brooks won by approximately 170,000.

The same method applied to the contest for attorney general bore out the earlier indications that George F. Barrett won the nomination for that office by about 23,000. It showed that while Oscar E. Carlstrom carried downstate by 44,000, Barrett carried Cook county by 67,000.

The one surprise shown in the late state figures was the nomination of William G. Stratton of Morris for one of the two places for congressman at large. Stratton is believed to have won largely because his name is so much like that of his father, the late William J. Stratton, former secretary of state. Returns from 6,840 precincts out of the state total of 8,336 gave him the lead in the field of 14 candidates with a total of 269,634. Stephen A. Day was second with 173,928.

Cross Gets Big Vote.

In the contest for lieutenant governor, Speaker Hugh W. Cross apparently landed among the big majorities. Estimates gave him a lead of 117,000 over Representative Arnold Lund with State Senator Earl B. Searcy running third.

Projection showed that Justus L. Johnson's plurality for the nomination for secretary of state was about 42,000. State Senator Arthur J. Bidwill ran about 5,500 ahead in Cook county but downstate Johnson led by about 47,000. In that area Richard Yates Rowe ran second with Bidwill third.

Warren Wright, according to the same method of calculation, carried off the nomination for state treasurer by about 100,000, of which 90,000 came from downstate.

Among the races for nomination for Cook county and other local offices, the contest for the state's attorneyship continued to hold attention. With 247 Chicago precincts and 35 country town precincts missing, Circuit Judge Oscar Nelson was believed to have won from Harry S. Ditchburne by about 15,000. Ditchburne carried the country towns but Nelson's lead in Chicago apparently erased that advantage.

Bennett Victor for Coroner.

Dr. Edmund F. Bennett apparently won the nomination for coroner by about 20,000. Dr. Henry C. Miller carried the suburbs but lost by a much larger figure in Chicago.

Winners of the three nominations for sanitary trustee were difficult to pick from the early returns but almost complete returns showed they were John S. Norris, Victor B. Listug, and Raymond S. Blunt. Projections with 369 precincts missing indicated that their actual total votes would be increased to 163,700 for Norris, 124,800 for Listug, and 99,500 for Blunt. S. G. Ingraham was indicated as the probable fourth place man in the field of 17.

PENSIONER ADMITS KILLING NEIGHBOR WHO MADE FUN OF HIM

La Salle, Ill., April 10 [Special].—Louis N. Behrens, 67 years old, an old age pensioner, confessed today that he shot to death his neighbor, Daniel Demattia, 59, a coal miner, last night as the result of months of quarreling.

Demattia's body was found in the street in front of his home. Suspicion was directed to Behrens by reports that there had been trouble between the two men.

Behrens told Sheriff E. J. Welter he had quarreled with Demattia over the coal miner "gaping in my windows and getting others to poke fun at me."

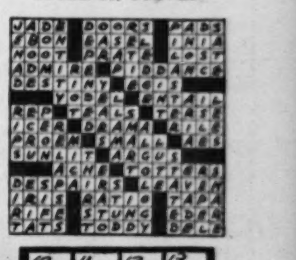
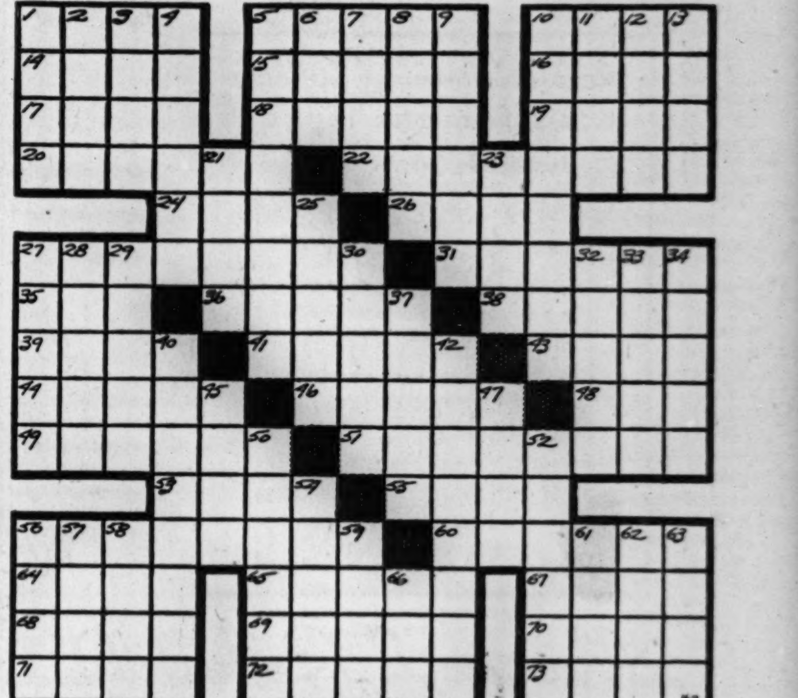
PUZZLE OF WEDNESDAY, APRIL 10, SOLVED





MARTIN DEFEATS BARRETT IN CLOSE RACE FOR AUDITOR

Wipes Out Insurgent Foe's Downstate Lead.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Defeat of State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, insurgent Democratic candidate for renomination at Tuesday's primaries, was indicated last night by a projection of almost complete returns on the race.

While Barrett was leading his Nash-Horner-Kelly opponent, Congressman John C. Martin, in the downstate counties, he was losing in Chicago. His downstate advantage, it appeared probable, would be wiped out by Martin's superior strength in the city.

Barrett Leads Downstate.

Totals for the race obtainable last night gave Martin 620,045 votes and Barrett 601,186. Barrett was leading Martin in the downstate area by 21,651 votes while Martin had a 40,530 vote majority in Chicago.

The race was so close, however, that many thought Barrett would file a contest in the event Martin is eventually declared the winner.

Barrett remained the sole hope of the insurgents who broke away from the machine and strove to take three major nominations in the primary. Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, head of the ticket, was swamped by Harry B. Hershey for the nomination for governor, running more than 300,000 votes behind the machine choice.

Hershey Swamps Stelle.

Returns from Cook county were nearly complete on this contest, the count giving Hershey 481,866 votes to 235,017 for Stelle. Downstate there were still 776 precincts unreported on the governorship, but Hershey was leading by 58,023 votes.

The third of the insurgent leaders, State Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, also lost Cook county in his attempt to win the senatorial nomination from Senator James M. Slattery. The Cook county returns, with 159 precincts missing, were 452,228 for Slattery and 295,104 for Adamowski, giving Slattery a lead of 157,124 votes.

With 676 downstate precincts still to be heard from, Slattery was leading Adamowski outside Cook county by 89,550 votes, as follows: Slattery, 245,762; Adamowski, 156,212.

Adamowski recognized his defeat in a short statement issued late yesterday but which contained none of the customary pledges to support his opponent, Slattery, in the fall campaign.

His statement read: "I want to express my sincere appreciation to the more than half a million voters who cast their ballots for me. It is gratifying to know that the fight which I have been continuously waging for clean government has the approval of so many of my fellow citizens in Illinois. It is my pledge that my actions shall continue to be those of an individual interested only in the welfare of my state."

Tribute to Machine Power.

As the final figures were being accumulated, the smooth work of the twin Democratic organizations—Nash-Kelly in Chicago and Horner downstate—was emphatically shown.

How the two groups worked as a unit, forgetting past primary quarrels, was especially clear in the contest for the nomination for lieutenant governor, which featured a Horner man and a former Kelly-Nash leader.

State Treasurer Louie E. Lewis, who won the nomination, is one of Gov. Horner's closest political associates, while Senator George M. Maypole, whom Lewis defeated, is president pro tempore of the state senate—a post he won with the support of P. A. Nash, national committeeman. He also represents Nash's home district on the west side.

Lewis carried Cook county, on the basis of incomplete returns, by a majority of 388,000. He was running 3 to 1 over Maypole downstate.

The machine vote in Cook county also gave large majorities to Homer Mat Adams for the nomination for treasurer, and to Senator Harold G. Ward for the nomination for attorney general. Each had a lead of more than 350,000 votes over their politically unknown opponents—Edwin C. Gordon, who ran against Adams, and Samuel H. Block, who ran against Ward.

Latest Democratic Primary Figures

The following table shows nearly final returns on the Democratic candidates in Tuesday's primary. For national and state offices the vote is divided into Cook county and downstate figures. For county offices Chicago and country town figures are carried. Candidates in capitals are probable winners:

DIES IN PLUNGE SO HUSBAND CAN HAVE NEW GIRL

After writing notes in which she said she was getting out of the way so her husband could "have his girl friend," a young mother plunged to death yesterday from a 10th floor fire escape of the Boston store to Madison street.

Mrs. Irene Burns.

The woman was Mrs. Irene K. Burns, 28 years old, 4863 North Hermitage avenue. The notes were found in her purse near the fire escape. There also was a memorandum showing that she had put detectives to watch her husband, Vincent.

Burns, who is 38 years old and works in a paint factory, told the Central police that his wife had been in poor health and that she suspected him of nonexistent love affairs. The couple have a son, Jackie, 4 years old.

UPHEAVAL PUTS NEBRASKA BACK IN G. O. P. COLUMN

First New Deal Reverse in State Since 1930.

Omaha, Neb., April 10 [Special].—A pronounced Republican swing, which already has party leaders claiming Nebraska for November, marked this state's primary election yesterday. For the first time since 1930, the Republican primary vote exceeded the Democratic total.

Particular significance is seen in the fact that it was the farm regions which gave the Republicans their leadership. Omaha stayed Democratic.

In 1930 the Republicans gained 68.8 per cent of the primary vote. Nebraska went along with the New Deal parade in 1932, giving the Democrats 55.1 per cent of its vote. Minor losses reduced the Democratic percentage to 53.3 in 1934, to 53.1 in 1936 and to 52.4 in 1938. Therefore, yesterday's balloting, which shows the Democrats outvoted in all the major races, amounts to an upheaval.

Dewey by Wide Margin.

In 1,956 of the state's 2,033 precincts, Thomas E. Dewey and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg polled 172,013 votes, compared with 109,386 for President Roosevelt, who was unopposed in the Democratic presidential preference race. Dewey had 99,905 votes to Vandenberg's 72,108.

The Republicans cast 150,062 ballots for senator in 1,758 precincts, compared with 128,224 for the Democrats. In the governor's race, in 1,768 precincts, the Republican total was 146,772, the Democratic 127,494.

Further emphasis on the Republican trend was the election to congress of J. H. Sweet in a special First district race regarded as a test of New Deal sentiment in the farm belt. Charles A. Dafoe, Sweet's Democratic opponent, had campaigned vigorously in defense of the AAA farm program and other New Deal policies. Sweet was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Congressman George Heinke.

Burke 19,000 Behind.

The primary cut a sharp pattern for the November senatorial race. Gov. R. L. Cochran, a New Deal supporter, will oppose Hugh Butler, conservative Republican.

Cochran defeated Senator Edward R. Burke, who was one of the leaders in the fight against packing the Supreme court. Burke conceded defeat by approximately 20,000.

Burke said that after his term ends he plans to return to Omaha to resume his law practice.

Pension Advocate Leads.

With only 50 precincts to be heard from Terry Carpenter, Scotts Bluff $30 per month pension advocate, had 67,208 unofficial ballots to former Gov. Keith Neville's 65,535 in the Democratic gubernatorial primary. Dwight Griswold of Gordon was nominated by the Republicans. He polled 60,736 votes in 1,685 precincts.

Incumbent congressmen—two Democrats and two Republicans—won renomination easily.

Charles W. Bryan, former governor and once his party's vice presidential candidate, was a bad second in a comeback campaign for Democratic nomination to the regular term of congress from the 1st district.

ORDERED JAILED AGAIN IN FAILURE TO PAY DAMAGES

The Appellate court held yesterday that William French, 58 years old, must go back to jail for failure to pay a $11,025 judgment. French, a building contractor, lives at 702 Reba place, Evanston. The judgment was obtained by Nicholas Peiffer, 1653 Winona avenue, after an automobile accident in which Peiffer lost the sight of his right eye and his wife was less seriously injured.

The judgment contained a malice count by which French could be committed to jail for nonpayment if the Peiffers paid his $3.50 a week board bill in advance. French served 10 days of a possible six months' term, and then was released Sept. 29, 1938, because the Peiffers were a day late in squaring up.

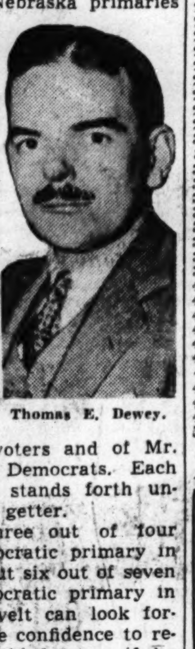
REGARD DEWEY AND ROOSEVELT TOP CANDIDATES

Primaries Cited to Show Their Strength.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—From the Illinois and Nebraska primaries yesterday President Roosevelt and District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York have emerged as the presumptive nominees of the Democratic and Republican parties, respectively.



Thomas E. Dewey.

These two primaries, taken in conjunction with that in Wisconsin the previous week, have established the preeminent popularity of Mr. Dewey with Republican voters and of Mr. Roosevelt with the Democrats. Each in his own party stands forth unexcelled as a vote getter.

After getting three out of four votes in the Democratic primary in Wisconsin and about six out of seven votes in the Democratic primary in Illinois Mr. Roosevelt can look forward with complete confidence to renomination for a third term, if he wants it.

Threat to Third Term.

Vice President Garner and Postmaster General James A. Farley can prevent a unanimous renomination on the first ballot but nothing but a declination of the honor by the President can now stop his choice by an overwhelming, probably a nearly unanimous, vote.

The 25 per cent vote for Garner in Wisconsin and less than 15 per cent in Illinois indicate that the anti-third term tradition does not weigh heavily with the Democrats. Whether a party division of this extent on the third term question would doom Mr. Roosevelt to defeat in the election is a matter of heated debate.

The third term boomers dismiss the Garner vote as a negligible factor arguing that only an infinitesimal fraction of the Garner supporters will carry their opposition into the November polling booths. The Garner partisans profess confidence that the President, reading certain defeat in his party split, will refuse in the end to accept renomination.

Commend Garner's Course.

Commenting on the Illinois primary, E. B. Germany and Mrs. Clara Driscoll, co-chairmen of the Garner for President committee, said:

"No other result could have been expected in Illinois.

"Mr. Garner entered his name according to the law and custom of that state. He had no organized support. Mr. Roosevelt did not enter his name. It was entered and he was backed by the most powerful political organization in the nation. The contest was unequal.

"We have never thought and do not now think President Roosevelt will be a candidate.

"With his experience, his practical liberalism, and his popularity among all classes of people, Mr. Garner can unite the Democratic party and lead it to victory. His campaign will be carried forward with increased vigor."

New Jersey Primary Next.

The prevailing opinion among Republican leaders here is that it is going to be exceedingly difficult to prevent the nomination of Mr. Dewey at Philadelphia, in view of the flying start as a popular vote getter he has obtained in the Wisconsin, Illinois, and Nebraska primaries. Another primary triumph is yet to be added to his string—in New Jersey where he has no opposition.

He has defeated Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan in the Wisconsin and Nebraska primaries, but in Illinois and New Jersey neither Vandenberg nor the third leading candidate for the Republican nomination, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, entered against him. In Illinois he polled more than 90 per cent of the Republican primary vote.

Dewey thus has substantial ground on which to proclaim himself the popular choice wherever Republicans have voted directly their preference for President. It may be that with this showing as a starter a band-wagon movement for Dewey will develop that will carry him irresistibly to victory at Philadelphia, just as a similar movement made the nomination of Alf Landon in 1936 a foregone conclusion weeks before the Cleveland convention met.

Dark Horse May Have Chance.

If there should be formidable opposition in the convention to the nomination of Dewey on the ground of youth and inexperience. With the Vandenberg vote seriously jolted in Wisconsin and Nebraska this opposition probably will be rallied around Senator Taft. If there should be protracted balloting without a choice the convention might turn to a dark horse, such as Gov. John Bricker of Ohio or Joseph Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, Republican leader of the house.

Senator Vandenberg declined to comment on his defeat in Nebraska, but Howard C. Lawrence of Grand Rapids, Mich., chairman of the Vandenberg movement, who was in Washington today, said:

"Without a single personal solicitation on his part, Senator Vandenberg has been endorsed by 41 per cent of the Republicans of Wisconsin and probably 45 per cent of the Republicans of Nebraska. Our committee considers this to be a powerful showing in the face of hard campaigning opposition. It once more emphasizes Senator Vandenberg's spectacular availability for the Republican presidential nomination."

Republican leaders were jubilant over the polling of a larger total vote in the Republican than in the Democratic primary in Nebraska and in the retention of the first congressional district in the by-election. This was hailed as evidence that Nebraska will go Republican in November.

Surgeon Sews Up Woman's Heart and Saves Her Life

New York, April 10 (AP).—The New York World-Telegram today described a heart operation which enabled Mrs. Eloise Edralin, 19 years old, to survive a shotgun wound. Three thin strands of silk thread were sewn into the muscle of her heart. The surgeon, Dr. William A. Fraser, was required to puncture the heart with a needle three times before the wound was closed. Mrs. Edralin was wounded in the accidental discharge of a small revolver.

VOTE IN NEARBY COUNTIES OUSTS 2 PROSECUTORS

3d Also to Pick New State's Attorney.

Tuesday's primaries made it certain that new state's attorneys will be elected next November in Kane, Lake, and Du Page counties, all of which are regarded as Republican strongholds.

Harry A. Hall, Lake county, G. O. P. prosecutor nominee.

State's Attorney Charles A. O'Connor of Kane county was a candidate for the G. O. P. nomination, but was defeated in a close race by Charles G. Seidel of Elgin, an attorney. The unofficial count for the entire county was Seidel, 15,513; O'Connor, 14,443.

Seidel is a veteran of the world war and former commander of the Elgin post of the American Legion. At one time he was national judge advocate of the Navy clubs of the United States.

A Newcomer to Office.

In his campaign Seidel asserted he was against "bossism" in all its forms and would give his entire attention, if elected, to enforcing the law in his home county. He has never held office before, but was defeated by 200 votes three years ago in a race for Elgin city judge. He will be opposed in the fall election by John T. Vincent, Democrat.

Complete returns in Lake county's 95 precincts gave Harry A. Hall, Waukegan lawyer and former University of Illinois football star, a long lead for the Republican nomination. He had 13,910 votes to 8,174 for Charles E. Mason, incumbent state's attorney. The third candidate in the race, George S. McGaughey, polled 5,222.

Hall is 37 years old and a native of Lake county. He played on the Illinois teams in the time of Red Grange. He is married and has three sons. He is president of the Lake County Bar association and has been active in Republican politics for several years. His opponent in November will be Charles Noll, Democrat, who was selected without a contest.

Dr. Taylor Wins Again.

The only other contest in Lake was for coroner. Dr. John L. Taylor, who has had 40 years in the office, got the G. O. P. nomination by a large margin. The count was Taylor, 13,030; Charles L. Krueger, 4,936, and Dr. John E. Walker, 6,735, giving the incumbent a clear majority. Orville J. Lane is the Democratic nominee.

In Du Page county an extremely close race for the Republican nomination for state's attorney was won by Lee Daniels, an Elmhurst lawyer and former assistant prosecutor. Daniels, on the complete unofficial count, had 12,829 votes and John S. Woodward, a Wheaton attorney, 12,324. Edgar Elliott is the Democratic nominee.

Coroner Cook Loses.

In McHenry county the present coroner, Edward H. Cook, was defeated for the Republican nomination by Harry L. Ehorn. The vote was Ehorn, 5,139, and Cook, 3,936. The office has been held every year since 1878 by either Cook or one of his two brothers, who were older than he.

William M. Carroll again is the McHenry county G. O. P. nominee for state's attorney and has no Democratic opposition, no ticket having been put up. In Will county State's Attorney James E. Burke, Republican, will be opposed by Francis Loughran in the fall. Dr. E. A. Kingston is the Republican nominee for coroner, and Dr. Londus Brannon is the Democratic choice.

Theodore Snoozes While 3 Trains Roar Down on Him

Theodore Weber, 1474 Foster avenue, who went to sleep on the North Western railroad tracks in front of 5746 Ravenswood avenue, was fined $1 and costs yesterday by Municipal Judge Mason S. Sullivan, who told him that his selection of a place to snooze inconvenienced transportation. Two local trains were forced to stop, while a limited was roaring up from behind, before Weber was removed by Policeman Oliver Hodges.

GREEN IS HOPE OF ILLINOIS TO END CORRUPTION

Statehouse Situation Is Bared by Primary.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 10. — Final Illinois primary returns were reviewed by Republicans and by no few Democrats here today and found lacking in any step toward correction of state house corruption exposed in the heated Democratic campaign. The only possible exception to this general statement was seen in the nomination of a prosecutor, Dwight H. Green, as the Republican candidate for governor.

This afternoon there were still two professed chief executives, Gov. Henry Horner and Lieut. Gov. John Stelle. In the Sangamon county Circuit court a suit for an accounting of collections and expenditures by the Horner 2 per cent slush club still was pending.

Still a mystery was the death and the strange inquest into the death of F. Lynden Smith, director of public works and former Horner campaign manager. Still a recluse in the governor's mansion, accessible only to a chosen few, was the patient whose capacity to govern has been challenged.

Stelle's Position Unchanged.

Both professed chief executives were in more or less retirement today. No statement came from the bedside brain trust. Stelle was consulting with advisors and said his position was unchanged from his early morning announcement that he will continue to be acting governor "until the disability of Henry Horner has ended."

From these post election conferences it appeared to be unlikely that the dispute over the governorship will reach a head before the special session of the assembly is convened on April 30. It is expected that the legislature will appoint a committee to determine Horner's physical condition.

Orderly Procedure Desired.

In the meantime there were assurances on all sides that the business of state will be continued without disruption. Stelle wants a determination of Horner's fitness in an orderly and peaceful manner. To block pay rolls and vouchers in the office of State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, it was said, would be as unnecessary and as unbecoming as a physical clash between Horner's state policemen and Stelle's senate page boys.

With no guidance as to procedure from the state constitution and with no precedent in Illinois history, Stelle's advisers this afternoon recalled an incident of Woodrow Wilson's final days as a possible precedent for the Illinois legislature to inquire into Horner's health.

On the floor of the United States senate early in 1919 Wilson's ability to be chief executive was challenged. The President was ill abed after his European peace jaunt. There were charges that his secretary, Joseph Tumulty, was exercising influence upon executive decisions, a parallel to the Illinois situation. A senate committee visited the sickroom in the White House and reported back that Wilson was mentally alert and performing his duties.

House Heads Oppose Machine.

In the Illinois assembly any joint committee to interview Horner would be appointed by a house of representatives headed by Speaker Hugh W. Cross, Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, and by a senate headed by Stelle as lieutenant governor or by George Maypole as president pro tem. Maypole, like Stelle, was an unsuccessful candidate opposing the Horner-Nash-Kelly ticket in the Democratic primaries.

Horner's call for the special session was in the archives today. Stelle's call, lacking an official seal from Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, was strangely missing.

"I don't know where it is," said Hughes, back in his office after his runout on Stelle on Monday.

Stelle's call was left on a counter in Hughes' front office Monday. Clerks were instructed not to touch it. It was there when the office was closed at 5 p. m. The doors are not locked and a watchman was on duty all night. The papers were not there when the clerical staff reported yesterday morning, according to Hughes.

May Issue Second Call.

Stelle, of course, can issue another copy of his call at any time. The original differed from Horner's call mainly in the addition of the slush fund as a subject for consideration of the special session. The Republican majority in the house welcomes this additional subject. Stelle early this morning while listening to election returns defeating his gubernatorial candidacy, promised a thoro investigation of the 2 per cent club regardless of the primary outcome.

The house might recognize Stelle's call for a special session and refuse to honor Horner's. The senate, with its Democratic majority, might prefer Horner's call. However, the Nash-Kelly Democrats in the senate could hardly afford to throw the special session into a deadlock and an adjournment because the Chicago sanitary district is in desperate need of additional funds, tax legislation passed by the last regular session having been nullified later by a technicality.

Widow Gets Tribune Insurance Check

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Harry Lisberg, Tribune news dealer in Aurora, giving Mrs. Augusta Emily Jackson a Tribune insurance check for $1,650 in payment of policy carried by husband, who was killed in auto accident.

Killed on March 24

Mrs. Augusta Emily Jackson of 139 Calhoun street, Aurora, was given a Tribune insurance check for $1,650 yesterday in payment of the policy carried by her husband, Fred H. Jackson.

Mr. Jackson was riding in an automobile which struck a pole in Aurora on March 24. He died a few hours later in the St. Charles hospital.

Mr. Jackson's policy, for $1,500, was issued by the Federal Life Insurance company on Oct. 20, 1937, and the principal had since increased $150.

ARMED BANDITS BIND 3; STRIP SHOP OF LINGERIE

Two armed bandits calmly stripped a shop yesterday at 2832½ Milwaukee avenue of $1,500 worth of lingerie and other women's apparel after binding and gagging the two owners and a colored porter. One of the gunmen entered first, binding and gagging Mrs. Frances Kowsnetz, 4719 North Lawndale avenue, one of the owners, and the porter. He then admitted his accomplice. The other owner, Hyman Evraham, 3109 West 19th street, came in as the pair were packing their loot and was bound and gagged. The gunmen fled after half an hour of swift work had cleaned the shop almost completely.

QUESTION WIFE OF BOMB VICTIM IN SEEKING CLEW

Mrs. Helen Gray was questioned yesterday at the state's attorney's office by Capt. Daniel Gilbert and Lieut. Thomas Kelly as to whether she could supply any clews to the bomb attack April 3 upon her husband, Walter E. Gray, a River Forest policeman for 16 years.

The bomb was attached to the starter of his car, parked in front of the Gray home at 722 Monroe street in the suburb. Gray lost his left leg, the sight of his right eye, and is in a serious condition in the Oak Park hospital.

Mrs. Gray described her domestic life as happy and said she had no idea of the reason for the attempt on her husband's life. She was questioned in the presence of Police Chief Carl Soderlin of River Forest, who is investigating all arrests made by Gray in the belief that the bombing was a matter of revenge.

ELECT JOHNSON TO NEW TERM AS HEAD OF SCHOOLS

Vote Is 8 to 2; He Plans to Continue Program.

Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of Chicago schools since 1936, was reëlected for another four year term at a meeting of the board of education yesterday. Last evening he announced that he would continue with his program designed to adjust school activities to improve the welfare of students and teachers.

Supt. W. H. Johnson.

No other candidate was proposed at the meeting, and Dr. Johnson was reëlected by a vote of 8 to 2. James B. McCahey, president of the board, and seven other members voted for him. He was opposed by the two women trustees, Mrs. W. S. Hefferan and Mrs. Walter F. Heineman. The eleventh trustee, Samuel I. Levin, was absent.

Debate His Qualifications.

Mrs. Hefferan and Mrs. Heineman said the election had taken them by surprise, but other board members pointed out that the next meeting will not be until after April 22, the day Dr. Johnson's present term ends. Despite her assertion that she had not expected the matter to come up, Mrs. Heineman was ready with a prepared statement detailing her opposition to Dr. Johnson.

She and Mrs. Hefferan asserted Dr. Johnson had not always followed the merit system in making appointments in the school system teaching staffs and that he had evinced partiality and favoritism in examinations for principals.

Others Defend Him.

The other trustees defended the superintendent. One of them, Irwin N. Walker, said that Dr. Johnson had received praise for his administrative work from educational authorities thruout the country.

Dr. Johnson said last night that his thesis in administering the schools always has been: "Every kid should know how to live as well as make a living." He then reviewed some of the accomplishments during his first four years in office.

"The Jones Commercial High school, 607 Plymouth court, was opened in January, 1938," he said. "The first graduating class, last January, numbered 235, and 170 of these graduates now are employed.

"The old-fashioned manual training for boys and household arts for girls have been replaced by home mechanics courses in grades 6, 7, and 8 in the elementary schools. The new course fits modern society better, for it deals with electricity and other devices in the home. New industrial arts courses for boys and home arts courses for girls have been established in the first year of high school.

"The normal school, which had an old-fashioned three year course, has been transformed into the Chicago Teachers' college with an up to date four year course leading to a bachelor's degree.

"Trade education has been reorganized. The Chicago Vocational school is nearing completion at 87th street and Chappel avenue and will accommodate 4,000 pupils.

Adjust High School Curriculum.

"The general high school curriculum has been adjusted to serve the needs of the 90 per cent of the graduates who do not go on to college.

"A cumulative record system has been placed in operation. This gives at a glance the career of the individual pupil from kindergarten thru high school or junior college."

In the next four years as superintendent, Dr. Johnson said, he will continue his work along these lines with special emphasis on adjusting high school conditions to needs.

"We will give consideration to the possibility of honor classes for the brighter students," he said.

Study Needs of Cripples.

"There will also be special attention to crippled children, particularly in training them for vocations. A new high school is being built for them adjoining the Spalding school at 1628 Washington boulevard."

Dr. Johnson is 44 years old and lives at 1228 Farwell avenue. He was born in Chicago and received his early education in the public schools. He graduated from Northwestern university in 1917. He joined the school system teaching staff in 1921. In 1925 he became a principal and in 1935 he became an assistant superintendent.

He was elected superintendent on April 22, 1936, to succeed the late Supt. William J. Bogan.

COST OF A $700 AUTO HAND MADE IS PUT AT $17,000

Edsel Ford Defends Mass Production System.

Washington, D. C., April 10 (AP).—Edsel Ford told the monopoly committee today that despite production advances and introduction of labor saving devices the Ford company has been employing an increasing number of men and has been paying out more in wages.

Ford said, the cost of an automobile now selling for about $700 would increase to more than $17,000 if manufactured by hand labor instead of by huge labor-saving machines. Ford, who is president of the Ford Motor company, testified as an expert witness at hearings dealing with technology and the concentration of economic power.

At the cost of $17,000, Ford said, "not more than 50 cars a year would be sold" and few of the 125,000 men employed at Ford plants would have jobs.

Points to Job Creation.

Ford gave his opinions on labor serving and labor saving machinery in a prepared set of answers to questions by the monopoly study group.

"Three million men are normally employed in making, selling, and servicing cars, because with machinery, cars can be produced at prices people can pay," Ford said. "And that, in turn, creates jobs at wages that enable people to buy. The cars, the jobs, the wages would not be there, were it not for machinery."

He acknowledged "that manufacturing costs are constantly cut by taking certain men off certain jobs because better machines have made those men unnecessary on those particular jobs."

Tells Change in Taste.

Ford said his company could produce a low priced car selling for $500 or less, but added that this would have a drastic effect upon the used car market. The price trend has been upward since his father, Henry Ford, pioneered with a low priced car for the public, he testified.

"The public apparently demands more room, more space, and more speed," he commented.

Disagreeing with some of Ford's contentions, R. J. Thomas, C. I. O. labor leader, testified technological advances in the automobile industry had resulted in a serious displacement of workers.

COURT UPHOLDS STRANGER PICKET BAN IN DAIRY SUIT

The Illinois Supreme court reaffirmed its stand against stranger picketing yesterday by upholding a Superior court injunction restraining the Milk Wagon Drivers' union from picketing the stores of Meydel Ellingsen, 2434 Devon avenue, and 56 other dairy products dealers who joined in the injunction suit.

In protesting against picketing by nonemployés, the dealers asserted no labor dispute existed with employés or with the union. The union contended the point at issue was that drivers of the Farmers' Coöperative Milk company, supplying milk to the stores, were not unionized.

The Supreme court reversed an order allowing the plaintiffs $543 court costs.

45 MILLION RFC LOAN SOUGHT FOR NEW TRANSIT LINE

City Backs Down on Its Franchise Demands.

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that representatives of the city will confer Saturday in Washington with Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, on arrangements for a $45,000,000 loan to the proposed unified transit company. The mayor said he has opened negotiations.

The mayor said that the $45,000,000, together with $20,000,000 in cash now held by the transit lines, would enable the new unified company to carry thru a $60,000,000 transit modernization program. This program is insisted on by the city in the next three years, as a condition of a unified franchise grant to the transit lines.

Submit Plan Today.

Plans for the RFC loan and an outline of the city's final demands for a united traction ordinance will be submitted to the transit companies today, Mayor Kelly said, when the city council's special traction subcommittee, headed by Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], will confer with the lines' negotiators.

The mayor indicated that the city is ready to make concessions from its previous demands on several controversial points that are now blocking the 13 year old transit unification dispute. Aldermen who conferred with the mayor on the traction question Tuesday said the city plans to make compromise proposals on payment for equipping the subway, terms of a pension plan for transit employés, and terms of compensation for use of streets to be paid the city by the new company.

The aldermen asserted these concessions, together with a $45,000,000 loan, if arranged, should bring the city and the lines into substantial agreement. They supported this view by recalling that one of the chief obstacles to agreement has been the lines' contention that the modernization program could not be financed because of lack of credit. Consent of the RFC to make the loan would remove this important objection, the aldermen said.

Agree to Seven Cent Fare.

The mayor said the city will insist on maintenance of present car fares at least until Jan. 1, 1942. The companies have agreed to this.

The city, according to aldermen, is now willing to pay half the $9,000,000 estimated cost of equipping the subways and connecting them with elevated structures. Previously the city asked the lines to pay the entire $9,000,000.

The city previously asked the proposed new company to write a definite pension plan for its 20,000 employés into the traction ordinance. It is now willing to allow the company to work out a pension plan with employés after the ordinance is passed, provided that pensions be paid meanwhile to employés too old to work.

Back Down on Compensation.

It is expected the city will propose that compensation for the use of streets, except for the first $600,000, be on an equal basis with bond interest payments. Previously it asked that all compensation be paid before bond interest. The $600,000 to be paid before bond interest would replace payments now being made by the lines for snow removal and elevated lines' car licenses.

Compensation at the rate of 1.5 per cent of gross revenues until 1943 and 3 per cent thereafter will be insisted upon by the city, the mayor said. Based on revenue estimates, this would amount to $1,000,000 a year until 1943 and $2,000,000 thereafter. The companies propose that these payments, except for the $600,000, be after bond interest.

ANOTHER SETBACK FOR THE NEW DEAL.

The decline in popular support of the New Deal, plainly evidenced in the Wisconsin primary a week ago, received further confirmation in the Illinois and Nebraska primaries of April 9. There is ample basis for the forecast that the next President and the next house of representatives will be Republican.

The returns at this writing are still incomplete, but it is evident that the Republican vote in Illinois was larger by several hundred thousand than it was in the 1938 primary; the Democratic total was smaller than in 1938 by 300,000 or more. In the 1938 election Illinois went Democratic by fewer than 100,000 because the Democratic majority of 205,000 in Cook county, including a very large number of votes now known to have been stolen, was larger than the Republican majority of 110,000 downstate. The voting on Tuesday indicated that the Republicans have made substantial gains in both sections.

The swing which first became manifest in 1938 is gaining momentum and, accordingly, the prospect for a national Republican victory in November is bright.

In this connection the split in the Democratic party over the New Deal and the third term is most significant. Mr. Garner seems to have obtained something like 185,000 votes in the state, and in all probability most of them were cast by men and women who will not vote in November for Mr. Roosevelt or any candidate who indorses the New Deal.

Other factors favorable to the Republicans are also to be noted. For one thing, a very considerable number of Republicans enrolled as Democrats in the primaries two years ago and were obliged to vote as Democrats this week. They will be back on the reservation in the fall. For another, the men and women on WPA and relief fear to ask for Republican ballots. A good many of them who are listed as Democratic voters today will be Republican voters in the fall.

The story told in the Wisconsin and Illinois primaries finds further confirmation in Nebraska. There, to be sure, Senator Burke was defeated for renomination, but he polled fully 40 per cent of the Democratic primary vote. If any considerable part of this support given to an anti-New Deal Democrat remains opposed to the New Deal in November, as is to be expected, the Republican national ticket has an excellent chance of carrying Nebraska.

The evidence is piling up that you can beat 5 billion dollars. The people of this country want an end of the New Deal. They distrust its management of foreign affairs. They are disappointed in its failure to restore prosperity. They know that this depression is the most protracted in the nation's history and they have come at last to see that it is the extravagant spending by the government and its regulations and restrictions which have prolonged hard times.

The people have been profoundly shocked by the corruption which has accompanied Democratic rule in the nation and the states. It is significant that Mr. Dewey, who has been most forthright in his exposure of these abuses, has come thru every test with flying colors. His uncompromising denunciation of the New Deal machine sounded a note which the voters wanted to hear. He was saying the things they knew to be true. That is why they gave him their enthusiastic support.

MR. GREEN'S WORDS AND MR. GREEN'S ACTIONS.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has been defending the A. F. of L. against charges that it has failed to drive gangsters out of some of its affiliated unions. Mr. Green has been given a sympathetic hearing, particularly by those familiar with the constitution of the A. F. of L. and the limitations on its power.

Mr. Green's story is that the affiliated international unions that are the backbone of the A. F. of L. have reserved to themselves wide, autonomous powers. When a gangster gets control of a local union, he contends, he as the head of the A. F. of L. is powerless to interfere, because if he did so he would commit an intolerable infringement on the autonomy of the international union. It is up to the international, he says, to do its own housecleaning. From a strictly legal standpoint, Mr. Green argues on sound grounds.

Those who have been giving Mr. Green credit for good intentions will be hard put to justify his recent action in the case of the St. Louis Motion Picture Operators' union. That local union fell into the hands of John P. Nick, a racketeer. He filled its offices with gunmen and ruled the local by force and intimidation. Some of the members of his union say he sold them out for cash in negotiations with employers. The court in St. Louis has ordered him to pay the $10,000 into the union treasury.

The members of the local union could get no relief thru appeal to their international union. Nick was a vice president of the international, another of whose officers was the sweet smelling Willie Bioff. They took their case to the courts.

This action was taken with the backing of the secretary of the central body of A. F. of L. unions in St. Louis. The courts upheld the insurgent unionists. They threw Nick and his gangsters out of the union and ordered Nick to pay back to the union treasury the graft he had extorted. Under court supervision the local held an election, naming new officers and delegates to the St. Louis central body.

Mr. Green had no authority over the international union. He could not order it to drive out Nick and his gangsters. But he did have authority over the St. Louis Central Trades union, the equivalent of the Chicago Federation of Labor. When he exercised that authority, it was on behalf of the gangsters and not on behalf of the honest trades unionists.

He ordered the central body not to seat the anti-Nick delegates. His reason for doing so was that they were not in good standing in their international union. They were in good standing in their local union. The court to which they had appealed had seen to that. Likewise, Nick and his allies had seen to it that they were not in good standing in the international union that had refused to redress their wrongs.

Mr. Green's action in the St. Louis case speaks louder than the volume of words he has been delivering recently against those whom he considers detractors of the A. F. of L.

A REPUBLICAN SUNRISE IN ILLINOIS.

The sun rose brightly yesterday morning for the Republicans of Illinois. Returns from Tuesday's primary disclosed that a fair trial of strength had given the party two clean and vigorous young standard bearers in Dwight H. Green and Wayland Brooks. Moreover, the party goes into the election campaign a united and confident army. The contest within the party left no deep wounds.

Mr. Green received a handsome message of congratulation from his primary opponent, Richard J. Lyons, including Mr. Lyons' pledge to work for the Republican ticket in the fall. Mr. Lyons' assumption that all Republicans will join in that effort was correct. The candidates devoted little time to attacking each other in their primary campaigns. Their appeal to the voters was based on their ability to expose and attack the corruption and incompetence of the incumbent Democrats in state and nation. That was the correct strategy, and it will produce dividends in November. The Republican campaign has already been going on for three months.

Mr. Green has demonstrated for a second time his remarkable abilities as a vote winner. Last year in his contest with Mayor Kelly he demonstrated, even while losing the mayoralty, that the Democratic machine in Chicago is no longer strong enough to swing the state for its party. By his primary victory he is now in a position to take advantage of that fact in November.

Mr. Brooks likewise demonstrated the strength of his personal following thruout the state. It is regrettable that the senatorial contest should have deprived Illinois of the services in congress of Ralph E. Church. Mr. Church made a political mistake, altho by no means a fatal one. His experience, previously confined to his senatorial and congressional districts, apparently caused him to underestimate the difficulties of a statewide campaign against a veteran of three such previous campaigns.

The Republicans can take as much delight in the results of the Democratic primary as they can in the harmony in their own ranks. The Democratic factions may go thru the same farce of embracing in the shadow of the Roosevelt coattails that they have staged following previous primary fights, but November comes too soon for the voters to forget what the candidates have said about each other.

The slate which won the Democratic nominations is the one that the Republicans wanted to win, because they know that it will be easier to beat in the fall. It is the machine slate, the slate that buys votes with a 2 per cent extorted from state employés, the slate that has to answer for Lynden Smith's little black books, and for the strange and disturbing Springfield regency.

John Stelle and Ben Adamowski attacked these scandals in their own party vigorously during the primary, and had they won, they might have repudiated connection with them. The candidates who did win are in no such position. Mr. Hershey was, comparatively speaking, a political unknown when he was picked to run for governor. The votes he got were machine votes, not Hershey votes, and whatever his personal reputation, he is under these circumstances bound to stand or fall on the reputation of the machine.

Senator Slattery's only reply to inquiries about his strongbox was to abuse as Roosevelt haters those who inquired. That was no answer, and the question will not be dropped. The senator has not told where he got the money that was invested in the stock of one of the utility companies he was supposed to regulate. The senator is the ideal candidate—for the Republicans.

Editorial of the Day

A KILKENNY CASE.

[Providence (R. I.) Bulletin.]

In New York the other day little Frances Kilkenny was brought before a city magistrate on the charge of selling magazines in the street. The complaint was entered by one of the board of education's "attendance officers," who, we suppose, are the same officials who used to be known as truant officers. He enlisted the service of a policeman, who refused to arrest the girl but agreed to take her to court for an inquiry.

It developed that the father of Frances is on relief and that there are nine other children in the family, and that the girl was trying to earn a little extra money. She insisted that she was 16, the minimum working age, but it proved later that she was only 15. But she is a high school pupil and could not be classed as a truant because she was out for the Easter recess. The magistrate considered it a trifling matter and dismissed the charge, but the school officer insisted on rearresting the girl on the ground that her quest for pin money, even in vacation time, was a violation of the compulsory education law.

Well, there is the case of Frances Kilkenny, and you may call it one of the shadows of American red tape, or whatever you please, but it seems to serve as a sample of the hundred and one petty exactions and minor oppressions which contribute to our abundant life. It typifies the essential silliness and inanity of a vast amount of activity on the part of law enforcement officers who are overburdened with a delicate sense of duty. They start out to do something to prove their vigilance, and even if it is something as frivolous as pushing a peanut up the street by nose power they are going to carry it thru, by heck, even after it is shown to be utterly silly.

So a great many thousands of us are needlessly subjected to chronic irritations, and thousands of technical "offenders" are made the victims of injustice and persecution. Perhaps it is something that exists in all countries, but it seems peculiarly in evidence in the United States of America.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"CAISSONS ARE ROLLING."

"The Artillery Song," known by its refrain, "The caissons go rolling along," is regarded by many as the best American military tune. Capt. Thomas F. Darcy, leader of the United States army band, says that in his opinion it is unquestionably the best known and best liked of the army songs, with a rousing swing that will forever maintain its popularity.

Curiously enough, the song is of amateur origin. Lieut. [now Col.] Edmund L. Gruber of the 5th field artillery composed the music on service in the Philippine Islands in 1908. Several of his brother officers aided him in writing the first verse and chorus; and from time to time he added four other verses.

He did not publish the words and music, and for years the stirring chant lived as a folk song, passed around, played and sung by ear. Naturally, alterations crept into the score and the text. In 1918 John Philip Sousa adapted it into "The Artillery March," which he published and dedicated to the 306th regiment of field artillery in the National Army. The words that he printed followed the Gruber original inaccurately.

Henry Weber, musical director of the W-G-N radio station and the Chicago City Opera company, has rearranged the score of Gruber's "Artillery Song" in an inspiring way. He uses the words of the current accepted version, of which the first verse and chorus are:

Over hill, over dale, as we hit the dusty trail,
And the caissons go rolling along.
In and out, hear them shout, counter march and right about,
And the caissons go rolling along.

Then it's hi, hi, hee, in the field artillery;
Shout out your numbers loud and strong.
Where'er you go, you will always know
That the caissons are rolling along.
Keep them rolling! [Shouted.]
And those caissons go rolling along.

If any of the Line o' Type column's poets can improve on these verses, let their contributions come rolling along also. We will print a few of the better versions and pick a winner. Moreover, the W-G-N double quartet will adopt the champion.

OLD MAN WITH BALLOONS.

It trickles, a drifting, tinny bleat,
Around the corner and down the street;
Suggesting old Pan, piping spring tunes—
Yes, here he comes, the man with balloons.

The day is gloomy, windy and cold—
The horn, like the man, is battered and old;
The children, it seems, are in for the day,
In spite of its urging: "Please come out and play!"

"Come see my fine rainbow, tethered with strings!
Hurry up! Hurry up! Each one who brings
A single, small nickel may have right away
A very nice piece of it! Come out and play!"

Now, Spring can be cranky, full of deceit,
But when the balloon man comes down the street,
And tootles his horn, one justly feels
That Spring, at least, is close on his heels.

Nature Shifts the Scenes.

Before buds swell further, now is the time to study the "architecture" of trees. Most of them are completely nude; the Gothic lace of elms and the less graceful patterns made by oak, maple, and cottonwood are revealed in all their beauty. Fields, too, are fascinating in the cleancut distinctness of their borders, as yet unadorned by hedge growths or other fringe.

The lands of Illinois and of other great sections of the plains suggest a gigantic crossword puzzle, the squares of which are relatively empty and waiting to be filled. This is an interlude between seasons. Nature's stage is almost barren.

But it will not remain so long! Her scene shifters are busy and soon Spring will speak her well beloved lines against a setting enjoyed by man since the days of Eden. Newcomer.

Let 'Em Eat Grass.

The news that grass contains more vitamins than any of the vegetables or fruits causes Contributor F. L. to point out that Nebuchadnezzar, the original grass eater in the Old Testament, lived for 963 years.

THE FIRST KNICKERBOCKER.

(Washington Irving, 1783-1859.)

The jovial master of the banquet came
Out of the Western World with porters droll,
Bearing New Yorkshire puddings, kegs and game
To speed the feast and spike the tepid bowl.
Came with a knowing twinkle and a cheer
That set the table in expectant mood,
Putting at ease the lonely guest or queer,
Warming afresh old currents of the blood.
Came with traditions old and gusto new,
With whimsy miracles and polished phrase,
That hearty appetites and jaded, too,
Made one to welcome him and lift with praise
A Yankee artisan of word and pen
Into the classic ranks of writing men.

Do You Remember the New Orpheon?

Regarding the history of the La Salle theater [April 4], which may be demolished soon:

I have a song sheet, published in 1902 by Charles K. Harris, for a number from a show called "Chow-Chow," which is described as a musical extravaganza produced at the New Orpheon theater; book and lyrics by Addison Burkhardt, score by Raymond Hubbell. This show was, I believe, the first to be staged at the converted beer hall. The next year, as I remember, the name of the theater was changed to the La Salle, and the series of Hough and Adams musical comedies began.

LOW BLOOD PRESSURE IS "LADY LUCK."

THE one who visits his physician because of headache, dizziness, inability to think clearly, constant fatigue, and breathlessness on exertion—may belong to that rather lucky group who exhibit a blood pressure substantially below the average [a systolic 110, diastolic 60 or less]. The manifestation of easy and prostrating weariness is probably the one that is most disturbing and women are more frequently affected than men. The age period is usually between 20 and 40 years and the patient often presents the characteristic lackadaisical appearance—with stooped, narrow shoulders, protruding abdomen, and general lack of muscular tone.

Every now and then this gamut of symptoms may be explained on the basis of insufficient nourishment. Here a well balanced diet—with enough exercise to stimulate appetite—will bring relief. Altho there may be no appreciable rise in the tension within the arteries, nevertheless this régime will work wonders. It is only in those individuals whose brains and other vital organs are failing to receive an adequate supply of nutriment that remedial measures may be demanded.

Sometimes the trouble will be found in a shortage of sugar in the circulating fluid. Those who are pursuing some patent reducing scheme—with a poor food balance—are likely to complain of a sudden sense of profound exhaustion, so severe that they can scarcely rise from a chair. Examination of the blood may show a sugar percentage that is under par and this is the reason that a bit of candy between meals is so helpful whenever the glucose level is deficient.

Now, most of these sufferers have two primary jobs to do. One is to raise nutrition; the other is to increase physical effort whether they feel like it or not. But should a drug be necessary to start the ball rolling, benzedrine or paredrine may be prescribed. With the latter, there is no danger of producing sleeplessness; while with the former, the effect of vigor and well being is more marked.

Of course, there are certain organic diseases that may be responsible for low pressures, but these need not be considered here because they are relatively rare.

We may look upon the symptom as favorable—on the whole. If adjustments are required the patient can make them himself. Least of all should we classify these individuals as neurotics or victims of nervous "breakdowns." The fact that special chemicals are beneficial shows that physical control of the blood pressure is weak and requires only activity to bring about a return to a more comfortable standard.

As far as length of days is concerned, life expectancy tables prove that these persons live longer than those with higher readings. They are more placid; they take things with less concern. Moreover, they are not subject to the degenerative diseases so likely to be observed in those with elevated tensions. While they do not accomplish as much, perhaps they serve as much needed ballast for others in the family who belong to the "go-getter" type.

The case is reported of a 38 year old lawyer whose experience at a trial covering several days was a most distressing one. He would become so tired by midday that it seemed as tho he could not go on. A careful examination disclosed nothing serious—merely too little force within the arterial pipes.

His physicians decided to try minute doses of benzedrine and—to him—this preparation proved a veritable boon. It was employed only when unusual energy and alertness were called for. Later, with a program of outdoor life, he was able to build a response to activity—mental or physical—which would carry him thru an emergency without the development of that "all gone" feeling which bothered him previously.

We should understand that this powerful compound [benzedrine] must not be taken promiscuously. The family doctor should supervise its use.

CHILD COUGHS.

T. C. writes: My child had scarlet fever several months ago and she is still bothered with a cough — especially at night. Is this unusual? What can be done about it?

REPLY.

If the symptom persists an X-ray of the chest is advised. Any weakening disease, such as scarlet fever, may allow other organisms to grow, some of which may invade the bronchial tract. Keep in touch with your physician.

TAKE BY MOUTH?

W. A. writes: Will adrenalin taken by mouth relieve asthma?

REPLY.

This drug is usually administered hypodermically or as a nasal or throat spray. Not nearly so effective when taken by mouth.

OPEN WINDOWS.

I. H. writes: Is it better to have the bedroom window open from the top or the bottom?

REPLY.

It makes no difference. The objective is to avoid a direct draft. Window ventilators are useful devices.

LIVER EXTRACT.

R. M. writes: Is liver extract by mouth just as helpful as when given hypodermically?

REPLY.

THE BILL FOR TVA.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 7.—The taxpayers who believed the TVA would be a good investment for their money are being disillusioned. The Tennesseeans who believed they were getting something for nothing now are asking the congress to assume the loss of $4,000,000 tax revenues due to submerged lands and purchase of the Tennessee Electric Power company. They believe the power company was bought to get its customers. They will learn that it was for the steam-power plant, because it was too soon to ask for one to be constructed alongside the hydro-electric plant. In the next session of the congress it is probable that the TVA will ask for an appropriation for new equipment for the steam-power plant.

There are people who believe the government should take over the railroads. Last year the roads paid taxes in the sum of $365,000,000. The government pays no taxes. Therefore the taxpayers would have to make up that amount for the taxpayers.

Don't let yourself be fooled all the time. Ask your congressional candidates, how about it? HENRY F. GILG.

THE HALO DEPARTMENT IS ON THE TOP FLOOR.

Chicago, April 8.—I am a member of that unappreciated fraternity known as floor-men, floor-managers, or if you wish to use the name that is so much and vulgarly associated with us, floorwalkers. What is a floorman, you might ask. He is one of an unsung, underpaid, underestimated yet overabused minority, who watch over the destinies of customer service in our large department stores. They are expected to be as courteous and polite as Chesterfield; as patient as Job; as carefully and meticulously groomed as Beau Brummel; as well educated as any college professor, combining the legal accomplishments of a Blackstone with the intricate mental calculations of an Einstein. Yet there is no public servant, and I use that term advisedly, who is more abused and humiliated by the average shopper in a department store.

Faithfully and conscientiously the floorman does his best to serve the interests of his employer as well as that of the customer, but if you think these two are compatible you are mistaken, and the floorman invariably is the goat. I sometimes dream of an Elysian realm where the floorman will sit upon a golden throne and receive the homage of all those who here on earth have helped to make his life miserable.

Why have I written this letter? Frankly I do not know. Probably I had an extremely trying day recently; more likely it is a case of wishful thinking that maybe some day the floorman's lot will be a better one, and that the public will understand and appreciate that he is after all just a plain human being like themselves, with all their emotions and all their love of the more noble things in life. JUST A FLOORMAN.

CENSUS JOBS.

Chicago, April 2.—Why have women who own and drive their own automobiles been given the preference to take the census jobs in some wards where unemployed men, my brother being one, were not given any consideration? He was not on that side of the fence with those parties or factions giving out these jobs. Regardless of party affiliations it seems to me a man like my brother, an ex-service man, well, hearty, and able to walk and take this census, was not given an opportunity, but evidently women who drive automobiles and are using them wherever possible were given this work.

MARY ANN.

WOMEN ON CRIMINAL JURIES.

Chicago, April 8.—"If women continue to serve on murder case juries there will be no further need for the electric chair. There will be need of a bill in the next legislature to bar women from serving on criminal cases."

Thus spake Judge William F. Borders, after a jury of four women and eight men returned a verdict of "not guilty" in his court in East St. Louis, the defendant being a Negro charged with a holdup murder.

After releasing these judicial pearls of wisdom, he continued:

"Women have too much sympathy, and have not the courage to return a verdict of guilty."

I have collected an illuminating file of juriana, which includes complete lists of verdicts, both civil and criminal, in which women took part as jurors in this state as well as verdicts of men-and-women juries in other states; and among such lists I find not one instance where women's lack of courage or emotions interfered with their verdicts.

On the other hand, I find the only case of a juror's emotional breakdown was that of a male juror, when Paul A. Wright, Los Angeles airport manager and movie picture director, was being tried for the murder of his wife and his best friend, John B. Kimmel. This juror, weeping and hysterical, was excused, and his place was filled by an alternate juror, a housewife. The case proceeded, and the defendant was found guilty of manslaughter.

In this case before Judge Borders, assuming the evidence merited a different verdict, then the four women jurors contributed but one-third and the eight male jurors two-thirds to a blameworthy verdict. But the women alone are singled out for criticism.

If the judge's suggestion is followed and the legislature is asked to eliminate by law women's right and duty to serve on criminal cases in this state, I am afraid whoever attempts it will be met with a veritable blitzkrieg of opposing forces. In the front will be the members of the Women's Bar association, who succeeded in securing the present law conferring on Illinois women the honor of jury duty on same terms as men, and I believe we will have the support of every woman's organization in this state. Even male lawyers, hitherto prejudiced against women on juries, now having experienced their worth, will join forces with us.

Chairman, Women Jury Information Committee of the Women's Bar Association of Illinois.

DEAN AND BEVERLY CASE — all washed up and ready for dreamland. Fours and fivers in the family mean a big family wash, too, but Mrs. Case likes doing it. They'll be LIVING ANSWERS for thousands of other "washing mothers" too.

DID YOU EVER SEE A DREAM—BLUEPRINTED?

Mr. & Mrs. Stanley A. Case of Detroit, Mich. are looking at one now!

AN OVERWHELMING MAJORITY (70%) of the nation's small-home builders want a Cape Cod cottage type house like the one the Journal designed for the Cases. Cases' plans include a complete planting plan for less than $25. Here they're previewing building materials with architectural editor Richard Pratt.

CASES' ANNUAL INCOME is $1600 (national average for automotive and parts workers). Mrs. Case spends $1.28 a day on food—more than her Iowa neighbor, Mrs. Griffin (Part 1)—$72 less per year than the average in her income group. Yet she provides dividends in vitamins and minerals above her family's requirements. See how she does it . . . in the May Journal.

MRS. CASE and Grace Pennock plan to move a door and window over a foot (it's easy when your house is still on paper). Cases' new house plan now allows a convenient arrangement of stove and refrigerator. Mr. Case will build window cupboards for the Journal's LIVING ANSWER decorating scheme. If you've a "handy-man" in the family, these LIVING ANSWERS will interest you!

MRS. CASE SPENDS less than American women's $17 average beauty bill . . . buys two new hats a year. Journal editors suggested adding cream rouge, foundation cream and eye-shadow to her beauty equipment of mild soap, all-purpose cream, lipstick . . . created this new hair-style . . . shopped with her for a dress at $7.95.

COULD YOU cut a charming Cape Cod cottage out of a house-and-lot budget of $4800—and make it include not only the 6 rooms that 70% of America's small-home builders say they need in a recent national survey—not only the full basement 68% would like to have—and the separate dining space 40% want—BUT ALSO THE BRIGHT WOOD-BURNING OPEN FIREPLACE ONE WHOLE FAMILY HAS DREAMED OF FOR YEARS?

That is what the Stanley A. Cases and the Journal have done together! Last month, ground was broken just outside Detroit for America's first LIVING ANSWER house. Walls are rising "and we are on our way towards the fulfilment of a great dream at last," write the Cases. You'll see the plans for their house published for the benefit of other small-home builders in the May Journal!

For that is the secret of the fascination of "How America Lives." The Cases' new house answers not only their own wishes, but every FHA requirement and those of the 83% of the small-home builders who plan to spend under $4500 on construction. If you live in Chicago, the Cases' house would cost you $5000. $3500 would do it in South Carolina.

And so it goes . . . neighbor comparing notes with neighbor on a national scale never before attempted. Journal editors helping to find in the actual homes and daily lives of families living on different incomes, in different parts of the country (one each month), LIVING ANSWERS to the problems that confront us all, irrespective of income or geography.

Each "How America Lives" episode affects every one's own meals and heart and pocketbook. That is why Journal sales (already reaching the world's largest paid magazine circulation) stepped up 185,000 with the first issue containing "How America Lives." If your advertising is not currently featured in the Journal, you are missing not only the greatest paid circulation of all time (3,575,000 women), but the most livingly interested audience in America. The May Journal with the Cases' story, Part 4 of "How America Lives," is now on the stands!

NEW DEAL WIRE TAPPING PROBE RUNS INTO SNAG

Democrats Fear Inquiry Will Be Embarrassing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—The senate wire tapping investigation, conceived by New Dealers as a weapon with which to smear prominent Republican leaders during the presidential campaign, appears to have backfired before getting started.

Senator Tom Stewart.

In the first place, the senate wire tapping subcommittee, headed by Senator Tom Stewart [D., Tenn.], is embroiled in a controversy over demands in certain influential quarters that wire tapping by the departments and agencies of the federal government be investigated. New Deal senators and high administration officials have made representations that such an inquiry would be highly embarrassing and they are resisting strongly any such undertaking by the subcommittee.

Government Does Same Thing.

The second cause for embarrassment in the New Deal ranks was the announcement today by Attorney General Robert H. Jackson that the government could not in good conscience prosecute Rhode Island state officials accused of wire tapping at a time when the federal government itself was doing the same thing.

Jackson's announcement was a blow particularly to Senator Theodore Francis Green [D., R. I.], a veteran of the Hugo Black senate snooping committee which seized thousands of personal telegrams and was found guilty of unlawful conduct by the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. Green introduced the resolution authorizing the senate wire tapping investigation in retaliation against the Rhode Island Republican administration of Gov. William H. Vanderbilt.

Tapping Charged in Rhode Island.

Attorney General Lewis V. Jackvony of Rhode Island allegedly employed wire tapping during an investigation of the Democratic machine headed by Mayor Thomas P. McCoy of Pawtucket, which resulted in 166 election fraud indictments. During this same investigation, it is charged, Jackvony's telephone wires were tapped.

Federal Attorney J. Howard McGrath of the Rhode Island district conducted a grand jury investigation of wire tapping by the Republican state officials, but Attorney General Jackson declared today that there would be no prosecution for offenses occurring prior to the Supreme court's decision in the second Nardone case last Dec. 11. In that case the Supreme court held that the federal communications act of 1934 outlaws interception of intrastate as well as interstate communications.

Evidence Given to Committee.

"I do not feel that the department of justice can in good conscience prosecute persons in Rhode Island for a practice which was at that time engaged in by the department itself, and regarded as legal by the department," Jackson said.

Jackson, at the request of Chairman Stewart, turned over the Rhode Island evidence to the senate subcommittee, which will give it all possible publicity, but the witnesses to be called, including Gov. Vanderbilt, will have the justice department example for their answer.

Chairman Stewart indicated today that he would not sidestep an inquiry into the wire tapping activities of government officials and agencies.

"I feel that the law enforcement agencies should be the first to uphold the law," Senator Stewart declared.

Hoover Resists Appointment.

Center of the dispute within the subcommittee is Max Lowenthal, former New Deal brain truster, who was nominated by Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] for secretary of the subcommittee. Senator Wheeler, chairman of the Interstate Commerce committee, appointed the Stewart wire tapping subcommittee. Lowenthal is suspected of writing Wheeler's report on the Green resolution. The report demanded an investigation of wire tapping by government agencies and intimated that there is a New Deal GPU or Gestapo.

Attorney General Jackson, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, and other government officials are resisting Lowenthal's appointment. Their chief representative on the committee is Senator Sherman [I'm a rubber stamp] Minton [D., Ind.].

SMITTY—FATE

Two killers doomed to die in the electric chair on June 14 lost an appeal yesterday to the Illinois Supreme court to set aside their sentence, while two other convicted slayers, scheduled to die at one minute past midnight tonight, were expected to receive a reprieve.

The Supreme court refused to set aside the death sentence imposed by Judge Robert Jerome Dunne on Edward Reilly and Orville Watson, exconvicts who killed a policeman and a tavern customer during a holdup last May 3. Reilly and Watson held up a tavern at 4623 North Western avenue. Their victims were Policeman Philip J. Kelly and Alexander Ferguson, an undertaker.

The state board of pardons and paroles at Springfield advised attorneys for Henry Drewek and Frank Michalowski, the two other slayers, to appeal to Judge John F. Bolton of Criminal court for a reprieve so the board can consider a plea in their behalf. Attorney Charles S. Bellous said he would file the plea today.

Drewek and Michalowski, along with Victor Nukowski, were convicted of the murder of Viggo Peterson, 64 years old, 2650 Cortland street, during a tavern holdup last Oct. 13. Nukowski is to be given a sanity hearing on April 22.

DIES PROPOSES LAW TO EXPOSE AMERICAN REDS

Defends File Seizure in Pennsylvania.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—A proposal for legislation forcing the opening of communist party records and membership lists to public inspection got a vociferous reception in the house today.

Rep. Emanuel Celler.

Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the special committee investigating un-American activities, took the floor to reply to an attack upon its committee made yesterday by Representative Emanuel Celler [D., N. Y.]. Celler criticized Dies and his colleagues for the "illegal seizure" of communist party records in Philadelphia recently.

Raps Attorney General.

Dies defended the methods by which the records were obtained. The committee proceeded strictly under the state statutes of Pennsylvania, he said, and the issue would be carried to the United States Supreme court if necessary.

In the course of an impassioned address, which was interrupted frequently by applause, Dies assailed Attorney General Robert H. Jackson for dismissing the indictments against 17 Detroit communists who were charged with recruiting American youths to fight for the soviet supported loyalist cause in Spain.

Noting the refusal of communist officials to produce their records or to testify concerning them, Dies said it was time for congress to pass legislation enabling publicity to be given the operations of foreign government agents in this country.

Subservient to a Dictator.

The dues-paying membership of the communist party in the United States is probably far greater than is known, Dies said. He recalled that Earl Browder, general secretary, testified there were 100,000 members. That was a deliberate falsehood, he remarked, because the records obtained in Philadelphia show there are 125,000 members in Pennsylvania alone.

"We are dealing with people who are subservient to foreign dictatorships, who are engaged in espionage, in sabotage, who hold their allegiance to a foreign government, a government that has now embarked upon a career of conquest," he said. "These people are masking their activities in the guise of a political party."

Representative Eugene E. Cox, [D., Ga.], here interjected that attacks such as those made by Celler upon the Dies committee were flea bites which should be disregarded.

INCOME QUERY CREATES CRISIS IN JAIL CENSUS

Census taking began yesterday in the Bridewell and created some delicate problems. John Curran, a guard, who was appointed a special enumerator to obtain statistics from 1,332 men and 63 women prisoners, found, for instance, that many of those he interviewed protested bitterly when he wanted information on question 32 [How much income did the subject make last year?] and question 33 [Did the subject have income of more than $50 from sources other than wages and salary?]. Pickpockets, burglars, and bandits in particular, resented this as a violation of their right to privacy.

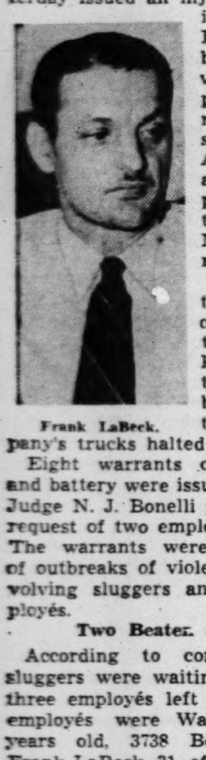
WRIT RESTRAINS STRIKING UNION AT HAT FACTORY

Bars It from Violence and Mass Picketing.

Superior Judge John C. Lewe yesterday issued an injunction restraining an American Federation of Labor union from violence and mass picketing in connection with a strike at the American Needle and Novelty company, a hat factory at 2331 North Washtenaw avenue.



Frank LaBeck.

In asking for the injunction the company, thru Attorney Harold M. Keele, charged that two men had been beaten and three of the company's trucks halted since April 1.

Eight warrants charging assault and battery were issued by Municipal Judge N. J. Bonelli yesterday at the request of two employés of the firm. The warrants were the aftermath of outbreaks of violence Tuesday involving sluggers and company employés.

Two Beaten at Plant.

According to company officials, sluggers were waiting outside when three employés left the plant. The employés were Walter Bubak, 21 years old, 3738 Belmont avenue; Frank LaBeck, 31, of 2724 Prindiville street, and Frank Nowakowski. The latter two were beaten in the plant vestibule. Bubak ran, but was caught when he sought refuge in a photographic studio nearby. The sluggers twisted the arms of a girl studio employé when she tried to halt them.

Company officials said also that an attempt was made Tuesday to wreck the plant's freight elevator, and that a company hired truck was halted at Ashland and Carroll avenues and the driver and truck owner were attacked.

Employé Gets Five Warrants.

LaBeck obtained five John Doe warrants in connection with the attack on him. The truck owner, James Lawrence, 2537 Cortland street, got two John Doe warrants and one naming Sam Woloshin, 3637½ Dickens avenue, a former employé. Woloshin was later arrested outside the plant. He was released on $25 bond and will be arraigned today in the Shakespeare avenue court.

Most of the company's 150 employés have been on strike since one was called April 3 by the United Hatters, Cap, and Millinery workers. Capt. Charles Pawlowski of the Shakespeare avenue police said the plant was being picketed yesterday but that there had been no violence.

Attorney Keele said the strike was called during the company's busiest season. He said $20,000 worth of novelty headgear was awaiting delivery. The strike was called when the company refused union demands for a 25 per cent wage increase.

Actress Is Dead

(Story in adjoining column.)

Mrs. Patrick Campbell, noted actress, who died at Pau, France, at age of 85.

MRS. CAMPBELL, FAMED ACTRESS, DIES IN FRANCE

Tragedienne 75; Once Set Record in Chicago.

LONDON, April 10 (AP).—The death of Mrs. Patrick Campbell, noted actress, at Pau, France, was announced today. She was 75 years old.

Mrs. Campbell, amost as famed as a wit as she was as an actress, made her stage debut in 1888. She toured the United States several times and in 1934 went to Hollywood and made several movies. She made her home in France because she would not take her Pekingese dog thru the British quarantine.

When Mrs. Campbell first went to the United States in 1901, she was asked many times why she was always called "Mrs. Pat" instead of "Mrs. Campbell." Her reply invariably was to hold up a lap dog and say, "Talk to Pinky-Panky-Poo. He was given to me by the king of the Belgians.

Fashion Plate of Stage.

She was the fashion plate of actresses and women rushed to her shows to see the styles she bought in Paris. Onco she announced that she had assembled a magnificent Paris wardrobe from new collections. Her feminine admirers were agog to see it. Mrs. Campbell then appeared in "Beyond Human Power," a quiet play in which she remained in bed the entire time.

She made money in the play both in New York and on the road. At times her profit was $5,000 a week. On one of her tours her company took in $42,000, a record, in two weeks at the Grand opera house in Chicago.

Mrs. Campbell's most popular repertory in America included Sudermann's play "Magda," Pinero's "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," and a play called "The Notorious Mrs. Ebbsmith."

Fame Won in "Mrs. Tanqueray."

Her real name was Beatrice Stella Tanner. She won her first fame playing Paula in "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" in 1893. That performance established her as a star tragedienne. She followed it with notable performances as Juliet, Ophelia, Lady Macbeth, Magda, Mrs. Alving in Ibsen's "Ghosts" and Eliza Doolittle in "Pygmalion." She climaxed her career playing Anastasia in G. B. Stern's "The Matriarch" in 1929. Mrs. Campbell is survived by a daughter. A son, Lieutenant Commander Alan Campbell, was killed in France in the world war.

REFUSES TO FREE HIT-RUNNER ON KIDNAP CHARGE

Judge William J. Lindsay in the Criminal court yesterday overruled a motion to quash the indictment charging Walter H. Bradshaw, 45 years old, with concealment of an infant under the kidnaping law in connection with the automobile death of Beverly Joan Frank, 5. The judge ordered Bradshaw to trial before a jury next Monday.

The girl, who lived at 1402 George street, was fatally injured by Bradshaw's car Feb. 29.

Instead of taking her to a hospital he drove to his home at 14 North Oakley avenue and left her, dead or dying, under a tarpaulin in the garage. He then continued to his butcher shop at 4204 Lincoln avenue and worked until he was arrested.

County Goes 48 Hours Without Auto Fatality

There were no automobile fatalities in Cook county in the 48 hours ending at 4 p. m. yesterday. Up to that time 245 persons had been killed in the county by automobiles since Jan. 1. Of these 187 were killed in Chicago, where 5,560 were injured in the same period.

TOM PENDERGAST PAYS $140,000 ON INCOME TAX BILL

Washington, D. C., April 10 (AP).—The justice department disclosed today that Tom Pendergast, imprisoned former Democratic boss of Kansas City, Mo., had paid $140,000 in partial settlement of government income tax claims.

Under the terms of an agreement reached three months ago in settlement of all civil tax liability, Pendergast must pay an additional $210,000 by April 1941. If he does not pay the remainder of the tax settlement, the department said, all his present and future property holdings will be subject to sale by the government.

MRS. IDA SMALL, WIFE OF DOCTOR, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Daughter of First Winner of Congress Medal.

Mrs. Ida Irwin Small, the wife of Dr. Arthur Atwell Small, died of pneumonia in the Passavant hospital last night. She had been in failing health for several months.

Mrs. Small was married in 1902 to Dr. Small, a widely known physician and surgeon, who was a lieutenant colonel in the medical corps during the world war. She was the daughter of the late Brig. Gen. B. J. D. Irwin, the first American soldier to win the congressional medal of honor, and she was a sister of the late Mrs. Amy McCormick, wife of Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE. The late Maj. Gen. George Le Roy Irwin was a brother.

Mrs. Small collaborated a few years ago with Mrs. McCormick in compiling a scrapbook of the Spanish-American war, which is now in the Chicago Historical society's exhibits. This work exemplified the family's interest in historical affairs.

Mrs. Small was active in the Army Relief society.

She and her husband lived at 32 East Division street. He survives with two nephews and a niece, the children of Maj. Gen. Irwin. They are Lieut. Col. Le Roy Irwin, John D'Arcy Irwin, and Mrs. Josephine Irwin Wright.

COURT ASKS WHY WIFE NO. 2 OWES ALIMONY TO NO. 1

Judge Cornelius J. Harrington was informed yesterday that the second wife of James Taggert, 6251 Sheridan road, has been supplying funds to pay $25 a week alimony to wife No. 1, Mrs. Vera P. Taggert, 45 years old, of 5223 Kenmore avenue.

Taggert and his first wife were divorced in 1938. The $25 a week included support money for their son, James Jr., 15. Mrs. Taggert had her ex-husband in court on a contempt charge, because he was $125 in arrears on the payments.

Taggert's attorney, R. A. Griffin, said his client had remarried and had lost his $400 a month job as a cash register salesman.

"His second wife, Mae, has advanced more than $300 for the alimony payments," said Griffin. "They are willing to support the son, but not the first Mrs. Taggert."

Attorney Norman Becker, representing Mrs. Taggert No. 1, termed this proposal outrageous. At his suggestion Judge Harrington ordered that Mrs. Taggert No. 2 be in court April 17 to have her say.

600 AUSTIN HIGH STUDENTS JOIN IN W-G-N SHOW

Guests on Citizens of Tomorrow Program.

Radio station W-G-N was host to 600 students of Austin High school last night at the presentation of the second program in the new radio series, Citizens of Tomorrow, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The program, dedicated to the students of Chicagoland, is heard each Wednesday night, with a different high school as guest each week.

The 600 students opened the half hour program with school yells. During the broadcast the high school chorus of 40 voices, directed by Miss Hazel Lloyd, presented three numbers.

Austin's Growth Described.

Philip Maxwell, a member of the editorial staff of THE TRIBUNE, was master of ceremonies and portrayed the part of the principal in a playlet describing the growth of Austin from a school with a handful of students to the present institution with its enrollment of 6,500. Dorothy Gregory, a senior at Maine Township High school, had the rôle of Jerry, a co-ed, and Charles Jones that of "every school's engineer."

Six students, chosen from the audience, took part in THE TRIBUNE headline news quiz conducted by Maxwell. Miss Shirley Newman, who achieved a perfect score, was awarded first prize, a $5 bill. Consolation prizes of $1 each went to the others.

Five Added to Honor Roll.

The names of five more Chicagoland students were added to the Citizens of Tomorrow honor roll, on which is inscribed each week the names of students whose achievements have merited attention. Those whose names were added last night are: Walter Toy, Madison, Wis.; Marion Rhode, Cedar Falls, Ia.; Louis W. Haughey, Battle Creek, Mich.; Rhoda Feltis, Michigan City, Ind. and Robert Swenson, Moline, Ill.

Students of Parker High school will be the program's guests next Wednesday night.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Vincent Killelea, 53, of 5414 Drexel avenue, died from a heart attack last night while visiting his brother, Leo, in the latter's jewelry store at 622 South Michigan avenue.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by HOMER NEISZ

New Buds Come Out.

April 10, 1940.

SUNSHINE yesterday, following two days of rain, brought out new buds on trees and shrubs at the Du Page county farm and hastened growth of early spring flowers, grass, and winter wheat. Buds are starting on the elms, boxelders, river maples, and lilacs. Clumps of willows around the ponds are brightly colored with greenish yellow bark. Buds began opening on some trees more than a week ago, but were retarded by cool weather.

Tulips, jonquils, irises, and other perennial flowers are coming up. Some of the tulips are more than six inches tall. Lawns and pastures are turning green. Fields of winter wheat that had looked bare since last fall are green again, the plants showing plainly in the drill rows across the fields. Honey bees were busy yesterday in the tops of maple trees that are blooming.

More Turkey Eggs.

Turkey hens that started laying in the sheep barn nearly two weeks ago have stepped up their egg production with the approach of warmer weather. There are only 12 in the flock, but they are laying four to five eggs a day.

The turkey eggs are being gathered each day and will be sent to a commercial hatchery for incubation. The poults will be brought back to the farm and raised in brooders. Later on the turkey hens will be allowed to make their nests wherever they please about the farm and hatch and raise their poults to suit themselves.

Usually the turkey hens lay about 18 eggs apiece in the sheep barn or in sheds around the barnlot before warm weather. Then they insist on sitting, whether any eggs are left in the nests or not. The flockmaster settles that by putting the hens in broody coops for four or five days.

About a week after they are turned out of the coops, most of the turkeys wander far off into the fields or woods and make new nests and are seldom seen in the poultry yards again until late in the fall when they bring their broods in for feed. They find natural feed during the summer.

Some Stay in Barn.

Some of the turkeys go back to the nests in the sheep barn and start all over again. These are granted the same freedom in laying and hatching their eggs and raising the poults as those that build new nests out in the open.

One of the pure bred Southdown lambs and its mother left the farm yesterday to spend a few days at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago as guests of the Rotary club. They are being exhibited at the club's annual business exposition and have comfortable quarters on the mezzanine floor of the hotel.

WOMAN MAILS $1,251 TO FRIEND IN A CIGAR BOX

Mrs. J. Reed of 5846 Lake street recently mailed a package to Mrs. J. Stein of New York, but wrote the address so the postman delivered it to Mrs. J. Klein, who happened to live nearby. Mrs. Klein, altho knowing no Mrs. Reed, opened the package.

She found a cigar box containing an old handkerchief and $1,251 in bills. Mrs. Klein called police, told them to get rid of the stuff. New York police notified Chicago police. Chicago policemen went to see Mrs. Reed.

She refused to talk to them, but later they got the story from a postal inspector who interviewed Mrs. Reed. The story, as relayed, was that her friend, Mrs. Stein, had left the money on a trip to Chicago some time ago and phoned recently to ask that it be sent to her.

IT'S A DOG'S LIFE, BUT COURT TRIES TO REGULATE IT!

Four dogs had their day in court yesterday. So did nine cats. The dogs came out second best. In the natural course of events, they are likely to find themselves held in contempt of court and liable to heavy fines and jail sentences.

The dogs and cats belong to Mrs. Edith Mae Strassheim, 50 years old, a widow, who lives at 4227 North Hermitage avenue. Judge William V. Brothers issued a permanent injunction restraining the dogs from barking, yelping, or exercising on the lawn of a neighbor, Ole Kolseth, 4233 North Hermitage avenue.

Proceedings against the meowings and meanderings of the nine cats were dismissed.

THREE KILLED IN FEUD BATTLE; WOMAN, SON SHOT

Monte Vista, Colo., April 10 (AP).—Three men were killed and a woman and her 22 year old son were wounded critically tonight in what Police Chief Max Richardson called a feud shooting.

The three were killed by rifle bullets, Richardson said, after Mrs. Maes, 44, and her son, Frank, had been critically wounded by Martinez. Neither will recover, doctors said.

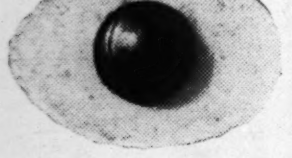
Annie doesn't live here any more!



There was red flannel washing on the line, and the family kept a goat, when Annie lived here 30 years ago.

Now a fine new apartment house gleams where Annie's shanty used to stand . . . and where her family of seven once lived, thirty-five families now make their homes.

Yes, times have changed since Annie's day . . . and with them, the ways of a woman's life. Annie's world was bounded by her neighbors' fences; she used to wonder what her husband meant when he spoke of foreign affairs and the party platform.

Today, women's horizons are as broad as the world . . . and the thirty-five modern housewives, living quietly behind name-plates on the site of Annie's shack, know as much as their husbands do about blitzkrieg and blockade.

These are typical families of New York's high and medium income neighborhoods . . . the Profit-Half of the market.

Today, there are 221,840 such families—all in the Profit-Half of New York City and Suburbs—in each of which the housewife begins the day with The New York Times!

On Sundays, there are 414,180 such families—all in the Profit-Half of New York—in which housewives begin the week with The Sunday New York Times!

And the daily buying for these Profit-Half families is almost entirely done by these same housewife readers of The Times!

For these families belong to the upper income groups of New York City, and it is the housewives of this rich market who buy the most of everything. Daily these women buy from 60% to 70% of most of the advertised merchandise sold in this market!

Naturally, therefore, it is highly significant to advertisers that so many of these women prefer The New York Times!

414,180 Women in the Profit-Half of the New York Market Read The New York Times on Sunday. . . . 221,840 on Week-days

How do we know? We went out and found out. We called in the Houser Associates, an independent research organization, and sent them into the Profit-Half of the market . . . into the high and medium income neighborhoods.

There they stopped 50,194 shopping housewives coming out of grocery stores and asked them point-blank what newspapers they had read in the past 24 hours.

It was this survey that furnished us with the facts about The Times. The findings in detail are now available in published form, and a copy of this important book will be sent free to advertisers and advertising agencies upon request.

WHY DO WOMEN PREFER THE TIMES?

With the social responsibility of raising families in these confused and difficult days . . . with the economic responsibility of spending 70 to 85 cents of every retail dollar, intelligent women today realize the vital importance of truth! Truth in the news . . . truth in advertising . . . for these, they know that they can depend upon The Times.

Madrigals of Englands' Golden Age Are Revived by Miss Bacon

BY CECIL SMITH.

England's "golden age" of choral music, the Tudor period of the late 16th and early 17th centuries, was brought to life charmingly and authoritatively in the Goodman theater last evening by Madi Bacon and her 16 Elizabethan Madrigal singers. The concert, the final item in the Art Institute music series, will be repeated tonight.

Tho the men in Miss Bacon's little group dress in standard 1940 dinner jackets, the women singers and their conductor create an attractive suggestion of a bygone time with their picturesque dresses, derived and simplified from Elizabethan styles. Since the music of the period was usually sung under the most informal circumstances, the group followed this precedent from time to time by moving about and sitting on ancient looking furniture provided for the occasion.

The illusion created by the group is more than merely visual. Miss Bacon has attained an expert knowledge of the unassuming manner in which Tudor madrigals should be sung, with constant attention to the rhythm and sense of the choice conceits contained in the words, and with a total absence of modern dramatic appeals or mock heroics. She allows the music to speak for herself, and her well trained group realizes her musical intentions easily and precisely.

The program contained some of the rarest gems of Elizabethan secular choral music. Among these were John Wilbye's "Adew, sweet Amaryllis" and "Draw on, sweet night," the latter one of the most melting lyric expressions to be found in the music of any country or period: Orlando Gibbons' noted madrigal, "The silver swan," and William Byrd's rhythmically complex "Though Amaryllis dance in green." Also included were two church pieces—Victoria's transcendent Christmas motet, "O magnum mysterium," and Sweelinck's animated, bright "Laudate Dominum." An attractive group of folk songs rounded out a unique and valuable program.

On the House

A "convenience wall" built into the side of a room, can play the part of a complete home management center. . . . Such a wall is often found in a small sewing room, or even in a bedroom. . . . It can have its built-in ironing board and table for cutting, and cabinet for portable sewing machine. . . . On the same wall can be a built-in desk, with drawer space for bills, a cabinet for typewriter, and shelves for books and papers. . . . Good lighting of all work surfaces is an essential, if this "convenience wall" is to be thoroly enjoyed by all family members.

House in Antigua.

There's a fascination frantic, in a ruin that's romantic, quotes Louis Adamic in his book, House in Antigua. The chatelaine of the famous house in Antigua, Guatemala, which no longer is a ruin, is visiting in Chicago. She is Mrs. Wilson Popanoe, wife of the head agronomist of the United Fruit company, who oversees production on 100,000 acres of banana plantations in seven or eight middle American countries. Originally built by a Spaniard sent to Spain's colony in 1630, the house later was reduced to ruins by an earthquake. Dr. Popanoe, strolling by the ruins in the late '20s, saw a cock fight going on among the roofless pillars and, entering the ruined court, saw a magnificent 70 foot cypress tree. Eventually, largely because of the tree, he bought the house and restored it, and the great cypress stands in the center of the now restored patio. House and furnishings are in old Spanish style, say visitors to Guatemala who have seen it.

"We have no electric lights, no radio, and no telephone," Mrs. Popanoe, who was formerly Helen Barsaloux of Chicago, told friends at luncheon at the Arts club. "And we have a solar water heating system. Water for showers is heated in pipes exposed to the sun."

Blackamoor Clothes Models.

John Pratt collects blackamoor figures, and it was he who loaned the two seven foot Venetian figures which dominate the Michigan avenue display window of the loan exhibition from private collectors that opens Friday under the auspices of the Illinois chapter of the American Institute of Decorators. When the committee went to Mr. Pratt's studio to select a pair from his amazing collection they found the 30 Negro figures draped with costumes that Mr. Pratt said had to be delivered shortly for a play opening. The play is Tropical Pinafore, the modernized version of Gilbert and Sullivan's H. M. S. Pinafore, which opens, with a Negro cast, tomorrow night at the Great Northern.

Wistful Story.

A little lad came into the Chicago park district's toy lending center at Madden park. After looking about at the several hundred toys to be played with at the center or taken home, he sidled up to the young woman in charge and asked shyly if the toys lived there all the time. Told they did, he added, "I thought toys only lived at Christmas."

Two Spy Films Arrive as War Grows Violent

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Our fair city is host this week to a couple of pretty good spy pictures—"British Intelligence" at the State-Lake and "Ultimatum" at the Sonotone.

In the former Margaret Lindsay and Boris Karloff occupy the center of the stage. Spies, you know them to be, but you're kept in the dark as to their affiliations until the end of the show. You do a heap of guessing, of course, but if your' guesses are right it's not because all concerned haven't done a neat job of maintaining suspense.

Miss Lindsay is smooth and charming. Boris Karloff eases around in various disguises, now pathetic, now sinister. Other players handle their rôles capably and the piece is effectively staged and photographed.

The story I shall not tell—but it IS an interesting one. It hands you one BIG and unexpected laugh. Watch for the scene where the fellow who looks like Hitler comes jittering in to answer a couple of leading questions. . . .!

"ULTIMATUM."
Directed by Robert Wiene.
Distributed by J. H. Hoffberg Productions.
Presented at the Sonotone theater.

THE CAST.

Stanko Salic	Bernard Lancret
Anna Salic	Dita Parlo
Gen. Simovic	Eric von Stroheim
Capt. Karl Burgstaller	Abel Jacquin
Lieut. Ristic	Jeorges Rollin
Legrain	Marcel Andre
Usir	Aimos

The stars [Eric von Stroheim and Dita Parlo] who shone in "Grand Illusion" lend their light to this movie—directed by the chap who megaphoned so unforgettably for "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari."

"Ultimatum" is much on the order of "Grand Illusion," in that it shows the effect of war on personalities. In the first as in the last named Von Stroheim plays a maimed officer and Miss Parlo a woman left behind by her soldier man.

The film is localed on the Serbian-Austrian frontier at the time of the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and most of the action transpires immediately before the actual declaration of the world war.

Commandant Stanko Salic, Serbian, his Austrian wife, Anna, the Serbian Gen. Simovic, and an Austrian newspaper man—who had been a childhood friend of Stanko—are the principal figures in the swiftly moving spy drama which unreels. To Stanko comes the honor [?] of being the first to die from war wounds.

The acting is earnest and credible.

Also on the Sonotone program is a short—"Finland Speaks." You see the Finland of happy days and the devastated Finland of today. Narration is excellent.

See you tomorrow.

An Informal Daytime Dress

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This informal dress is suitable for your home hours and for your daytime social activities, too. It's the sort of dress that suits particularly well the figure problems of the mature silhouette. Streamlined paneling is the secret of its success and charm. The V neckline may have a collar or not, as you choose. A corsage may repose on the shoulder if you're in a dressy mood. Sleeves are puffed at the shoulders and may be either long and fitted or short and full. The belt extends only from the side panels around to the back, where it ties in a bow. Notice the interesting shoulder yoke.

Both plain and printed silks and cottons make up well in this practical model.

Style No. 2713 is designed for size 16 and for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material for dress with cape sleeves, with ⅝ yard for collar; 3¾ yards for long sleeved model.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Cleanliness Is Worst Enemy of Blackheads

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The young folks' pimple and blackhead problem is with us all year 'round, of course, but at this season it seems to be emphasized. Probably it is for the same reason that adults suffer more skin blemishes in the spring months, on account of the heavier type of food consumption in the preceding cold months.

Youngsters should be subjected the year 'round to the fruit and vegetable in plenty regimen as are the more careful adults. They should, too, be on a reasonable water consuming diet in the cold weather as in the warm. For basically, the prevention and remedy of the blackhead and pimply skin condition is found in internal cleanliness.

After this internal care comes local attention. There is no attempt to minimize the need of local care. It should go hand in hand with the other. Important medical skin authorities have told me time and again that supercleanliness only will save the youngsters a blemish free skin during the years of which I speak. And they urge not one or two hand washings a day, but half a dozen. It is the active, soiled hands coming in frequent contact with the skin that cause damage. If you can or will make your growing adolescent wash his or her hands on return from school and before meals, I suppose that is accomplishing enough, you think. The authorities of which I speak feel that school children should be released several times during the daily school sessions to perform the hand washing rites. Anyway, you mothers can pound into the youngsters' head that dirty hands breed blemished skins.

Stripes Spring Into Favor for Silk Blouses

BY REA SEEGER.

Siren spring songs in stripes take the best hoarded cash of susceptible shoppers. There's something fresh, young, and appealing to the neat shirtwaist blouses in striped silk. Red and white are plenty snappy, so are the navy, green, and white stripes with black and brown well tested affairs to wear with any suit. These stripes are narrow pencil lines but the wider formations are abundant, also, in sheers, cottons, and silks.

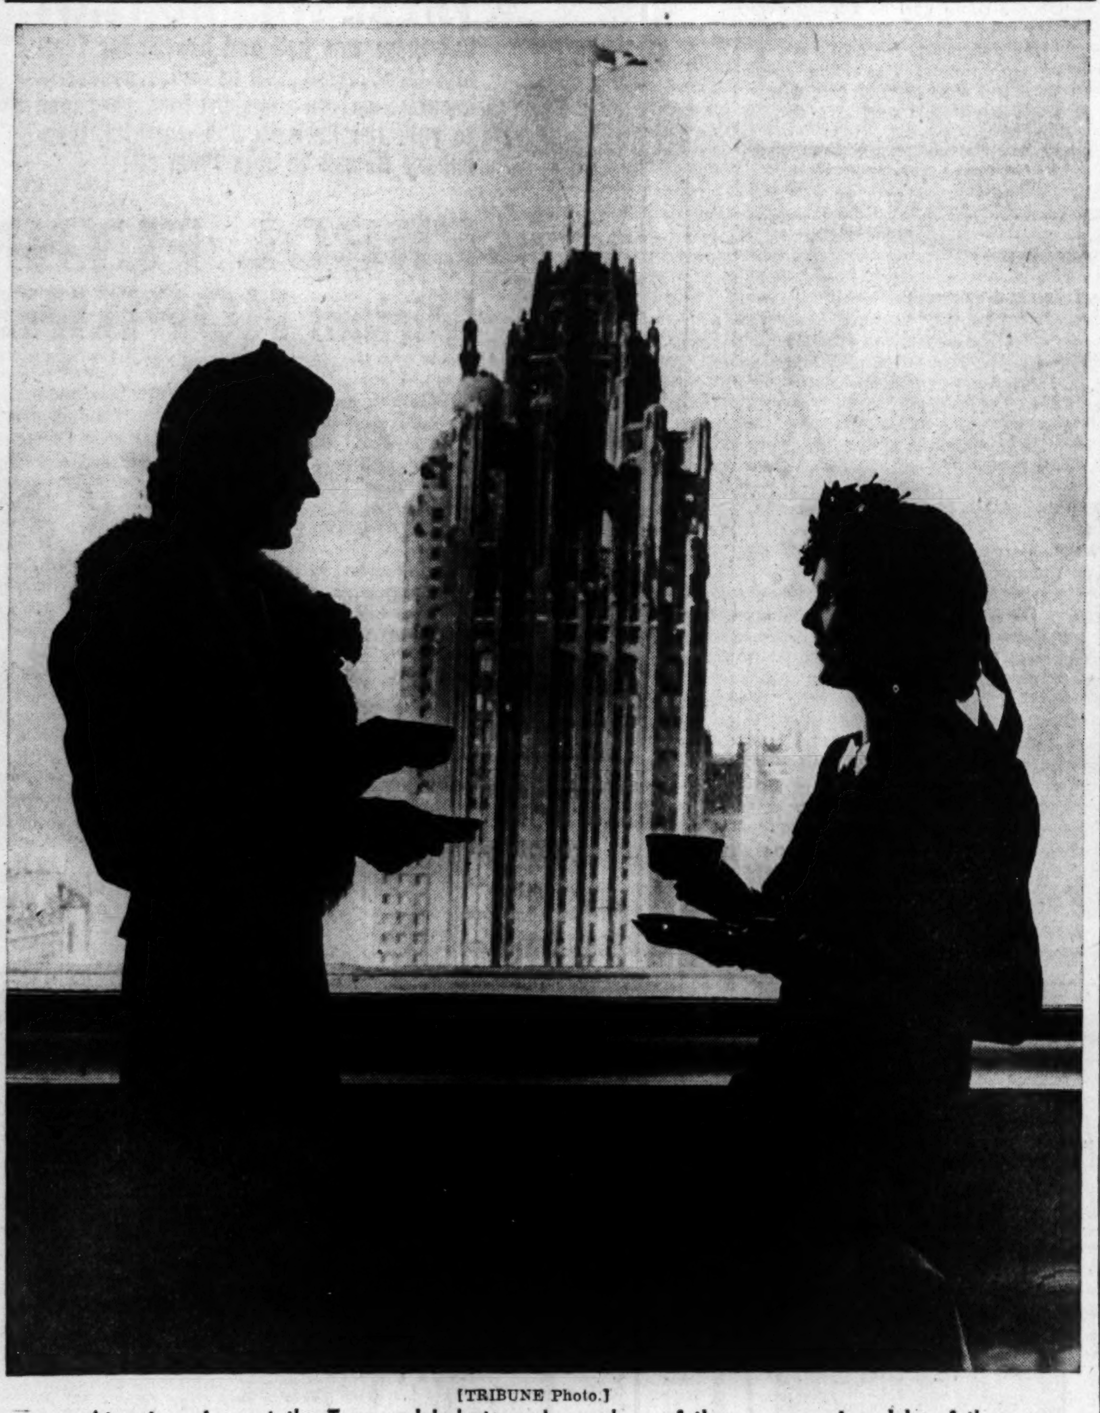
Striped petticoats are eye-catchers . . . pert pickups for dark toned tailored suits, street dresses, and slim reefer coats. Most of them use the striped pattern in contrast for the only trim with a pleated ruffle.

Gypsy stripes and more sedate blue, red, gray, brown, and green with white stripes come in crisp rustling silks in these showings. Neat tailored waistcoats and vestees, some with matching wrap-around turbans, some with belts, and others without any extras, make effective tops for the separate skirt and jacket mixers.

Clinging jersey in wide stripes is a new and colorful material used for some particularly beautiful negligees or house robes. The stripes are used vertically. The front fullness is achieved with pressed flat pleats of the dark stripes and most of the sleeves are three-quarter length. . . . All this is then defined with a midriff belt using the stripes horizontally.

If you sniff at jersey [it's amazingly cool even tho it does cling to the streamlines], see the new striped taffetas. They have a demure gay-ninety charm, bias cut ruffles around the hemline, ruffles at the end of tight fitting sleeves, a zipper down the front that keeps the princess line and a coquettish bow at the throat. Red, gray, blue, and green half-inch stripes with off white backgrounds provide the color schemes. . . . The price tags are extremely modest.

As Maternity Center Aids Discussed Benefit



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

At a tea given at the Tavern club last week members of the seven service clubs of the Chicago Maternity center discussed plans for a benefit which is to run from May until September. The clubs have joined forces to sponsor the construction, furnishings, equipment, and landscaping of a House of Tomorrow. It will be located at 435 Malden avenue, Edgewood Park. This project is a repetition of the one held last year which was so successful. Mrs. James C. Bowman (left) and Mrs. Paul G. Davis are two of the members who attended the tea. They were in front of a large plate glass window in the club, silhouetted against the sky and the Tribune Tower, when the photographer took this picture.

Women Enter Hat Contest to Aid Hospital

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT IS TRULY wonderful what an enthusiastic and persuasive woman can get another woman to do in the name of sweet charity. For instance, whoever would have believed that Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. Byron S. Harvey, Mrs. John C. Pitcher, Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, Mrs. de Koven Phelps, and Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley would agree to enter a hat contest, and, what's more, to parade on the stage of the theater to show the audience their hats?

That is exactly what these women and a number of others are going to do on Tuesday afternoon, April 23, at the Esquire theater at a party the woman's board of the Children's Memorial hospital has planned. Invitations went into the mail yesterday to what the hostesses say is going to be a three ring circus. In addition to the hat contest there is to be a movie. The price of admittance will be a white elephant, "something you don't want," to be sold at the Rummage shop for the benefit of the hospital.

Women Enlisted for Party by Mrs. Frank Hibbard.

Mrs. Frank Hibbard is the clever woman who is in charge of the party and who, even before the cards went out, had obtained promises from the above mentioned women to enter the contest. Among the younger women she already has persuaded to try for the prize that will be awarded to the wearer of the most unusual hat that afternoon are Mrs. Pauling Donnelley, Mrs. Walter C. Coleman, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, Mrs. John L. Cochran, Mrs. Potter Palmer III., Miss Pauline Palmer, and Mrs. Preston Boyden. One of the smartest hat shops on North Michigan avenue has donated a stunning chapeau as the prize.

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, of course, wrote the jingle that is the invitation, for she has been the hospital poet for years. Mrs. D. Mark Cummings is president of the woman's board and Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell is chairman of the shop committee.

The junior auxiliary of the hospital will conduct a sports clothes sale at the Rummage shop, 27 East Ohio street, tomorrow. The doors will be opened at 9:30 o'clock. Mrs. Roy Flannery, Mrs. Lefens Porter, Mrs. Frank Pierce, Mrs. Jack Vilas, Mrs. William O. Hunt, Miss Jane Zimmerman, and Mrs. Edward B. Wolff will be the saleswomen.

Parties and Showers to Fill Week for Mardo Pattou.

Miss Mardo Pattou, daughter of the Albert B. Pattous, and Joseph Belden have a busy week ahead of them prior to their marriage on April 20.

Miss Anne Stuart has planned something as different as it is practical and this afternoon she will be hostess at a book shower. On Saturday Miss Peggy Burrows will give a stocking shower. That same day Miss Caryl Harrison will give a dinner for the bridal party at her home, preceding a dance which the ushers will give at the Onwentsia club.

Next Monday Mrs. Edward Shumway will give a linen shower and

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 10.—They give you a huge dressing room at the Stanley theater in this city, and the walls might serve as murals in the pattern of an honest-to-goodness Hollywood success story. . . . For this was the dressing room once occupied weeks on end by Pittsburgh's favorite in the days when theaters had grown from small, intimate auditoriums to huge picture palaces seating from 3,500 up. . . . To overcome the formal coldness that such big theaters brought about, and to bridge the gap between performer and customer, masters of ceremonies came to full flower.

Chicago had its Paul Ash, the band leader with a head of luxuriant foliage that would have made William Jennings Bryan envious. . . . St. Louis had Eddie Lowery. . . . Pittsburgh had Dick Powell, and so on right across the country. . . . Wherever they built a 3,000 seater house, they engaged a jack-of-all-trades to act as permanent M. C., and these handymen built up tremendous personal followings. . . . Often they lasted two or three years at a single theater, so deeply did they win their way into local affection. . . . The permanent M. C. was worked into the act of each headliner, and likely as not, imitated the mannerisms and swiped the material of all of them after they'd departed. . . . It was out of this dressing room that I'm now occupying that Powell was signed for the movies by Rufus Le Maire.

Last night we taxicabbed to the Yacht club, a night club that is located a gangplank's length from shore in the swirling Allegheny river. . . . It really should be retagged "the Heller Ship," because Jackie Heller is the featured singer, his brother owns it, his brother-in-law conducts the band, and his sister sings with the band. . . . Heller has been well known as a singer for a good many years, but the little fellow now has developed his style to a point where he is one of the most expert night club entertainers in the country. . . . Just as Joe E. Lewis went along for seasons as a fair-to-middlin' performer and then suddenly hit his stride and became a topliner, so has Heller abruptly leaped to star classification. . . . Actually no performer leaps to stardom; it only seems that way. . . . Heller has been moving year after year. . . . What we cheered last night was the fruit of all those seeds. . . . He is terrific.

We have been waiting all week for the appearance in our midst of Pittsburgh's prime ribber, one Luke Barnett, but to date, Harry Kalmine, Johnny Harris and the rest of the theatrical crowd haven't turned him loose on us. . . . Barnett is that most typical of American institutions, the practical joker, but his arena of activity is in the anteroom of banquets. . . . For sheer embarrassment value he has few equals. . . . He is introduced to you quite casually as a foreign-language newspaper editor and ten minutes later, like as not, you find that you have become embroiled in a furious argument with him over some remark that he has misquoted or misinterpreted.

About three years ago I came to speak at a Variety club banquet and on the train from New York I determined that Barnett would not hook me. . . . The reception room outside the banquet hall was crowded with important persons, senators, congressmen, naval and military officers, clergymen, sporting celebs and theatrical celebrities. . . . I was chatting with Baseball Star Rip Collins when suddenly behind me I heard the start of an argument about newspaper ethics. . . . A newspaper man can never resist the impulse to join in such a discussion and it seemed to me that a peacemaker was required. . . . Within two minutes, a short, baldish man was telling me off, but good, and the more you attempted to soothe his fury, the more irate he became and the louder he screamed.

Your first reaction is confusion that you should thus be unbraided before a lot of people you hardly know. . . . In other words, what first pains is outraged vanity. . . . Then you get the larcenous notion to take a poke at this abusive little man, and immediately you realize that if you take a punch at an older man you are what the trade would designate as a dead-pigeon. . . . So you stutter and stammer and flush and retreat and Barnett pursues, shouting, waving his fists and appealing to all bystanders to judge how grievously you have slandered him. . . . So we have been watching for Barnett to appear all week, and we carefully avoid arguing with any one so disposed because that is the way it always starts.

On Sunday there are no shows permitted in Pennsylvania, so you are bused to Steubenville, O., about 40 miles away for four shows. . . . It is an experience that is not to be forgotten because this little town is as wide open as a western mining town. . . . There is gambling of all sorts and in one area there are brothels that operate as openly as they operate in Paris. . . . I asked several residents why these things were permitted and they assured me calmly that if the lid were applied, the town would lose a lot of money in addition to the impairment of social and moral values.

Carthage Choir Sings Varied Sacred Concert

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Carthage college a cappella choir, which makes its headquarters at Carthage, Ill., and which consists of 60 odd youthful, fresh sounding voices, gave a concert in Orchestra hall last night. Prof. Elmer Hanke conducted the bulk of the program. Mrs. Hanke took some of the numbers.

The choir makes a second Chicago appearance today when it sings a 30 minute broadcast on W-G-N beginning at 4 p. m.

Last night's program offered a large variety of sacred music from the pens of composers as distant from one another in time, space, and character as Bach, Christiansen, Gallus-Handl, and Wagner. In general, the performance was marked by a nice flexibility and by a pure, floating tone quality.

Jeannette Muriel Poulsen, soprano, gave an attractive recital in Kimball hall last night. Hers is a voice which can convey emotion without throbbing with it, so the eloquence of her musical speech was unmarred by any unpleasant textures.

In some German lieder, a Scandinavian group, and several lyrical songs in English, Miss Poulsen sang with a frank, me-to-you quality which rendered her work genuinely moving.

Christine Querfeld played highly competent accompaniments.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Spring is the time for new things. You break out in new clothes; experiment with a different hairdo under a new hat; and search for a new perfume. If asked what kind you probably wouldn't know except that it, too, be new and gay enough to make you feel the same way.

There is such a one. Perfect to start you out with and carry you thru the spring and summer. It's the "flirty country cousin" to several others of the same family, all of them interesting and unusual.

It's a light bouquet with a warmth to it—a gay fillip of its own that predicts a long list of friends wherever it goes. Lasting friends, we'd say, for that's the kind of perfume it is, without a bashful moment in its whole life.

Suitable for use all hours of the day, it's a wise choice. Light enough for play clothes, it's an interesting fragrance for daytime wear and has a gay charm for evening.

Tuned to the sun is its presentation garb. Its slim, streamlined bottles wear little straw hats, for the tops of the bottles are covered with finely plaited straw, trimmed with a bright red linen.

If you want to take this perfume with you wherever you go—pick up one of the clever glove-finger cases containing a small bottle of the fragrance. Shaped like the finger of a glove, made of straw colored fabric with the side trim and snap fastening of red leather, it's a perfect traveling case.

For the times when you want to be really lavish with this fragrance, there's a delightful cologne to match.

The Oak Park and River Forest juniors and junior auxiliary of the Infant welfare will hold their charity ball in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House on April 20.

Mrs. James M. Miller, Mrs. H. Foster Straw, Mrs. Nicholas Starosselsky, Mrs. John L. Clarkson, and Mrs. Jasper Brady are some of those who have planned dinner parties to precede the Alec Templeton broadcast and concert for the benefit of the Peacock Camp for Crippled Children on April 22 in the Highland Park High school auditorium. Mrs. Elliott Detchon, Mrs. Harold C. Gifford, Mrs. Bernard Smith, Mrs. John G. Searle, Mrs. Hugh Petersen, Mrs. Robert Zeddies, and Mrs. Herbert Nock are ticket chairmen for the north shore towns.

Infant Welfare League to Sponsor Skating Carnival.

Among the more hazardous benefits planned is a roller skating carnival which the Evanston Infant Welfare Service league will sponsor on April 24 at the Riverview rink. However, members of the committee, headed by Mrs. Robert Pearse, have provided for a certain measure of safety. The beginners, who believe that "pride goeth before a fall," will be able to exert their limited talents in the Red room, which will be equipped with a hand rail. The Yankee Doodle room will be turned over to those who feel capable of obeying traffic regulations as issued by a master of ceremonies. The Blue room will hold the refreshment bar, where hot dogs, ice cream and soft drinks may be had.

Gun Bought Grant

SYNOPSIS.

Framed by his enemy, Santee Bales, Sam Teacher, outlaw cowboy, shoots the bank robber dressed to resemble him. The governor agrees to give Sam $25,000 in addition to full pardon for all crimes accredited to him if he will persuade Matt Drury to sell the railroad the right of way thru one of his canyons. Sam goes to work for Drury and has a run-in with his worthless son, Steve, and his pretty but spoiled daughter, Celia. Sam advises Matt to give Steve a small stake of his own and make Celia manage her father's household. Drury takes this advice and both his children leave in a huff. Celia gets a job in a restaurant, and Steve, getting the canyon property as his stake, goes into partnership with Bales, planning to make the governor pay them instead of Sam. Bales captures Sam, takes his gun and leaves him tied up. Sam breaks loose, but upon his return to town he is arrested for Steve's murder. His gun is found near Steve's body. Matt wants Sam hanged, but Pearly, Matt's foreman, convinced of Sam's innocence, resigns, buys a stable next to the jail and digs Sam out. With dynamite Pearly and Sam change the course of the river that determines the boundary of the land Santee plans to sell the railroad, thus preventing the sale. Celia begins to see Sam's way and begs him to protect her father and his interests. Santee gets a court order to change the river back. Pearly and Sam commandeer a wagon load of gold ore and dump it into the dry river bed. When Santee, the sheriff, and workmen arrive to change the river back, they find gold. A stampede starts and the workmen persuade the sheriff to lock Santee in jail to keep him from flooding their stakes. Fearing Santee will learn his and Pearly's trick, Sam returns to town planning to lock the sheriff in jail to prevent him from carrying out Santee's court order. Not knowing Santee is jailed, Sam is taken unawares and is locked up. Bales is let out. Celia smuggles a gun to Sam, but he refuses it as it might incriminate her. He is taken to the city prison. When his dinner arrives he finds parts of a gun in the bread.

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.
WEAPONS OF ESCAPE.

Sam contemplated the gun barrel for a long moment, his brow wrinkled in a scowl. His interest roused, he turned to the stew and stirred it with his finger. He felt something and fished it out. It was the butt plate of a six gun. Turning to the cold coffee, he drank it and found mixed with the dregs six screws and a spring for a gun.

Squatting there, he pondered this. Was Pearly outside, trying to smuggle him a gun? Had he bribed the restaurant who was under contract to feed prisoners? If Pearly hadn't, someone else had. Celia? Or one of the many Mexicans here in Santa Lux whom he had befriended? A cold smile played on his face as he thought of it. From now on he couldn't refuse a meal for fear of missing parts of the gun. Then, with sudden panic, he realized that this was the noon meal he was eating, not the night one.

He wolfed down the bread and stew, gagging at its cold greasiness, and drank his coffee. Then, with the tin cup he beat on the floor until the guard came in.

"I ate this and I'm still hungry," he said. "Any chance of gettin' a meal tonight?"

The guard looked at the empty tray and said, "I reckon."

He took it out and within fifteen minutes came back with a meal which was identical; save that the stew was ham this time. When the guard left, Sam broke open the bread, as he had done before. A handful of small parts—bolts, screws, and the cylinder—fell out of the bread. The stew held the other butt plate, the coffee the ejector spring.

Sam hid them all under his mattress, then lay down, trying to still the excitement within him. It was long before he went to sleep. He was wakened in the early morning hours by the arrival of a drunken Mexican who was thrown in the cell across the way. When it was quiet again, he began to wonder. What if his tray of food were given to the Mexican in the morning? Could he argue the man into giving him the gun parts and keep his mouth shut? He went to sleep again, wondering.

When the breakfast tray came in, he let the guard put it in his cell, pretending indifference. The guard also left a tray in the cell of the Mexican, who was still sleeping.

As soon as the guard was gone, Sam lunged off his cot and examined the food. Yes, he had received the right tray, for there were more parts. When he was finished eating, he drew out all the parts and took stock. He was lacking several screws, the hammer and the frame. And some cartridges. Impatience ate at him all morning, and he smoked cigaret after cigaret. The Mexican wakened in mid-morning, took a look at his food and refused to eat, and conversed idly with Sam. But Sam was uncommunicative; and the Mexican gave it up.

His dinner tray held a deep plate of bean soup. And in it was the frame. He looked up to see if the Mexican was watching him, and noticed that the Mexican was drinking soup, his face hidden by his plate. Sam switched the frame to the mattress, and then it occurred to him that the guard had not made the Mexican eat his breakfast. Maybe that punishment was reserved for long term prisoners.

His night meal brought the hammer, and a small screwdriver. In the bread were six cartridges. Darkness was long in coming, and Sam raged with impatience until it came. Once the cell block was dark and only the overhead lamp threw out its feeble light, he went to work. His knowledge of guns was accurate enough that he had no trouble putting the six gun together. The Mexican was asleep now, and he tested the gun time and again. It worked perfectly.

Slipping the cartridges into the chamber, he lay back on the cot and planned his next move. Should he call the guard in now on some pretext of getting tobacco or matches for him, or should he wait until morning and make his break then? The Mexican was asleep now. Maybe he wouldn't have to waken him.

He rose, thinking still about the Mexican, and his mind kept jogging back to the fact that the Mexican had not been able to eat his breakfast. That was strange. It was strange too that the guard had contrived to deliver the right tray to him each time. Could the guard be in on it?

Sam settled back on the cot, caution nagging him. He tried to remember the guard's actions, his looks, hunting for anything that had seemed suspicious. In order to deliver the right tray each time, the guard would have to be in on it. Then why hadn't he spoken? Why hadn't he just handed him a gun instead of going thru this elaborate pretense? There was something funny here.

He pulled out the gun and looked at it. The firing point was not sawed off, and that was all that could keep the gun from firing. And then he thought of the shells. He took them out and examined them. They looked all right. Still, he couldn't be sure. He worked out the lead slug of one of them and then poured the powder out on his hand. It felt strangely cool. He went over to the light and looked at it.

"Flour," he said aloud.

He stared at it a long time, his mind piecing all this together. Whoever sent that gun and the phony shells wanted him to make a break, thinking he had a loaded gun. Then, when it came time to use it, it would be useless and they would shoot him.

But who was it? There was only one man who would want him dead, and that was Santee. But Santee was—Ah! Shorty and Tex, Santee's men! Santee had probably got word to them to kill him before he could testify in court as to the true murderer of Steve Drury. And they had chosen this way. It was clever—and it had almost worked.

He settled back on the cot, his mind racing. Suddenly, he came to a decision. He got the screwdriver and took off the two butt plates, then screwed them together. End to end they made a piece of metal about eight inches long. It was enough.

He settled down to the night's work of bringing the top of one butt plate to a point, and then sharpening its edge on the rough stone of his cell.

It was tedious work, but by the first flush of dawn, he had an imposing dagger with a four inch blade, razor sharp.

Soon, after sunrise, they would bring his breakfast. He fought down the impatience raging inside him and waited.

When the guard opened the door, Sam made sure the gun was in his waistband in the small of his back. The knife was in his hand, the point up his shirt sleeve.

The guard brought Sam's tray first. He looked carefully at Sam, and Sam knew that he was in on the scheme for that look betrayed him. Setting down the tray, he unlocked the door, then picked up the tray. Sam lunged to his feet, whipping the gun out with his left hand and pointing it at the guard. "Steady," he said. "Put that tray down!"

The guard stooped slowly with the tray to put it on the floor, and then Sam grinned at what he knew would happen. Swiftly, the guard's hand moved to his boot top.

Sam stepped over and put the knife directly between the man's shoulder blades and bore down on it till he could feel it break the skin.

"Just one move, fella' and this goes clear thru your back. Put your hands out straight!"

The guard grunted and put his hands out.

"Now straighten up, and keep your hands up."

The guard did, and all the while the pressure on the knife did not slacken. Sam stopped then, and flipped a six gun out of the guard's boot top, cocked it, and pointed it at the guard.

"This one is loaded, I'll bet," he drawled.

The guard's face was gray with terror. He started to stammer something, and Sam cut in. "Who put you up to this? Who's in on it?"

"Two men. I dunno their names."

"Think," Sam said, jamming the gun in his ribs.

The guard went completely to pieces with terror. He opened his mouth to yell, and with a swift slashing movement Sam slugged him on the chin. He melted to the floor, unconscious.

Sam looked about him. The Mexican was still asleep, and little noise had been made in the capture of the guard.

He flipped the gun's loading gate open, made sure there were five shells in the cylinder, then started down the corridor on tiptoe.

Beyond the door, he remembered, there was an ante-room holding a table and several chairs. Beyond that there was a corridor and at the end of that was the street door. He shouldn't have any trouble.

James B. Forgan Again to Head Red Cross Here

Norman H. Davis.

"This nation must heal the wounds of a mad world to keep us out of war."

This was the message of Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, at the annual luncheon meeting of the Chicago chapter yesterday in the Blackstone hotel. And to this end, he said, more than 1,400,000 new members have been enrolled in the American Red Cross, $700,000 collected in voluntary war contributions, and great supplies of medicine, surgical dressings, and warm clothing sent over to Finland and Poland in recent months.

The meeting marked the close of the Chicago chapter's 25th year of service. Officers were elected for two and three year terms, with James B. Forgan heading the chapter for his 15th consecutive year.

The national chairman told of national and war relief given by the American Red Cross during the last year, disclosing that there has been an average of one minor disaster every three days in this country. Aid was given by the Red Cross in 157 of these minor disasters.

Officers of the Chicago chapter, elected with Chairman Forgan, are Augustus A. Carpenter, vice chairman; Col. A. A. Sprague, treasurer, and Norman G. Stockdale, secretary and assistant treasurer.

The newly elected directors are Carpenter, Charles Aaron, John J. Borland II., Britton I. Budd, Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, Arthur Dixon, Max Epstein, Dr. H. W. Gentles, John A. Holabird, Mrs. Charles Garfield King, Joseph H. King, Albert D. Lasker, Mrs. John MacMahon, Dr. A. Augustus O'Neill, Stuart H. Otis, George A. Ranney, Solomon A. Smith, John P. Wilson, Homer J. Livingston, and George W. Overton.

Selected for the executive committee are Aaron, Budd, Carpenter, Forgan, King, Lasker, Sprague, Dixon, Kent Chandler, Joseph M. Cudahy, A. B. Dick Jr., Howard Fenton, and Gilbert H. Scribner.

Many Cheeses Are Saladable; Here Are Tips

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

You've probably made pineapple and cottage cheese salad. You've likely crumbled Roquefort into a French dressing, and stuffed prunes with cream cheese or American. But did you ever think of Brie, Camembert, Gorgonzola, Swiss cheese and all the rest as saladable?

Almost any kind of cheese you can think of may be used in some kind of salad to make that salad sharper-flavored and more interesting to eat. Try some of these suggestions, or experiment yourself to find out which favorite cheeses of your own please you most in salads.

COTTAGE CHEESE SALADS.

1. Use a small ball cutter to cut raw apples and cooked carrots into spheres. Combine, for each salad, three balls of each with three cottage cheese balls which have been rolled in minced chives. Serve with French dressing on watercress or chopped spinach. The balls may be rolled in French dressing, if desired.

2. Season cottage cheese with chutney and stuff large, steamed prunes. Serve with orange sections on lettuce, with French dressing.

3. Season cottage cheese with minced celery, pimiento, grated cucumber, and pile on lettuce or any other greens. Serve with French dressing.

4. Season cottage cheese with minced chives and a little paprika. Serve on sliced tomatoes, pineapple slices, halves of peach or pear, on greens. Add French dressing or a thinned mayonnaise.

5. Season cottage cheese with a little onion juice, minced green pepper and pimiento. Spread on stalks of endive, or use to stuff crisp celery stalks. Arrange stuffed endive or celery stalks on watercress and French dressing.

CREAM CHEESE SALADS.

1. Combine, in a salad bowl which has been rubbed lightly with garlic, shredded lettuce, diced cooked broccoli, shredded raw turnip and cubes of cream cheese. Toss lightly with French dressing.

2. Stuff dates with cream cheese and press a nut into each. Use these cheese and nut stuffed dates to garnish any fruit salad combination.

3. Fill canned pear halves with cream cheese softened with cream and mixed with a little chopped, candied ginger. Use watercress for greens, and add French dressing.

4. Season cream cheese with paprika. Shape into balls and serve on tomato or pineapple slices on shredded lettuce. Crumble crisp bacon over the top and add French dressing.

5. Arrange cream cheese balls, artichoke hearts, avocado rings and sliced tomato on chicory, romaine, watercress or lettuce, and add French dressing.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

There is a time for conserving trumps and a time when they should be spent with the most complete abandon. Generally speaking, a declarer strives to avoid being "forced," but the exceptions to this so-called rule are both numerous and important. Today's hand is a good example of a declarer deliberately ruffing himself down.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	Double	1 spade	2 hearts
3 clubs	Doublo	Pass	3 hearts
Pass	4 hearts	Pass	Pass
Pass

East evidently was afraid that if he passed the take-out double of one diamond South might choose to convert the double into the penalty variety by also passing. But since East's singleton was the queen and his spade suit so very weak, it is questionable that he made a good choice. A pass would have been slightly sounder and, as a matter of fact, might have had a much happier result from East's point of view. South had a close decision to make over his partner's three club double. If the vulnerability had been on an even basis there would be no doubt that he should have passed, but considering his own opportunity for a vulnerable game against nonvulnerable opponents, his take-out to three hearts was justified.

West opened the king of clubs and, after seeing the dummy and receiving the small club signal from East, promptly shifted to a trump. Declarer allowed this to ride to his own hand, taking East's queen with the king. A heart was led back to the ace and now declarer ruffed a club. The lead of the jack of hearts disclosed what declarer had already strongly suspected, namely, that the trumps did not break and that East had a sure trump trick. Next, guided by East's spade bid, declarer led a low spade to the king and on the spade return the finesse was taken against East's jack; then the ace was laid down, after which dummy was entered with the ace of diamonds. The queen of spades was cashed, declarer discarding a diamond, and now it was an easy matter for declarer to insure his tenth trick by leading the fifth spade and ruffing with his last heart. East's high trump had to be wasted on the forced ruff of one of his partner's good diamond tricks.

WILSON'S Weekly MEMO by GEORGE RECTOR

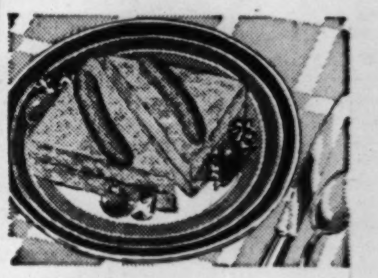
A smallish serving of ham or four and a half slices of bacon—less than a quarter of a pound in all—is a week's supply of these commodities overseas at the present time. It's nice to know that here we are free from ration cards and waiting lines—that you can go out and stock up on Wilson's Certified Ham or Bacon, to your heart's content.

George Rector
Food Consultant Wilson & Co.

HAM IN BLANKET

Wilson's Certified Smoked Ham is easy to cook—just bake it in a moderate oven 16 minutes to the pound. However, should you feel like showering a little extra affection on it, you might tuck it up tenderly in a blanket of plain, unsalted dough. This tends to reduce shrinkage and retain all those delicious, natural juices.

To make dough, cut 1 cup of Wilson's All-Purpose Shortening into 4 cups of flour. Use no salt. Add about 1/2 cup cold water—enough to make dough hold together. Roll out to 1/4 inch and then completely cover ham with dough. Have edges come underneath. Be sure ham is entirely enclosed. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.), allowing 18 minutes to the pound. Half an hour before cooking time is up, remove crust and discard. Remove rind, score fat and stud with cloves. Baste with 1/2 cup pineapple juice and 1/2 cup honey until a rich golden brown. Serve hot with raisin, cider or orange sauce.



Link Sausages with French Toast de Luxe

This quickly-prepared dish is equally good for Sunday morning breakfast or the children's lunch.

1 lb. Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links
2 Clear Brook Eggs
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
6 large slices stale white bread
3/4 cup tart apple sauce
2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon

Soak bread in milk, beaten eggs and salt. Drain and saute in a hot skillet or griddle, with a little Clear Brook Butter. Brown well on both sides. When done, spread one slice with apple sauce and top with a second slice. Butter, then spread the top of this with a teaspoonful of the sugar and cinnamon mixture. Cut sandwich in half. Arrange cooked Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links on top of each half.

To cook the sausages, have them at room temperature. Then place in a cold skillet over a moderate flame, turning frequently until brown on all sides. Serves 6.

A Real Delicacy— WILSON'S BRISKET BEEF

Wilson's Brisket Beef is one solid piece of top quality beef, ready to serve. It comes in 1-, 2- and 4-pound tins. Chilled and sliced, it is delicious in sandwiches or as a cold meat platter. Here is one way to serve it hot:

Remove brisket from can and place in a shallow baking dish. Brush with beaten egg and top with coarse dry bread crumbs. Place in a hot oven (400° F.) for 30 minutes, basting with the natural juices in the can. Serve with onion sauce.

The Man in the Slot

NINETEEN MINUTES before a big city newspaper's first edition goes to press. Page by page, a story starts coming across the city editor's desk.

The city editor reaches for his phone, calls the make-up editor in the composing room. "How we doing?" he asks. "This City Hall story looks pretty hot."

"We're going to be tight. Keep it down," warns the make-up editor. "We can't squeeze the Washington story another inch."

"Okay," responds the city editor. He looks at the penciled layout for Page One, scribbles some figures in the upper corner of the sheet of copy, and with an expert twist sends it sailing onto the big horseshoe desk next to his own.

"We're tight, Mac," he calls to the man in the slot. "Cut it a third."

▶ Seventeen minutes now to the deadline... only ten for cutting, editing, headline-writing. For those vital ten minutes, the responsibility rests on the shoulders of the man in the slot... newspaper parlance for the head of the copy desk.

A dozen considerations flash their chain lightning patterns across the slot man's mind. Tyler's story...Tyler the brilliant and touchy. He got it out of that certain municipal department which is giving off a faintly gamy odor. The boss will want it in all editions. This isn't the big break though, just another build-up to it. Damn good story...real stuff in every paragraph. Hard to cut. Needs a headline with sock. Who's to handle it? Ward's fooling around with that zoo story...Won't do, his cuts make Tyler sore. Colihan's a better bet.

"Colihan," says the man in the slot. One of the furious pencil-wielders around the rim of the horseshoe looks up. "Cut this a third and put a thirty-six head on it in time for the bulldog."

All this has used up fifteen seconds.

Colihan has nine and a half minutes to cut and edit and write a top headline and subheadline. Every line of both headlines must count exactly so many characters and spaces, figuring i as a half and m and w one and a half characters.

Then the slot man will take just fifteen seconds more to review Colihan's work, change "banned" to "curbed," sniff the whole concoction for traces of libel, and shoot it to the news editor in the composing room.

It is a shorter story than Tyler's original, and a better one—keener of edge, swifter of impact, yet complete in every essential detail.

▶ The slot is not a glamorous job. It hasn't been discovered by Shubert Alley or the fiction magazines. To the cub reporter, eager for bylines and self-expression, the whole copy desk looks like a backwater. It takes maturity—grasp of the whole art of news presentation—to appreciate the little miracles that a good copy desk passes.

Watch what a copy-reader is really doing—you'll see agility and speed to make an Olympic skier look muscle-bound. Clearing hurdles of phrases in one long broad jump of the pencil. Untying sloppy granny knots, retying the thought strands square—and always on the dead run. Swooping over a field of facts and leaning out to pick the tallest one. Doing the cross-word puzzles called headlines against a time limit and for high stakes.

Among the men who write and edit The Weekly Newsmagazine, the man in the slot and the men on the rim are held in greater respect, perhaps, than in their own city rooms. For more than any other newspapermen in the business, TIME men write with the consciousness that they must cut, prune, hone, concentrate, and distil. The fight against the clock is not so desperate on a weekly, but the battle for each line of space is many times fiercer.

And the raw material for each issue is mountain-high... product of TIME's own 75 correspondents, 500 news scouts, and the 100,000 correspondents and reporters of all the nation's newspapers and wire services, throughout a whole week of the world's activities.

▶ Journalism in the U.S.A. pours out millions of words each week; TIME's limit is some thirty thousand. And when every word must do the work of a dozen, it needs to be a better word, and more economically joined to its fellows. Nouns must paint landscapes, adjectives must do portraits, verbs must shoot straight.

Each story in TIME must be direct, keen, complete; each story must earn its place as an essential link in understanding the world's news of the week.

▶ TIME has developed the art of news condensation, as practiced by the slot men and rim men of the dailies, to a new high. For every issue of TIME is "tight"—its limit that irreducible minimum of news every intelligent man and woman must know. Which is one reason why TIME has won the genuine devotion of 700,000 busy families—with their ranks growing deeper every week.

This is one of a series of advertisements in which the Editors of TIME hope to give all the readers of this newspaper a clearer picture of the world of news-gathering, news-writing, and news-reading—and the part TIME plays in helping you to grasp, measure, and use the history of your lifetime as you live the story of your life.

DEAN LEAVES CUBS; FIGHTS $100 FINE BY HARTNETT

DIZZY CHARGES PERSECUTION; TO SEE WRIGLEY

Insists on Showdown with Manager.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., April 10.—Jerome Herman [Dizzy] Dean went his way tonight—and the Cubs went theirs. In a series of fast-moving incidents, the colorful pitcher left the club, climax of a $100 fine assessed against him earlier in the day in Topeka by Manager Gabby Hartnett.

Dean's final statement before catching a train for St. Louis was:

"I won't play for Hartnett under any circumstances."

Hartnett's parting shot as the big pitcher studied a time table in the Topeka station was:

"I wash my hands of that fellow. My orders are for him to go to Chicago. I don't care how he gets there, but one thing's certain—he won't be on the Cub train."

Dean arrived in Kansas City Union station 40 minutes after the train carrying the Cubs.

Dizzy Will Talk—To Wrigley.

Dean, irate over the fine and what he terms other persecutions inflicted on his sensitive soul by Hartnett, said he would seek out P. K. Wrigley, Cub owner and president, and make off the field revelations concerning other players that will dwarf his own infractions. Hartnett levied the fine against Dizzy because he violated the midnight curfew by 45 minutes in Wichita last night.

Gabby Hartnett. Dizzy Dean.

Storm centers in Cubs' internal row that Dean threatens to take to Owner P. K. Wrigley.

Tonight's newest incident in the stormy career of the one time pitching star was stark realism—not the ballyhoo that has been intertwined with most of the quaint incidents in which he has been involved. Mr. Dean was angry. So was Mr. Hartnett. It is apparent that the big pitcher has reached a crisis in his relations with the Cubs.

The jury will be Mr. Wrigley and the Cub officials.

Buys His Own Ticket.

Dean, suspended in fact if not in announcement, spent his own money for a railroad ticket to St. Louis. There he will be met tomorrow morning by Mrs. Dean, his wife and counsellor. Dean's plans call for a motor trip to Chicago and an immediate onslaught at the portals of the Wrigley building. These plans, of course, are subject to Mrs. Dean's approval.

Hartnett said that two charges hang over Dizzy's head. The first is for staying out after the time limit and the second is for failure to report in uniform for today. Dean watched today's game with the Browns from a seat in the stands not far removed from the Cubs' dugout.

The colorful pitcher, who used up most of the spring training period by jockeying for a $15,000 salary—then settling for $10,000—surprised critics who thought he was completely washed up by holding the Browns to

THE GUMPS—FALSE ALARM

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

A NATIONAL radio commentator, the Associated Press and United Press last week carried an announcement reading substantially as follows: "Arch Ward, sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, has received an offer to become president of the National Football league, with increased powers at an annual salary of $25,000 for 10 years. . . . He declined to say whether he would accept the invitation, which came from a majority of the club owners." . . . The item was true. . . . However, it's high time those fellows quit scooping the Wake of the News, so we are making known this morning that we have turned down the offer. . . . We realize professional football is the country's fastest growing professional sport. . . . We appreciate the generosity of the club owners and their vote of confidence in extending such a long term contract. . . . But how could we leave Golden Gloves, All-Star football, and, most of all, youse guys and gals who have coöperated so enthusiastically in the production of the Wake of the News? . . .

Robert Zuppke will exhibit 22 new oil paintings in the Colonial art gallery of the Palmer House, May 6 to 11, inclusive. . . . Roy Bruder, manager of the Chicago theater for the last 11 years, has bought a recreation center in St. Louis which includes 20 bowling alleys. . . . He will take charge July 1. . . . Dr. Andy Lotshaw, who never has been too modest in recalling his baseball batting averages, is equally florid about his bowling. . . . He recently told a party of Cub friends who never had seen him bowl that he had just rolled a series in which he averaged 312. . . . Bill Jurges of the Giants is baseball's most rabid hockey fan. . . . Pie Traynor, former manager, is listed on the Pirates' 1940 roster as "assistant field director." . . . Ernie Lombardi's batting average last season was .287, but in the September pennant drive he hit .343, which is the mark of a thorobred. . . . While the White Sox and Cubs were touring the southwest together Coach Muddy Ruel tried to psychoanalyze Dizzy Dean, but he gave up in utter confusion. . . . Bill Summers, American league umpire, sends postcards to each of his eight children from every city he hits. . . . The European Golden Gloves champions will leave for Nashville Sunday night where they meet a team of Tennesseans Wednesday night. . . . They will leave for New York immediate after the show in Nashville and will sail for Italy a few days later.

The Answer.

Beside our church there was a vacant lot
Which all the boys of my time will recall,
For it was in that semisacred spot
That all the fellows gathered to play ball;
Sometimes the preacher's sermon floated out
And fell upon the baseball players' ears,
And sometimes the good clergyman, no doubt,
Was harassed by the rooters' lusty cheers.

One summer morn the congregation dozed,
The while the preacher talked of worldly strife,
And then this mighty question he proposed:
"What must I do to gain eternal life?"
Like magic came the answer from outside:
"You'll have to hurry, kid—slide, damit, slide!" —T. E. B.

They might ask a loan of me.
I have never had to borrow,

That is selfish—those in trouble
Are not ever seeking gold.

WHITE SOX WHIP PIRATES, 10-7, ON TWO BIG INNINGS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Owensboro, Ky., April 10.—The White Sox were both good and bad at different times this afternoon, but the profits exceeded the losses. So they struck a 3 to 3 balance in the rapidly waning series with Pittsburgh's Pirates by registering a 10 to 7 triumph in this well established bourbon belt. It was mainly a matter of hitting, especially after a slow start, and the American leaguers not only proved their bats were potent, but they also knew how to take advantage of National league blunders.

Mr. James Dykes, the Sox manager, returned today from Philadelphia, where he had been called by the illness of his wife. His baseball interest, naturally, was in Eddie Smith, the tow headed left hander who may be ticketed for the opening league game in Comiskey park next Tuesday against the Indians. Smitty went into action in the sixth, after Ted [Pop] Lyons had rendered a highly meritorious performance. He immediately encountered a five run explosion which sidetracked him for the inaugural assignment. But Eddie put himself right back on the main line by surrendering only one hit in the last three sessions.

Sox Gang Up on Swigart.

Lyons gave up only five hits and two runs in his five inning stretch. During this time the Sox were embarrassed beyond mention by the pitching of both Mace Brown and ancient Danny MacFayden. Against this pair they produced only one hit, a homer by Taft Wright.

In the next two innings everything was different. The Sox jumped ahead with four runs off Oadis Swigart in the sixth. The Pirates bounced back with their five run assault on Smith, but the Sox responded with a winning five run cluster in the seventh, knocking Swigart right back into the lap of Manager Frank Frisch, who has himself worried threadbare even at this early date.

Wright, whose homer gave the Sox their first run, also was active a few other times. In the sixth, an inning started by Pinch Man Frank Metha's homer, Wright furnished a fly ball which moved one of the four runs across the plate. In the seventh, when the Sox took the lead, he supplied a single good for a run. He also singled in the ninth off Ken Heintzelman, but found no helpers in this bit of enterprise. Closest to Wright on attack was Eric McNair, who, with a single in the sixth and a double in the seventh, drove in three runs.

Brown Puzzles Sox.

Until the Pirates began throwing hard punches at Lyons in the fourth the game was tame. Brown was so effective that only nine faced him in the first three innings. The Pirates' luck was only a bit better during the same three sessions. The only Pirate to reach base was Debs Garms, who singled to open the second and was

Browns Pound Passeau and Olsen to Crush Cubs, 15 to 3

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Topeka, Kas., April 10.—The Browns in general and Johnny Berardino in particular made a long afternoon miserable for a pair of Cub pitchers today. While 3,700 fans, capacity for the wooden stands, looked on, the American leaguers mauled Veteran Claude Passeau for nine hits and seven runs in the first five innings, then picked on young Vern Olsen for nine more safeties, which produced eight runs in the next three. The discouraging result of this merciless treatment was a 15 to 3 victory for the Browns, which reduced the Chicagoans' margin in the five games of the series to date to one.

The road weary north siders will engage St. Louis again tomorrow in Kansas City before heading for home and Friday's battle in Comiskey park, the first of their final three day series with the White Sox.

John Is a Nuisance.

To get back to Berardino, who always was known as a dangerous customer with mates on the base. He outdid himself this afternoon by blasting a single, double, and a triple to drive in seven runs and only a miraculous leaping catch by Jimmy Gleeson in the fifth inning prevented him from accounting for another. In his last appearance—in the eighth—Johnny grounded into a double play and this, too, drove in a run but the rules won't allow him credit for it.

While Passeau, who is rated as an ace in the Cub pitching deck, and Olsen, who seems to have a relief job clinched, were suffering, George [Slick] Coffman, the ex-Tiger, was holding the proud National leaguers in check. Bob Sturgeon scored an unearned run in the third and Stanley Hack poked a home run over the right field fence in the fifth with Passeau on first.

And the Reds Are Waiting.

The Cubs' total of seven hits, coupled with a second day of indifferent play in the field, hardly is a flattering commentary on the chances of a club which is scheduled to battle the champion Reds in the opening game of the National league race in Cincinnati next Tuesday.

The Browns, who made three runs in the first inning yesterday, liked

EUROPE'S BOXERS SEND UP A LUSTY CHEER FOR HOSTS

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Tied, but satisfied, and still International Golden Gloves champions, Europe's boxers cheered Chicago in their dressing room in the Stadium last night, then hurried to bed. There was nothing about which to complain, nothing that would lessen their enthusiasm for the "big city by Lago Michigano."

The 4 to 4 tie wasn't exactly what they had expected. The four Italians had been confident of victory. But the entire party, particularly the officials, thought the draw decision accurately represented the merits of the two squads.

Szigeti Suffers Fracture.

Guido Nardecchia, Italy's famous little battler who won the flyweight championship, and Eric Agren, Swedish welterweight, who lost to Chicago's captain, Savior Canadeo, busied themselves helping Lajos Szigeti, the

20,200 WATCH OLLE TANDBERG DEFEAT YOUNG

Invaders Lead at Halfway Point.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicago's Golden Gloves team fought Europe's champions to a 4 to 4 tie last night in the Stadium while 20,200 spectators regaled the Americans and invaders alike with applause that was inspired by some of the most brilliant boxing and some of the most incessant slugging in the history of the international matches.

Results of International bouts follow:

112 POUNDS—Guido Nardecchia, Europe, beat Sam Stinson, Chicago [3].

118 POUNDS—Ulderico Sergo, Europe, beat Jimmy Joyce, Chicago [3].

126 POUNDS—Leon Haire, Chicago, beat Federico Cortonesi, Europe [3].

135 POUNDS—Egisto Peire, Europe, beat Tony Ancona, Chicago [3].

147 POUNDS—Savior Canadeo, beat Eric Agren, Europe [3].

160 POUNDS—Anthony Jones, Chicago, beat Karl Noren, Europe [3].

175 POUNDS—James Richie, Chicago, beat Lajos Szigeti, Europe [3].

HEAVYWEIGHT—Olle Tandberg, Europe, beat Cornelius Young, Chicago [3].

In the last half of the battle the Chicago boys were fighting on the brink of defeat. They had been pushed as far as they could afford to go in losing three of the first four bouts, Leon Haire's victory over Federico Cortonesi being the only success for the American team in this stage of the engagement.

It's a Familiar Scene.

Then came a moment that was recalled by all of those who had seen this same Chicago team slug its way up from a 6 to 2 disadvantage at the intermission to earn an 8 to 8 tie in the intercity matches. As in the New York bouts, Savior Canadeo and Anthony Jones were the fighters who were coming up to start the second half. They had checked a rout on that occasion and their followers were convinced that they could do it again.

Canadeo, captain of the team, was facing the rugged and aggressive Eric Agren, who was defending an international championship which he had won last year by knocking out his Chicago opponent. Against Canadeo he launched those same powerful rushes and leveled those same terrific blows that had carried him to so many victories in Europe.

Savior Is Too Clever.

But last night he learned what it is to meet a master boxer. When he rushed, Canadeo's rapierlike left was in his face. When he swung those tremendous blows Canadeo sidestepped and lashed back with counterpunches that found their mark again and again.

Had Canadeo been a whit less adept he almost certainly would have been knocked out by those mighty swings. But when each blow reached the mark Agren was aiming at, his glove found nothing but air or else glanced off the arms or shoulders of his agile opponent. The referee and both judges all gave Canadeo every round. It was a brilliant exhibition, dramatically timed, for it was the turning point of the Chicago team's fortunes.

This Was a Battle.

The Chicago boys were now trailing by only 3 to 2, with Jones coming into the ring for his bout with Karl Noren. As the Chicago boy closed with his opponent and drove him to a corner with strong, straight punches it seemed almost a foregone conclusion that he would win, but no such thing happened. Before the bout was over it brought out such slugging that the crowd rose in tribute to the courage and ruggedness of both boys.

As the second began Jones again cut loose with a furious assault, hitting his opponent on the jaw so hard and so frequently that the crowd thought surely the Swedish boy would drop. But he didn't. In the third

Dwight Green, Republican nominee for governor of Illinois, was among the notables in attendance at the ninth International Golden Gloves tournament in Chicago Stadium last night. He was accompanied by Livingston Osborne, a Golden Gloves judge.

Oscar Soderlund of Sweden, president of the International Boxing federation and correspondent for the Stockholm Tidningen, cabled 500 words to his newspaper on the eight championship matches.

Francesco Messiri, Italian vice consul; Gosta Oldenburg, Swedish consul, and Dr. Zoltan Baranyai, Hungarian consul, headed groups of fans who came to cheer for the fighters from the homes of their ancestors.

Before the Italian boxers entered the ring the Rev. Gragnani Julio of Our Lady of Pompeii church presented the lads with a bouquet wishing them luck.

Joseph Bucheggen, representing the Nemzeti Sport of Budapest, was seated in the working press section.

William Harridge, president of the American league, and his son occupied their first row chairs long before the first preliminary bout got under way. Dr. Elmer W. Mosley, chief surgeon for the Chicago police department, was another early arrival.

The amateur boxing champions of Europe's neutral countries who fought Chicagoland's representatives last night have another date to fill before they return to their homes in Sweden, Hungary, and Italy. The boys will leave Saturday night for Nashville, Tenn., where they meet members of the Nashville Tennesseean's squad in a series of bouts next Wednesday.

The foreigners are booked to sail on the steamship Saturnia on April 20. In case a third match is arranged against a New York News delegation the lads will postpone their departure until April 27 on the Conte di Savoia.

Paul Spica, 1936 Golden Gloves featherweight runnerup, who has been coach of the St. Louis Globe Democrat's sectional championship teams for the last four years, came to cover Leon Haire's and James Richie's contests for the Democrat. Both boxers came out of the St. Louis tournament. Haire, who scaled 125 pounds for his encounter against Cortonesi, is 5 feet 10 inches tall.

Woody Swancutt of Wisconsin, who won the 155 pound title in the recent national intercollegiate meet in California, stopped off en route from Sacramento to Madison to see last night's matches. He was accompanied by a light heavyweight teammate, Ray Kramer. Kramer was eliminated in the first round in the intercollegiate tournament.

Eric Agren, who is a member of the Swedish air corps, must report back to his company in Stockholm by May 5.

While leaving the arena three well known Chicago officers—Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan, T. P. Sullivan, head of the Illinois criminal investigation department, and Thomas J. Callaghan of the federal secret service—still were talking about the great battle Sammy Stinson waged against Guido Nardecchia, Italian flyweight, in the first title event.

Chicago Ties Europeans in Golden Gloves

round Jones disregarded defensive tactics entirely as he tried for a knockout. By this time Noren was so weary that his blows carried almost no sting. Jones was unable to hit the Swedish boy hard enough to make him drop. He got the decision, however, carrying Chicago into a 3 to 3 tie.

Easy Victory for Richie.

Then up came James Richie to take on the most experienced and seasoned member of the European squad, Lajos Szigeti of Hungary. After studying his opponent warily for the first minute or two of the first round, Richie began measuring him with his left and hitting him with his right to pile up points systematically. He won the fight by an overwhelming margin, carrying Chicago into a 4 to 3 lead. Later it was learned that Szigeti had broken a bone in his left hand in the early stages of the bout.

That left the heavyweight bout to determine whether the engagement would end in a Chicago victory or a tie. Olle Tandberg, gigantic Swedish boxer, was introduced as the fighter who had gained unquestioned recognition in Europe as the world's outstanding amateur. In Chicago's corner stood Cornelius Young, one of the smartest ring generals in the game, ready to undertake a David and Goliath encounter. He was conceding Tandberg 23 pounds in weight and several inches in height.

Young Attacks Continuously.

Despite his tremendous advantage the European never was able to get the Chicago boy on the run at any time in the bout. Young was attacking at the start and he still was attacking at the final bell. Several times in the course of the bout he drove his opponent to the ropes with hard one-two punches, but meanwhile Tandberg had scored enough points with a hard chopping right to earn the decision, bringing the final score to a 4 to 4 tie.

Haire's victory earlier in the evening had been scored by cleverly outboxing one of the hardest hitters on the European squad. Cortonesi attempted to rush repeatedly, but the adept Chicago boy held him in check with sharp straight lefts.

The outcome of last night's bouts continued the deadlock that has developed in the International matches since the invading team was placed on an all-European basis in 1937. Each side has won one and two have ended in ties.

The 16 participants in the championship bouts received diamond rings, the winners having the word "champion" engraved on them. They were the gift of the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Ceremonies Are Impressive.

At 10 o'clock the arena was darkened save for one roving spotlight which wandered over the heads of the huge throng and came to focus upon the European fighters as they moved in single file from the far northwest corner. The organ struck up a marching song. The fighters climbed into the ring and came to attention. Then another spotlight swung to the southeast corner and picked up the Chicago squad as they strode down the aisle.

When both teams were in the ring, the spotlight was turned toward the rafters and the organ took up the national anthem of Hungary as that country's flag was unfurled. Then in turn the banners of Sweden and Italy were flown. As the organ played "To the Colors" the American flag was raised to the rafters. Then the throng burst into the singing of the Star Spangled Banner while the dim light played upon their upturned faces. Gerardo Leonardi of Italy, Arthur Kankovszky of Hungary and Oscar Soderlund of Sweden delivered brief addresses of thanks for the warmth of the welcome they had received. Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE and director of the Golden Gloves tournament, extended America's greetings to the invading team. Then the lights were dimmed momentarily and when they went on again the first two fighters, Nardecchia and Stinson, were in their corners ready for the bell.

International Golden Gloves Bouts Round by Round

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Round by round story of the ninth International Golden Gloves bouts last night in the Chicago Stadium follow:

112 POUNDS.

Guido Nardecchia, Italy, beat Sam Stinson, Chicago [3].

Stinson forced the pace, fighting from a crouch and weaving. Early in the first round Nardecchia kept the American away with an excellent left jab, but three times Stinson bore in close and pumped his left hook to the body and head. Once Stinson half wrestled his opponent to the floor and Referee Jess O'Brien stepped between the boys.

Nardecchia nearly tripped again when he retreated precipitously. Stinson kept up the pace in the second round but after backing away the Italian came in quickly with a good left and right. Stinson's vigorous attack made Nardecchia appear to a disadvantage. Stinson received a cut alongside of his left eye in the first round and opened a similar cut along Guido's eye in the second round. The battle continued furiously. Just before the bell ended the second round Stinson's left hook landed on Nardecchia's left leg. As the bell rang he staggered to his knees. At the end of the rest period Nardecchia seemed all right.

The boys hammered away in the final round. Guido stepped back to avoid a terrific left uppercut. The next, however, landed flush on Nardecchia's chin and staggered him but his straight right bounced the Chicago lad back on his heels. The bout was extremely close.

118 POUNDS.

Ulderico Sergo, Italy, beat Jimmy Joyce, Chicago [3].

Sergo easily avoided Joyce's cautious long left leads but when the boxers warmed up after missing a series of left hooks, Joyce jolted Sergo several times with rights to the head. Sergo slowed up his rushing tactics and began circling. He countered his foes' leads twice and the round ended with a furious fusillade of punches.

Joyce had difficulty getting the range in the second round, and absorbed a series of right hands. In close, Joyce also was at a disadvantage. Sergo stepped back when Joyce slipped, and the crowd applauded his sportsmanship.

The final round was nip and tuck with each shooting the works. Joyce landed twice with solid left hooks while Sergo bobbed in under Joyce's lefts to hammer sweeping rights to the head. Sergo also pounded Joyce's body. The bout was so close it could have been called even, as the Italian officials said. Sergo was given the decision, however, in line with the policy that Chicago wishes to be awarded victories only in bouts which clearly are won. Close decisions go to the visitors.

126 POUNDS.

Leon Haire, Chicago, beat Federico Cortonesi, Italy [3].

Haire's long reach baffled Cortonesi in the first round. He jabbed and had the Italian off balance. The Italian missed more punches than he landed. Haire countered these wild swings with short stiff rights to the head to easily take the round. Cortonesi suffered a slight cut at the side of his left eye.

Cortonesi forced the fighting in the second round, but for a minute he couldn't get within striking distance. Then a right swing bounced off Hair'e's head and his knees buckled. Haire slowed down and Cortonesi landed another right on the shoulder. Haire rallied at the bell to force Cortonesi into the ropes with a right to the head.

Haire resumed his masterful boxing and for a minute had Cortonesi missing badly. The American kept on top of his opponent, who began shooting rights to the body. A hard, wild right landed on Haire's chest. In close they traded punches and Cortonesi's eye began to bleed again. Haire took a right and punched sharply with a left. Haire landed another left as the fight ended.

135 POUNDS.

Egisto Peire, Italy, beat Tony Ancona, Chicago [3].

Each fought opportunely in the first round, which was fast and merited the huge crowd's applause. Ancona came in twice with sharp left hooks that roused Peire. The Italian's best weapon was his hard right and he also piled up points in the clinches.

Ancona penned Peire in his own corner and shot in two hard rights early in the second round. They stood and punched until the Italian grabbed and clinched. Peire followed Ancona across the ring and landed a left and a right to the head. In a half clinch, Ancona hooked sharply twice with lefts to the head. They circled and traded blows, with neither able to gain an advantage.

Ancona's crouch had Peire at a loss as the final round started. Coming out of the crouch, Ancona landed several hard blows. Then Peire rallied and rushed Ancona, who seemed to be tiring. They alternated with hard body punches and mauled each other in close. The Italian bored in with a left and a right and then jerked loose from a clinch to pump his right to Ancona's body.

147 POUNDS.

Savior Canadeo, Chicago, beat Eric Agren, Sweden. [3].

It was Canadeo's speed against Agren's power with the Chicagoan having an early advantage as he stabbed and kept his man away. Canadeo cracked Agren with a solid right, but could not follow up the blow which staggered the European welterweight.

The boys hammered away in the second round, roughing each other in the clinches. Canadeo spun Agren around with a right and followed him to the corner with another punch that rocked the Swedish fighter. Each time Agren came back, the throng wildly cheering his aggressiveness.

The battle continued at the same pace in the last round with Agren charging and punching busily in the clinches. Canadeo, tho tiring, kept control of the bout to the last altho, always in danger from Agren's swings.

160 POUNDS.

Anthony Jones, Chicago, beat Karl Noren, Sweden [3].

Jones swarmed to the attack and for a minute kept Noren in constant retreat. Jones, however, did not land a solid blow and Noren gradually took the initiative. For the remainder of the round there was little to choose between the rivals.

The second round was fast thruout. Jones never let up and Noren matched him almost blow for blow until the final 20 seconds when the Swedish boy almost fell from exhaustion as Jones leveled at his jaw with a right. Jones had the advantage in condition.

The last round was the best in this series of matches and perhaps there never has been a harder fought round in Golden Gloves. The boys stood shoulder to shoulder and battled without a letup. Jones was the fresher, but Noren refused to go down under the barrage of blows.

There was no doubt that Jones won but his opponent had put up such an exceptional fight the crowd stood and cheered Noren for five minutes as he walked back to the dressing room.

175 POUNDS.

James Richie, Chicago, beat Lajos Szigeti, Hungary [3].

Richie fought cautiously. Occasionally Szigeti stepped in with a light left lead, then backed away. Richie repeatedly failed to take advantage of his opportunity to land punches.

Richie warmed to his task in the second round and a vicious body attack had the Hungarian holding on. The Hungarian weathered the storm of blows. He even shook off a pair of crashing rights to the head and stepped briskly to his corner at the bell.

Szigeti didn't have any sting to his punches and Richie took advantage of this fact. Richie landed on his opponent's jaw and punched him solidly in the stomach, but the Hungarian stayed to the end.

HEAVYWEIGHTS.

Olle Tandberg, Sweden, beat Cornelius Young, Chicago [3].

Tandberg's superior height kept Young away for a minute but finally the Chicagoan broke thru with a sharp left hook. Twice, in clinches, he peppered his giant opponent. But Tandberg also pounded at Young's body with effect. The tempo of the round picked up in the final seconds.

The heavyweights mauled away in a clinch. Tandberg missed with an overhand right. Along the ropes Young cracked Tandberg sharply with a right and spun him half around. Young followed up with an attack from which his bigger foe retreated as the crowd cheered. Sharp, short right hands to the head, however, brought the Swede back into the running.

Young landed a hard right to the head but Tandberg's weight began to take toll. Tandberg battered Young's body and despite the Chicagoan's game attack Tandberg was landing two blows to one. Young never stepped back and bore in to the end.

Europeans Give Chicago a Lusty Cheer

vanquished Hungarian light heavyweight, pull himself into his clothes when he returned from the first aid room with his left hand in a sling.

A fractured bone, suffered in the first round, left the husky air corps quartermaster an easy mark for James Richie of Chicago, but he had no alibi.

"Richie, he is great fighter, too, too good," Szigeti said.

Count Gerardo di Leonardi of the Italian Boxing federation and Oscar Soderlund of Sweden, president of the International Boxing federation, each disagreed with two decisions, but their cards read 4 to 4, nevertheless. Leonardi thought Federico Cortonesi, the Italian featherweight, beat Leon Haire of St. Louis, and considered the victory by Ulderico Sergo, Italian featherweight, over Jimmy Joyce of Gary a little too generous.

Disagrees on Jones Bout.

Soderlund also thought Joyce had beaten Sergo, but on his card Karl Noren, the Swedish middleweight, was given an edge over Anthony Jones of Chicago, for more accurate punching. Soderlund agreed Jones was the stronger at the finish, but contended he had missed more punches than his courageous foe.

Olle Tandberg, the Swedish heavyweight whose victory over Cornelius Young prevented a European defeat, was the team's hero and got three booms repeatedly from the Italian delegation. A boom is the Italian equivalent of three old fashioned American rahs.

DEAN DESERTS CUBS IN PROTEST AGAINST FINE

Charges Persecution by Hartnett; to See Wrigley.

two hits in five innings Monday in Fort Smith, Ark.

Manager Hartnett announced the disciplinary action this morning when he was advised that Dean had got on the train in Wichita at 12:45 o'clock, 45 minutes after the Cub curfew.

Dean Takes Off Uniform.

Dean was not apprised of the action until he appeared in the lobby, dressed in his baseball togs and ready to take the team bus to the ball park.

At 1:10 p. m., Hartnett encountered Dean in the lobby, called him into a telephone room, and handed him a typewritten formal notice of the assessment. Dean, trailed by baseball reporters, went to his room, took off his uniform, got in bed, ordered a light lunch, and started to talk.

He said in part: "The $100 plaster doesn't mean a thing, for I won't have any money coming until after the National league season opens next Tuesday. But it furnishes a good spot to go to the mat over the way I have been pushed around by Hartnett.

"Hartnett has been on me ever since I reported on March 17 and I knew he was shooting at me when he called that meeting the day we were rained out in San Antonio [last Friday], and I knew it better when he refused to let me visit my father while the team was playing in Fort Worth Sunday.

"He put me in the game in Fort Smith Monday because he thought I would get my brains beat out in two or three innings, but I guess the whole world knows how I fooled him.

"Only Visiting His Uncle."

"My mother is buried 30 miles from Fort Smith and the country is full of Deans and other kin but he wouldn't let me go to the cemetery or get off to visit the kin folks.

"Then we came to Wichita. My uncle, the Rev. Bland Dean and his family, live 14 miles out of Wichita. Hartnett knew about Uncle Bland, for when we were snowed out here last year the papers printed pictures of us together on account of us looking as alike as twins.

"I tried to get hold of Hartnett after the game and tell him I was going out to my uncle's and might be a little late getting on the train, which wasn't due to leave for Topeka until 2 o'clock this morning. I went out to Uncle Bland's with my cousin and was in the depot at 12:15 o'clock.

"I hadn't had a drink and after passing the Carrie Nation fountain going into the depot I stopped and had a chocolate milkshake with Andy Lotshaw, Cub trainer, who was on his usual job of checking to see that everybody had arrived. Then I got on the train quietly, found some of the players still up, talked with them a little, and went to bed.

Tells of Barnstorming Offer.

"If they try to make that phony fine stick I am going on an exhibition tour and my first date will be in Mills stadium in Chicago. A team was organized when I thought I was going to holdout and if they don't back down on this business I can make more money barnstorming in three weeks than I can in the whole season under my present contract.

"I hope it is straightened out, for I know my arm is as good as ever. But I don't want to be ridden all the time. And I don't want to be reminded all the time I'm just like all the other players on the team. I'm the guy they ask to go to dinners and shindigs of one kind or another and I'm glad to do it, but it ain't no lark for me. I can have plenty of time for them promotions, but when I ask a little personal time for myself I get bawled out and now fined."

DOOR'S OPEN—WRIGLEY

The door to P. K. Wrigley's office will be open if Dizzy Dean decides to pay him a visit, the owner and president of the Cubs said yesterday. Dean, fined $100 yesterday for violation of training rules, declares he will come to Chicago and "go to the mat" for persecutions he charges have been inflicted on him by Gabby Hartnett, Cub manager.

"I am an easy man to see," said Mr. Wrigley, "and if Mr. Dean asks for an interview, which I doubt, I will be happy to see him."

Asked to comment on Hartnett's disciplinary action, the Cub chieftan said: "I hope it is deservedly warranted."

Reminded that Larry French, Cub southpaw, started winning last season after going to him and complaining at the "silent" treatment he received from Hartnett, Mr. Wrigley replied:

"At that time I advised Larry to go out there and show me he was a hell of a pitcher. He certainly did. If Dizzy comes to me I will tell him the same thing and sincerely hope it will have the same results."

Time Loans in a Hurry!

You may pay up in a hurry
You may take plenty of time

It's the customer's choice—when you borrow at this bank. You may pay up in a hurry or take plenty of time. Convenient Time Tables for amounts from $50 to $5,000 will help you to make your choice.

When you make a Time Loan at this bank, you give a note which includes the amount of cash received and the moderate cost of the loan. Then month by month you "save up" in an account with us to have the funds to pay your note when it falls due.

— Personal Loan Time Table —

The Schedule at the right shows how much you save up by months to pay the popular One-Comaker loan based on $250—$350—$450, cash received.

For Example:

Suppose you want $350 in cash and suppose you prefer a low monthly installment, take an 18 month loan and "save up" $21.64 a month . . . If you want to get it paid back in a hurry, make a loan for, say, 5 months and provide $72.79 a month for retirement . . . If the reason for a loan is an annual need, which may recur in another year, then it would be logical to borrow for 12 months, and $31.44 will be the monthly installment.

Writer Cables 500 Words to Swedish Paper.

Dwight Green, Republican nominee for governor of Illinois, was among the notables in attendance at the ninth International Golden Gloves tournament in Chicago Stadium last night. He was accompanied by Livingston Osborne, a Golden Gloves judge.

Oscar Soderlund of Sweden, president of the International Boxing federation and correspondent for the Stockholm Tidningen, cabled 500 words to his newspaper on the eight championship matches.

Francesco Messiri, Italian vice consul; Gosta Oldenburg, Swedish consul, and Dr. Zoltan Baranyai, Hungarian consul, headed groups of fans who came to cheer for the fighters from the homes of their ancestors.

Before the Italian boxers entered the ring the Rev. Gragnani Julio of Our Lady of Pompeii church presented the lads with a bouquet wishing them luck.

Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee for governor, and Mrs. Green enjoy the International bouts from ringside seats.

Joseph Bucheggen, representing the Nemzeti Sport of Budapest, was seated in the working press section.

William Harridge, president of the American league, and his son occupied their first row chairs long before the first preliminary bout got under way. Dr. Elmer W. Mosley, chief surgeon for the Chicago police department, was another early arrival.

The amateur boxing champions of Europe's neutral countries who fought Chicagoland's representatives last night have another date to fill before they return to their homes in Sweden, Hungary, and Italy. The boys will leave Saturday night for Nashville, Tenn., where they meet members of the Nashville Tennessean's squad in a series of bouts next Wednesday.

The foreigners are booked to sail on the steamship Saturnia on April 20. In case a third match is arranged against a New York News delegation the lads will postpone their departure until April 27 on the Conte di Savoia.

Paul Spica, 1936 Golden Gloves featherweight runnerup, who has been coach of the St. Louis Globe Democrat's sectional championship teams for the last four years, came to cover Leon Haire's and James Richie's contests for the Democrat. Both boxers came out of the St. Louis tournament. Haire, who scaled 125 pounds for his encounter against Cortonesi, is 5 feet 10 inches tall.

Woody Swancutt of Wisconsin, who won the 155 pound title in the recent national intercollegiate meet in California, stopped off en route from Sacramento to Madison to see last night's matches. He was accompanied by a light heavyweight teammate, Ray Kramer. Kramer was eliminated in the first round in the intercollegiate tournament.

Eric Agren, who is a member of the Swedish air corps, must report back to his company in Stockholm by May 5.

While leaving the arena three well known Chicago officers—Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan, T. P. Sullivan, head of the Illinois criminal investigation department, and Thomas J. Callaghan of the federal secret service—still were talking about the great battle Sammy Stinson waged against Guido Nardecchia, Italian flyweight, in the first title event.

round Jones disregarded defensive tactics entirely as he tried for a knockout. By this time Noren was so weary that his blows carried almost no sting. Jones was unable to hit the Swedish boy hard enough to make him drop. He got the decision, however, carrying Chicago into a 3 to 3 tie.

Easy Victory for Richie.

Then up came James Richie to take on the most experienced and seasoned member of the European squad, Lajos Szigeti of Hungary. After studying his opponent warily for the first minute or two of the first round, Richie began measuring him with his left and hitting him with his right to pile up points systematically. He won the fight by an overwhelming margin, carrying Chicago into a 4 to 3 lead. Later it was learned that Szigeti had broken a bone in his left hand in the early stages of the bout.

That left the heavyweight bout to determine whether the engagement would end in a Chicago victory or a tie. Olle Tandberg, gigantic Swedish boxer, was introduced as the fighter who had gained unquestioned recognition in Europe as the world's outstanding amateur. In Chicago's corner stood Cornelius Young, one of the smartest ring generals in the game, ready to undertake a David and Goliath encounter. He was conceding Tandberg 23 pounds in weight and several inches in height.

Young Attacks Continuously.

Despite his tremendous advantage the European never was able to get the Chicago boy on the run at any time in the bout. Young was attacking at the start and he still was attacking at the final bell. Several times in the course of the bout he drove his opponent to the ropes with hard one-two punches, but meanwhile Tandberg had scored enough points with a hard chopping right to earn the decision, bringing the final score to a 4 to 4 tie.

Haire's victory earlier in the evening had been scored by cleverly outboxing one of the hardest hitters on the European squad. Cortonesi attempted to rush repeatedly, but the adept Chicago boy held him in check with sharp straight lefts.

The outcome of last night's bouts continued the deadlock that has developed in the International matches since the invading team was placed on an all-European basis in 1937. Each side has won one and two have ended in ties.

The 16 participants in the championship bouts received diamond rings, the winners having the word "champion" engraved on them. They were the gift of the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Ceremonies Are Impressive.

At 10 o'clock the arena was darkened save for one roving spotlight which wandered over the heads of the huge throng and came to focus upon the European fighters as they moved in single file from the far northwest corner. The organ struck up a marching song. The fighters climbed into the ring and came to attention. Then another spotlight swung to the southeast corner and picked up the Chicago squad as they strode down the aisle.

When both teams were in the ring, the spotlight was turned toward the rafters and the organ took up the national anthem of Hungary as that country's flag was unfurled. Then in turn the banners of Sweden and Italy were flown. As the organ played "To the Colors" the American flag was raised to the rafters. Then the throng burst into the singing of the Star Spangled Banner while the dim light played upon their upturned faces. Gerardo Leonardi of Italy, Arthur Kankovszky of Hungary and Oscar Soderlund of Sweden delivered brief addresses of thanks for the warmth of the welcome they had received. Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE and director of the Golden Gloves tournament, extended America's greetings to the invading team. Then the lights were dimmed momentarily and when they went on again the first two fighters, Nardecchia and Stinson, were in their corners ready for the bell.

International Golden Gloves Bouts Round by Round

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Round by round story of the ninth International Golden Gloves bouts last night in the Chicago Stadium follow:

112 POUNDS.

Guido Nardecchia, Italy, beat Sam Stinson, Chicago [3].

Stinson forced the pace, fighting from a crouch and weaving. Early in the first round Nardecchia kept the American away with an excellent left jab, but three times Stinson bore in close and pumped his left hook to the body and head. Once Stinson half wrestled his opponent to the floor and Referee Jess O'Brien stepped between the boys.

Nardecchia nearly tripped again when he retreated precipitously. Stinson kept up the pace in the second round but after backing away the Italian came in quickly with a good left and right. Stinson's vigorous attack made Nardecchia appear to a disadvantage. Stinson received a cut alongside of his left eye in the first round and opened a similar cut along Guido's eye in the second round. The battle continued furiously. Just before the bell ended the second round Stinson's left hook landed on Nardecchia's left leg. As the bell rang he staggered to his knees. At the end of the rest period Nardecchia seemed all right.

The boys hammered away in the final round. Guido stepped back to avoid a terrific left uppercut. The next, however, landed flush on Nardecchia's chin and staggered him but his straight right bounced the Chicago lad back on his heels. The bout was extremely close.

118 POUNDS.

Ulderico Sergo, Italy, beat Jimmy Joyce, Chicago [3].

Sergo easily avoided Joyce's cautious long left leads but when the boxers warmed up after missing a series of left hooks, Joyce jolted Sergo several times with rights to the head. Sergo slowed up his rushing tactics and began circling. He countered his foes' leads twice and the round ended with a furious fusillade of punches.

Joyce had difficulty getting the range in the second round, and absorbed a series of right hands. In close, Joyce also was at a disadvantage. Sergo stepped back when Joyce slipped, and the crowd applauded his sportsmanship.

The final round was nip and tuck with each shooting the works. Joyce landed twice with solid left hooks while Sergo bobbed in under Joyce's lefts to hammer sweeping rights to the head. Sergo also pounded Joyce's body. The bout was so close it could have been called even, as the Italian officials said. Sergo was given the decision, however, in line with the policy that Chicago wishes to be awarded victories only in bouts which clearly are won. Close decisions go to the visitors.

126 POUNDS.

Leon Haire, Chicago, beat Federico Cortonesi, Italy [3].

Haire's long reach baffled Cortonesi in the first round. He jabbed and had the Italian off balance. The Italian missed more punches than he landed. Haire countered these wild swings with short stiff rights to the head to easily take the round. Cortonesi suffered a slight cut at the side of his left eye.

Cortonesi forced the fighting in the second round, but for a minute he couldn't get within striking distance. Then a right swing bounced off Hair'e's head and his knees buckled. Haire slowed down and Cortonesi landed another right on the shoulder. Haire rallied at the bell to force Cortonesi into the ropes with a right to the head.

Haire resumed his masterful boxing and for a minute had Cortonesi missing badly. The American kept on top of his opponent, who began shooting rights to the body. A hard, wild right landed on Haire's chest. In close they traded punches and Cortonesi's eye began to bleed again. Haire took a right and punched sharply with a left. Haire landed another left as the fight ended.

135 POUNDS.

Egisto Peire, Italy, beat Tony Ancona, Chicago [3].

Each fought opportunely in the first round, which was fast and merited the huge crowd's applause. Ancona came in twice with sharp left hooks that roused Peire. The Italian's best weapon was his hard right and he also piled up points in the clinches.

Ancona penned Peire in his own corner and shot in two hard rights early in the second round. They stood and punched until the Italian grabbed and clinched. Peire followed Ancona across the ring and landed a left and a right to the head. In a half clinch, Ancona hooked sharply twice with lefts to the head. They circled and traded blows, with neither able to gain an advantage.

Ancona's crouch had Peire at a loss as the final round started. Coming out of the crouch, Ancona landed several hard blows. Then Peire rallied and rushed Ancona, who seemed to be tiring. They alternated with hard body punches and mauled each other in close. The Italian bored in with a left and a right and then jerked loose from a clinch to pump his right to Ancona's body.

147 POUNDS.

Savior Canadeo, Chicago, beat Eric Agren, Sweden. [3].

It was Canadeo's speed against Agren's power with the Chicagoan having an early advantage as he stabbed and kept his man away. Canadeo cracked Agren with a solid right, but could not follow up the blow which staggered the European welterweight.

The boys hammered away in the second round, roughing each other in the clinches. Canadeo spun Agren around with a right and followed him to the corner with another punch that rocked the Swedish fighter. Each time Agren came back, the throng wildly cheering his aggressiveness.

The battle continued at the same pace in the last round with Agren charging and punching busily in the clinches. Canadeo, tho tiring, kept control of the bout to the last altho, always in danger from Agren's swings.

160 POUNDS.

Anthony Jones, Chicago, beat Karl Noren, Sweden [3].

Jones swarmed to the attack and for a minute kept Noren in constant retreat. Jones, however, did not land a solid blow and Noren gradually took the initiative. For the remainder of the round there was little to choose between the rivals.

The second round was fast thruout. Jones never let up and Noren matched him almost blow for blow until the final 20 seconds when the Swedish boy almost fell from exhaustion as Jones leveled at his jaw with a right. Jones had the advantage in condition.

The last round was the best in this series of matches and perhaps there never has been a harder fought round in Golden Gloves. The boys stood shoulder to shoulder and battled without a letup. Jones was the fresher, but Noren refused to go down under the barrage of blows.

There was no doubt that Jones won but his opponent had put up such an exceptional fight the crowd stood and cheered Noren for five minutes as he walked back to the dressing room.

175 POUNDS.

James Richie, Chicago, beat Lajos Szigeti, Hungary [3].

Richie fought cautiously. Occasionally Szigeti stepped in with a light left lead, then backed away. Richie repeatedly failed to take advantage of his opportunity to land punches.

Richie warmed to his task in the second round and a vicious body attack had the Hungarian holding on. The Hungarian weathered the storm of blows. He even shook off a pair of crashing rights to the head and stepped briskly to his corner at the bell.

Szigeti didn't have any sting to his punches and Richie took advantage of this fact. Richie landed on his opponent's jaw and punched him solidly in the stomach, but the Hungarian stayed to the end.

HEAVYWEIGHTS.

Olle Tandberg, Sweden, beat Cornelius Young, Chicago [3].

Tandberg's superior height kept Young away for a minute but finally the Chicagoan broke thru with a sharp left hook. Twice, in clinches, he peppered his giant opponent. But Tandberg also pounded at Young's body with effect. The tempo of the round picked up in the final seconds.

The heavyweights mauled away in a clinch. Tandberg missed with an overhand right. Along the ropes Young cracked Tandberg sharply with a right and spun him half around. Young followed up with an attack from which his bigger foe retreated as the crowd cheered. Sharp, short right hands to the head, however, brought the Swede back into the running.

Young landed a hard right to the head but Tandberg's weight began to take toll. Tandberg battered Young's body and despite the Chicagoan's game attack Tandberg was landing two blows to one. Young never stepped back and bore in to the end.

vanquished Hungarian light heavyweight, pull himself into his clothes when he returned from the first aid room with his left hand in a sling.

Disagrees on Jones Bout.

Soderlund also thought Joyce had beaten Sergo, but on his card Karl Noren, the Swedish middleweight, was given an edge over Anthony Jones of Chicago, for more accurate punching. Soderlund agreed Jones was the stronger at the finish, but contended he had missed more punches than his courageous foe.

Olle Tandberg, the Swedish heavyweight whose victory over Cornelius Young prevented a European defeat, was the team's hero and got three booms repeatedly from the Italian delegation. A boom is the Italian equivalent of three old fashioned American rahs.

DEAN DESERTS CUBS IN PROTEST AGAINST FINE

Charges Persecution by Hartnett; to See Wrigley.

two hits in five innings Monday in Fort Smith, Ark.

Manager Hartnett announced the disciplinary action this morning when he was advised that Dean had got on the train in Wichita at 12:45 o'clock, 45 minutes after the Cub curfew.

Dean Takes Off Uniform.

Dean was not apprised of the action until he appeared in the lobby, dressed in his baseball togs and ready to take the team bus to the ball park.

At 1:10 p. m., Hartnett encountered Dean in the lobby, called him into a telephone room, and handed him a typewritten formal notice of the assessment. Dean, trailed by baseball reporters, went to his room, took off his uniform, got in bed, ordered a light lunch, and started to talk.

He said in part: "The $100 plaster doesn't mean a thing, for I won't have any money coming until after the National league season opens next Tuesday. But it furnishes a good spot to go to the mat over the way I have been pushed around by Hartnett.

"Hartnett has been on me ever since I reported on March 17 and I knew he was shooting at me when he called that meeting the day we were rained out in San Antonio [last Friday], and I knew it better when he refused to let me visit my father while the team was playing in Fort Worth Sunday.

"He put me in the game in Fort Smith Monday because he thought I would get my brains beat out in two or three innings, but I guess the whole world knows how I fooled him.

"Only Visiting His Uncle."

"My mother is buried 30 miles from Fort Smith and the country is full of Deans and other kin but he wouldn't let me go to the cemetery or get off to visit the kin folks.

"Then we came to Wichita. My uncle, the Rev. Bland Dean and his family, live 14 miles out of Wichita. Hartnett knew about Uncle Bland, for when we were snowed out here last year the papers printed pictures of us together on account of us looking as alike as twins.

"I tried to get hold of Hartnett after the game and tell him I was going out to my uncle's and might be a little late getting on the train, which wasn't due to leave for Topeka until 2 o'clock this morning. I went out to Uncle Bland's with my cousin and was in the depot at 12:15 o'clock.

"I hadn't had a drink and after passing the Carrie Nation fountain going into the depot I stopped and had a chocolate milkshake with Andy Lotshaw, Cub trainer, who was on his usual job of checking to see that everybody had arrived. Then I got on the train quietly, found some of the players still up, talked with them a little, and went to bed.

Tells of Barnstorming Offer.

"If they try to make that phony fine stick I am going on an exhibition tour and my first date will be in Mills stadium in Chicago. A team was organized when I thought I was going to holdout and if they don't back down on this business I can make more money barnstorming in three weeks than I can in the whole season under my present contract.

"I hope it is straightened out, for I know my arm is as good as ever. But I don't want to be ridden all the time. And I don't want to be reminded all the time I'm just like all the other players on the team. I'm the guy they ask to go to dinners and shindigs of one kind or another and I'm glad to do it, but it ain't no lark for me. I can have plenty of time for them promotions, but when I ask a little personal time for myself I get bawled out and now fined."

DOOR'S OPEN—WRIGLEY

The door to P. K. Wrigley's office will be open if Dizzy Dean decides to pay him a visit, the owner and president of the Cubs said yesterday. Dean, fined $100 yesterday for violation of training rules, declares he will come to Chicago and "go to the mat" for persecutions he charges have been inflicted on him by Gabby Hartnett, Cub manager.

"I am an easy man to see," said Mr. Wrigley, "and if Mr. Dean asks for an interview, which I doubt, I will be happy to see him."

Asked to comment on Hartnett's disciplinary action, the Cub chieftan said: "I hope it is deservedly warranted."

Reminded that Larry French, Cub southpaw, started winning last season after going to him and complaining at the "silent" treatment he received from Hartnett, Mr. Wrigley replied:

"At that time I advised Larry to go out there and show me he was a hell of a pitcher. He certainly did. If Dizzy comes to me I will tell him the same thing and sincerely hope it will have the same results."

Time Loans in a Hurry!

You may pay up in a hurry
You may take plenty of time

It's the customer's choice—when you borrow at this bank. You may pay up in a hurry or take plenty of time. Convenient Time Tables for amounts from $50 to $5,000 will help you to make your choice.

When you make a Time Loan at this bank, you give a note which includes the amount of cash received and the moderate cost of the loan. Then month by month you "save up" in an account with us to have the funds to pay your note when it falls due.

— Personal Loan Time Table —

The Schedule at the right shows how much you save up by months to pay the popular One-Comaker loan based on $250—$350—$450, cash received.

For Example:

Suppose you want $350 in cash and suppose you prefer a low monthly installment, take an 18 month loan and "save up" $21.64 a month . . . If you want to get it paid back in a hurry, make a loan for, say, 5 months and provide $72.79 a month for retirement . . . If the reason for a loan is an annual need, which may recur in another year, then it would be logical to borrow for 12 months, and $31.44 will be the monthly installment.

THE OLD HUBBELL IS BACK; SUBDUES CLEVELAND, 4 TO 1

Indians Get Four Hits as Carl Goes Full Route.

Tarboro, N. C., April 10 [Special].—Carl Hubbell, the Giants' old maestro, gave a masterful exhibition of pitching against the Cleveland Indians today and the Giants won, 4 to 1. Hubbell, pitching his first full game of the year, was so effective it appeared no team could have beaten him—even tho his Giant mates supported him with only three hits.

With his famed screw ball spinning to his slightest urge, his speed greater than it was last year, Hubbell simply tied up the Indians.

Billy Evans, who has been looking at pitching for many years, was extravagant in his praise.

"Why that fellow's faster today than he was when he was supposed to be the 'real Hubbell,'" he said during the 9th inning, after Hubbell had fanned eight, held the Indians to four hits, issued but two passes and just missed a shutout. Score:

Cleveland [A.] ......000 000 100—1 4 2

RED SOX, 2; REDS, 1.

Charleston, W. Va., April 10 (AP).—Paul Derringer performed in midseason fashion for the Cincinnati Reds today but the Boston Red Sox hit when it counted for a 2 to 1 victory. Derringer pitched four hit ball thru six innings, but Dom DiMaggio singled and Ted Williams doubled in the first inning for the first run. Gene Thompson took over in the seventh and immediately gave up two singles and a walk, returning the winning margin.

YANKS WIN ON 2 HITS.

Ashland, Ky., April 10 (AP).—The New York Yankees were held to two hits today, but nevertheless managed to score six runs in one inning to beat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7 to 6.

This uprising came in the fourth when Red Rolfe led off with a single, and there followed two errors, a mental lapse that was scored as a fielder's choice, and five bases on balls by Pitcher Max Macon, three of them forcing in runs.

Babe Dahlgren hit a homer in the sixth for the Yanks' other hit and what proved to be the winning run.

Outfielder Jake Powell of the Yanks ran into a steel fence and was taken to a hospital for observation. It was said tonight he had suffered a concussion and would have to remain in the hospital three or four days. Score:

quickly exterminated on an attempted steal. The Sox finally saw base for the first time when Mike Kreevich was walked by MacFayden with two out in the fourth, but Mike was forced by Solters.

The Pirates' profitable fourth opened with a single into center by Lee Handley. Paul Waner's clout went into some seats in the left field corner so he was held to two bases and Handley had to stop at third. A more or less intentional pass to Arky Vaughan loaded the bases. Garms hoisted a fly to Wright and Handley scored but Vaughan was doubled, Wright to McNair, when he tried to sneak to second on the catch. Elbie Fletcher scratched a single past Joe Kuhel and P. Waner scored. McNair tossed out Bob Elliott to end the inning.

Sox Start Clicking.

The Sox' first hit was potent enough to cut the Pirates' two run lead in half in the fifth. It was the homer propelled over the center field fence by Wright. Then Swigart showed up in the sixth and the Sox burst forth for fair. Metha batted for Lyons and hit his homer, tying the score. Kuhel walked, Kreevich survived on a fumble by Vaughan, Julius Solters singled and so did McNair to make the inning worth four runs.

Excitement came quickly for Smith in the sixth. He started his day's work against Vaughan, who doubled. Fern Bell batted for Garms and walked. Fletcher also walked, loading the bases. Elliott's single scored Vaughan and Bell. Kreevich's throw-in was wild, so Fletcher went to third and Elliott to second. Young brought them home by doubling along the left field line, and scored the fifth run of the inning when Handley beat out a bunt.

Play in Springfield Today.

The Pirates were slightly on the clown side in the seventh when the Sox regained the lead by scoring five times. With one out Bob Kennedy singled to center. With two out Kreevich singled to the same spot, Kennedy reaching third before Elliott's return throw arrived. Handley relayed the ball to second, thinking he might nip Kreevich, but the peg went far into right field, both fellows scoring. Then Solters, Luke Appling, and Wright singled, and McNair doubled for three more runs. Swigart retired in favor of John Lanning who halted the rumpus.

The Sox and Pirates will conclude their tour tomorrow in Springfield, Ill. Manager Dykes will employ two ot his rookies—Ed Weiland and Orval Grove on the mound. Truett Sewell and Dick Lanahan will be enemy nominees.

Yep, It's True: Browns Crush Our Cubs, 15-3

the idea well enough to repeat the act this afternoon.

Rip Radcliff opened with a single to right but was out stealing. Alan Strange singled and George McQuinn flied to Dom Dallessandro. Joe Gallagher smashed a single off Billy Herman's left knee, after which Walt Judnich singled, Strange scoring and Gallagher reaching third. Berardino doubled, scoring Gallagher and Judnich, and Don Heffner flied to Hank Leiber.

The Cubs busted loose for a run in the third. Sturgeon was safe on Strange's fumble and, after Passeau had popped to Berardino, Hack walked. Herman came thru with his second single, scoring Sturgeon. Augie Galan flied to Judnich and Leiber fanned.

The Browns Step Out.

The Browns stirred up a real ruckus in their third. McQuinn walked with one down and the bases were loaded after Gallagher and Judnich beat out dribblers in front of the plate. Then the pesky Berardino tripled to clear the bases. He scored on a single by Heffner.

The Cubs got under way again in the fifth. Passeau walked and scored ahead of Hack when Stan knocked a homer over the right field fence. Herman followed up with his third straight single but was forced by Galan. Leiber flied to Gallagher.

The Slaughter Goes On.

Judnich doubled with one out in the fifth and Berardino made a valiant effort to drive Judnich home but was thwarted when Jim Gleeson jumped high against the left field fence for a one hand catch. Heffner struck out.

In Olsen's first inning—the sixth—he struck out Bob Swift and Coffman, and retired Radcliff on a grounder. Vern was not so fortunate in the seventh, however. A double, a walk and three singles netted the American leaguers four runs. A double by Radcliff, a single by Strange, doubles by McQuinn and Gallagher, and a single by Judnich produced the four runs in the eighth.

The teams will play again tomorrow and Friday Purdue meets the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Haub bested Bob Bailey, Purdue junior, whose brilliant pitching was marred by ragged support. Neither of the Hawkeye run. was earned.

Iowa scored in the fifth when Cook singled and took second when Fisher dropped a third strike on Kocur. A passed ball moved Cook to third and he scored on Stastny's long fly. In the sixth inning Prasse was safe at first on Hearne's wild throw and scored on successive hits by George and Welp.

One of these times you'll surely try Phillies...WHY NOT SWITCH TODAY?

MAYBE you'll be introduced to Phillies when a friend says something like this: "Old man, I've noticed you throwing away half-smoked cigars. Why don't you switch to Phillies? You'll never find Phillies tasting bitter toward the end."

Maybe you'll decide to find out about Phillies, one of these times, when you see the Phillies box on a cigar counter. Sooner or later, you'll surely try Phillies. Why not now? If you don't know "America's No. 1 Cigar", you owe it to yourself to discover the extra smoking pleasure you are missing.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

Phillies is the only cigar that gives you a guarantee of value like this: Guaranteed the same cigar today, for only 5¢, that was good enough to become the biggest-selling brand in the country at 10¢.

AND THIS? Smokers, themselves, prove that Phillies are better. They walk up to cigar counters, day after day, and lay down more money for Phillies than for any other cigar.

CONZELMAN IS NEW CARDINAL FOOTBALL BOSS

Former Star Will Take Charge at Once.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Jimmy Conzelman, the bard of St. Louis, returned to professional football yesterday. In the presence of reporters and photographers, the game's outstanding editor, author, song writer and after dinner speaker, signed a contract to coach the Chicago Cardinals. Terms were not made public.

Conzelman succeeds Ernie Nevers, who resigned two months ago after an unsuccessful attempt to pull the Cardinals out of the western division cellar in the National league. He comes to the Cardinals from Washington university in St. Louis, his alma mater where he won a Missouri Valley conference championship last fall.

Charles Bidwill, owner of the Cardinals, said after the signing that arrangements for a training camp, signing of players and other details in connection with the operation of the club would be left to Conzelman. Conzelman said the club probably would train in or near Chicago on some college campus.

He Changes His Mind.

Conzelman was offered the Cardinal job immediately after he resigned at Washington university on Jan. 18. He declined the offer without listening to terms, preferring to devote his time to magazine work and radio. Later he reopened negotiations with Bidwill.

Professional football is an old story to Conzelman. When the war interrupted his college career in his freshman year, he joined the famous Great Lakes eleven, sharing the quarter back assignment with Paddy Driscoll. He returned to Washington university to play one year of varsity football, then joined the Decatur Staleys. When George Halas brought the Staleys into Chicago and changed their name to Bears, Conzelman went to the Rock Island eleven as player and coach.

He was with Rock Island two years; then was sold to Milwaukee, where he coached and played for the Badgers for two seasons. From Milwaukee he went to Detroit, where he took out a franchise and ran the pro club for two seasons. His next stop was in Providence, R. I., where he coached the Steamrollers for four years. His 1928 Providence eleven won the National league championship with eight victories, two defeats, and a tie.

He Becomes an Editor.

Journalism lured him back to St. Louis in 1930 and he settled down to a career of editing a weekly. It was too long between editions for the energetic Conzelman, however, and in 1931 he combined his newspaper work with a season of coaching the St. Louis Gunners, a semiprofessional eleven. Washington university called him back the next season and he remained there for eight years, producing conference champions in 1934, 1935, and 1939. These are the only titles Washington ever won.

Dolly Val Wins in Florida; Pays Off at $115.10

Coral Gables, Fla., April 10 (AP).—Dolly Val paid $115.10 today in winning the $10,000 added Tropical handicap, final feature of Florida's most prosperous racing season. She paid $42.30 to place and $17.30 to show.

The heavily backed Many Stings, flying the colors of the Leo J. Marks stable, failed to live up to the trust placed in him by most of the 9,413 fans. With the odds backed down to $3 for $2 under heavy betting Many Stings never threatened and finished seventh.

Bull Whip, a Brandywine stable entry, was half a length behind Dolly Val in second place. Mrs. E. L. Martin's Supreme Sir gained the show position in a photo finish with Mrs. M. Evans' Shot Put.

PABSTS ROLL UP 3,245 PINS; WIN THREE STRAIGHT

The Pabst Blue Ribbons, carrying a 1,015 average in the Classic league, last night bowled 3,245 at the Jay Bee Recreation to win three games from the Ambrosias, and lead the Wednesday divisions by 10 games. The Pragers took two games from the Monarchs, and the Power House won two from Koenig Brau. Schlitz defeated the Michelobs twice.

Peter Petersen of the Schlitz bowled 238, 232, and 246 for a 715 total, and Joe Janis bowled 269 in the third game.

Elsie Pavesich rolled 266, a record game, as her team, the Riddells won two from the Richters in Congress Women's Bowling league last night. The leading Rovicks took two from the Bee Vacs and almost clinched the championship as the runner-up Budweisers lost a pair to the Williams five. Congress took a set from the Lincolns and the Pabsts won two from the Morgens.

Thirty-four teams from ten country clubs will bowl in the third annual women's district sweepstakes in the Congress recreation this afternoon. Medinah will have nine teams in the competition and Tam O'Shanter, the defending champion, eight. Teams from Mohawk, Midlothian, Lincolnshire, Itasca, Nordic, Olympia fields, Illinois, and Ridge also will compete.

KIEFER AGAIN SETS A RECORD IN BACKSTROKE

Adolph Kiefer set a world's record for the 150 yard backstroke in a 60 foot pool and Claudia Eckert broke the Central A. A. U. women's 500 yard free style mark last night at the Skyline Athletic club. Kiefer shaved almost 3 seconds off the time set by Al Van de Weghe of Princeton a few years ago by swimming the distance in 1:33.6.

In defending her C. A. A. U. title Miss Eckert swam the 500 yards in 6:32.1, which was almost 26 seconds faster than Marlys Lapin's time of 6:57.8, set in 1933.

Otto Jaretz, national 100 yard free style champion, won the C. A. A. U. 220 yard free style championship in 2:17.2. In the other title event Arthur Bethke of the University of Chicago won the 220 yard breast stroke in 3:01.6.

SOCCER PLAYERS TO DINE.

The International Soccer league will hold a banquet Saturday night at the Swedish club, 1258 North La Salle street, to celebrate its 20th anniversary.

Registration Rule Adopted by Race Body

The Illinois racing commission yesterday fulfilled its part in a nationwide movement to prevent horses from getting separated from their registration papers. The commission, which consists of Leo Spitz, Walter Peacock and William Schlake, passed a rule requiring owners to surrender registration certificates with horses which are lost on claims. The rule applies only to 2 year olds this season, but it will be extended as each new crop comes to the races so that after several years it will apply to all horses.

The commission also reappointed Christopher J. FitzGerald as the steward who will represent it at the race meetings. Oscar Bachman was reappointed director of mutuels and Dr. George B. McKillip veterinarian representing the commission.

Fairmount Park Gets Dates.

The commission also granted racing dates to Fairmount Park for a series of spring and fall meetings which will total 60 days. The spring series will open on May 30 and close July 6. The fall events will run from Aug. 31 to Oct. 12. Because there will be racing on Mondays the program is broken up into a series of 12 meetings to comply with the law requiring each meeting to run on consecutive week days.

How to Enforce Rule.

The machinery for enforcing the rule on registration papers is contained in the provision that the racing secretary will withhold the money deposited as payment for the horse until the former owner surrenders the document. Meanwhile, however, the horse will be permitted to race for the new owner.

CITY'S ARCHERY TITLES WILL BE DECIDED SUNDAY

Individual archery championships in all classes will be decided Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Naval armory. There will be final competition in A, B, and C classes for men and women; for intermediate boys and girls and for junior boys and girls. Any archer residing in Chicago or belonging to a park district archery club can enter.

Final inter club team scores for the winter season reveal that the Columbus Park men retained their title, and that the Columbus Park women won out over the Park Ridge women.

National Open Golf Trials to Be Held May 27

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Sectional qualifying rounds for the 1940 national open golf tournament will be held on May 27 in 26 centers thruout the country, six less than last year. Out of these separate 36 hole medal play tests will come the larger part of the field in the tournament proper, which will be held on June 6, 7, and 8 at the Canterbury Golf club, near Cleveland, O.

The Chicago district trials for golf's main event will be decided over the No. 1 and No. 4 courses at Olympia Fields. The club has set May 20 and 24 as the practice days for contestants in the qualifying rounds.

No set number of places for each district in the open proper has been established yet. Nor will it be until the entries are all filed. The closing date for these is 5 p. m. Tuesday, May 14. The entry fee is $5, and should be sent to the headquarters of the United States Golf association, 73 East 57th street, New York City. The entry of each amateur must be certified by an officer of the club or association which determined his handicap. The handicap limit for amateur entries is three strokes or less.

Eliminate 6 Centers.

The number of places allotted to each district is determined by the quality and quantity of entries from each section. Last year the Chicago trials saw a field of 112 pros and amateurs battling for 12 places in the tournament at Philadelphia.

The six centers used last year which are being eliminated this season are Huntington, W. Va.; Richmond, Va.; Atlanta, Ga.; Memphis, Tenn.; New Orleans, La., and Houston, Tex. It was felt in dropping them that most players would be sufficiently served by other established points or unlikely to attend the tournament. Most West Virginians play at Cincinnati or Pittsburgh; Washington serves Richmond's players, and Atlanta and Memphis entrants can go to Birmingham, Ala.

140 Will Earn Places.

Approximately 140 men will earn their places in these qualifying rounds. The remainder of the field at Cleveland will be made up of those players who are exempt from sectional qualification by reason of having finished within the first 30 and ties in the 1939 open at Philadelphia.

Nine Chicagoans will be spared labor on May 27 because of their performances in last year's tournament. These include Johnny Bulla, competing unattached, who was the 54 hole leader; Ralph Guldahl, also unattached, 1937 and 1938 champion; Dick Metz of Oak Park; Harry Cooper of Northmoor; Horton Smith of Oak Park; Wilford Wehrle of Tam o' Shanter, Chicago district amateur titleholder; Tommy Armour of Medinah; Johnny Revolta of Evanston, and Jimmy Foulis of Ruth Lake.

RANGERS, LEAFS RESUME HOCKEY SERIES TONIGHT

Toronto Counts on Home Ice as Factor.

TORONTO, Ont., April 10 (AP).—The Maple Leafs, virtually invincible on their home ice, depend on this factor to give them a 3 to 2 lead in the Stanley cup finals tomorrow night when they renew their feud with the New York Rangers. First team to win four games will be the new National league champion. Toronto has lost only three of 30 games in Maple Leaf gardens this year. The series will be concluded here, as there is a circus in Madison Square Garden, the Rangers' home base.

The Rangers won the first two games of the series in Madison Square Garden last week. Then the scene shifted to Toronto, and the Maple Leafs looked for all the world as if they were on the way to their first cup since 1932 as they captured the next two contests, 2 to 1 and 3 to 0, and squared the series.

Rangers' Leader Grim.

"I figure that a team must be 25 per cent better than we are to beat us at home," says Coach Dick Irvin of the Leafs.

Manager Lester Patrick of the Rangers admitted, grimly: "They've caught up with us on the ice where they've fared so well all season, and the rest of the games must be played here."

Coach Frank Boucher let a few of the Rangers work on the ice today. Stan Smith and Bill Allum, from the Philadelphia club, worked about an hour extra. Alex Shibicky tested his bad ankle on the ice and it still was tender. Boucher said he probably would start Stan Smith in Shibicky's place tomorrow night.

Solve Rangers' Attack.

Irvin said there might be a change or two in the Toronto lineup. Jack Church and Robert Heron were tired, he said, and may be given a rest.

A major factor in the Toronto victories has been the method of breaking up the Rangers' five man attacks. Irvin apparently has instructed his players to nudge, bump or bowl over the puck carrier as he comes over the blue line, disrupting the play almost before it starts.

Newark Sells Shortstop Corbitt to Milwaukee

Newark, N. J., April 10 (AP).—The Newark Bears of the International Baseball league announced today Shortstop Claude Corbitt had been sold to Milwaukee of the American association.

RAP NEW DEAL FOR SHRINKING FARM EXPORTS

Empires' Arms Sales Termed Unfair.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—Farm leaders today blamed the administration for allowing the British and French to discriminate against American agricultural products while demanding the latest in this country's war implements.

These leaders were interviewed on the hardships to American agriculture which restrictions by belligerents have imposed. They said they did not wish to criticize unduly the British and French while engaged in a bitter battle for their lives but that they felt the administration must take the blame for low prices and surpluses plaguing the American farmer.

Under the reciprocal trade agreements program, they asserted, competing farm products have been allowed to enter the United States from the same countries which have set up restrictions against the purchase of our agricultural supplies.

Favor "Market Basket" Idea.

They were inclined to favor the "market basket" plan which has attracted attention in farm areas, but doubted that any legislation could be passed to enforce it, especially since the plan was aired in the senate last week and defeated. The "market basket" idea is that the British, French, or any other foreign country would be required to purchase American beef, pork, grain, lard, fruits, etc., in order to get airplanes, engines, munitions, metals, and other essential war materials.

The British have been particularly vulnerable on this score, having diverted their purchases of farm products from the United States to British colonies, while encouraging the expansion of war implement production in this country to abnormal proportions.

Fred Brenckman, Washington representative of the National grange, expressed opposition to the reciprocal trade agreements, negotiated by the administration, under which the import duty has been lowered on approximately 200 competitive farm items alone.

Benefit Funds "Measly"

Benefit payments made to the farmers by the government are "measly," said Brenckman, compared with the markets which the American farmers have lost. In the fiscal years 1937 and 1938, he asserted, imports of competitive farm products averaged more than 537 million dollars annually. The acreage displaced by competitive farm imports was 33,533,000 acres per year. It is important to remember that competitive imports are always offered at a lower price than those which prevail at home, he said.

Charles W. Holman, secretary of the National Coöperative Milk Producers' federation and acting secretary of the farmers' and stockmen's committee which advocated senate ratification of the trade treaties, expressed the opinion that Secretary of State Cordell Hull has the power to take corrective action in the current situation by notifying discriminating nations of intention to amend existing trade agreements.

Opportunities Curtailed.

"It is important to note," Holman said in a recent statement, "that since the United Kingdom and France have formed a joint purchasing committee which controls all of the imports for both nations during the war, opportunities of American interests to ship products other than war materials have been greatly curtailed. This is particularly true of our outgoing food products and yet our concessions to the United Kingdom and France stand unchanged and any competing country can reap the benefit."

While hogs in this country are selling for about 5 cents a pound, Canadian hogs are bringing a somewhat higher price. A year after the first trade agreement was signed with Canada, the Canadian government instituted a quarantine against the importation of live hogs, and effective last Feb. 27 it imposed an import quota on fresh and frozen pork products from the United States of 1,600,000 pounds a month. Lehman Flails Vast Power in Investing Bill

The bill now before the senate banking and currency committee providing for control of the investment company business goes far beyond the limits of "proper regulation." This statement was made yesterday by Robert Lehman, president of the Lehman corporation, management type investment company, in a report to stockholders. Lehman is also a member of Lehman Brothers, investment banking company.

Robert Lehman.

Asserting directors of the investment corporation are favorable to federal legislation providing for "appropriate and constructive supervision and regulation," Lehman said the bill has a number of faults which would seriously affect the operations of the corporation.

Lists "Objectional" Factors.

Provisions which he listed as "particularly objectionable" were:

1. One which would require major changes in the affiliations of the management of the corporation and might require the virtual elimination from the affairs of the corporation of the group which has managed it since its foundation.

2. One which would restrict the freedom and operating judgment "which is an essential characteristic of successful management.

3. One which might unduly complicate the payment of dividends.

4. One which would delegate to the Securities and Exchange commission far reaching powers to make general rules and regulations.

In a report covering the nine months ended March 31, Lehman said the net asset value of the corporation's capital stock was approximately $32.53 a share on the 2,081,580 shares outstanding, compared with $29.79 a share on June 30, 1939. The corporation has paid dividends without interruption since June 30, 1930.

Common Stocks Sold.

The portfolio as of March 31 shows a moderate increase in cash, receivables, and United States government obligations during the March quarter, caused principally by a decrease in the amount of common stocks held. On Dec. 31 cash and government securities had a value of $7,406,717, representing 10.8 per cent of the corporation's assets, and on March 31 the total was $10,256,524, or 15 per cent.

4,000 Come to See Business Exhibits and/or Milkmaids

More than 100 exhibits by industries and organizations of Chicagoland drew about 4,000 persons to the Hotel Sherman yesterday for the second day of the seventh annual business exposition of the Rotary Club of Chicago. Events of the show, which will continue until Friday, include milking contests by attractive milkmaids and hourly fur revues.

WINTER WHEAT CROP ESTIMATED AT 7 YEAR LOW

Drouth Causes Much Abandonment.

Washington, D. C., April 10 (AP).—With an estimated 29 per cent of the seeded acreage abandoned because of damage from drought and other unfavorable weather conditions, the department of agriculture today forecast a winter wheat crop of 426,215,000 bushels, the smallest since 1933.

Based on conditions prevailing April 1, the estimate was about 27,000,000 bushels larger than one made as of Dec. 1. The department said conditions had improved since the end of 1939, but that there was much uncertainty about the crop in the heart of the winter wheat belt, particularly in Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and parts of Colorado and Texas.

A report issued by the weather bureau indicated that conditions in the midwest had improved since April 1 as a result of good rains.

Reduced One-Fourth.

The winter wheat forecast was nearly a fourth lower than last year's production of 563,431,000 bushels and the 10 year [1929-'38] average of 571,067,000 bushels.

Despite the short crop outlook, officials said indications pointed to ample supplies to meet normal American requirements of about 660,000,000 bushels annually. A winter wheat crop of the size indicated, plus a normal spring wheat crop of 200,000,000 bushels would provide 626,000,000 bushels. Surpluses from past crops are estimated at about 300,000,000 bushels. Thus the total supply would be about 926,000,000 bushels.

The department said preliminary surveys indicated that 13,114,000 acres of the 45,014,000 seeded to winter wheat would be abandoned because of crop damage. The acreage left for harvest would be about 31,900,000 or about 16 per cent under the 1939 harvested acreage and about equal to the 10 year average.

Yield Per Acre Cut.

The department placed the indicated yield of wheat per seeded acre at 9.5 bushels, compared with 12.2 in 1939 and the 10 year average of 12 bushels.

Reports showed pastures a little late but with about average prospects ahead, fruits in about average condition notwithstanding some winter injury, and the general crop and moisture situation not greatly different from the average at this season during recent years, but somewhat less promising than in decades prior to 1933.

The condition of the rye crop on April 1 was placed at 69 per cent of normal, compared with 79 per cent a year ago. Prospects were said to indicate fair to good supplies of most fruits for the 1940 season. Late spring and early summer supplies of citrus fruits were said to be smaller than last season due to severe freeze damage in Florida.

Corn Supply Grows.

The department reported farm stocks of grain on April 1 this year and last, respectively, as follows: Corn, 1,285,505,000 and 1,220,603,000 bushels; wheat, 157,484,000 and 188,408,000, and oats 346,160,000 and 414,866,000.

The corn stocks were said to have been the largest for any corresponding date since 1926 when April 1 estimates were first reported. Most of this grain was stored under government loans to producers.

TRADERS WATCH WAR NEWS

Wheat traders were on the sidelines yesterday awaiting further developments in the renewed activity in Europe's war. Prices on the Chicago Board of Trade weakened under large hedging sales and profit taking and evening up for the government crop report to be issued later in the day. Closing trades were at net losses of 1 to 1⅛ cents.

Corn showed independent strength and closed ¾ to ⅞ cent higher, May and July going into new high ground since early last January and September to a new seasonal high. Reduced offerings of cash grain for deferred shipment from the country had considerable influence. Rye was easy with wheat, and oats and soybeans were unchanged.

Inland Steel Freighters Crash Thru Mackinac Ice

First freighters thru the ice choked straits of Mackinac in northern Lake Michigan this year were the steamers Joseph Block and N. F. Leopold of the Inland Steel company. The boats, helping each other in bucking the ice, passed thru the straits together yesterday morning. They headed for Lake Erie and Toledo to load coal.

Townsend Hits Silver Buying as 'Shell Game'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 10.—Senator John G. Townsend Jr. [R., Del.] today described the administration's purchase of foreign silver as "shell game economics" which has cost the country about one billion dollars since 1934.

The senator, ranking minority member of the senate banking and currency committee and sponsor of a bill to end the foreign silver purchases, estimated that 80 million dollars "given away" to Mexico alone would have supported 135,000 Americans on relief for a full year and that the full billion dollars would have supported 1,687,500 WPA workers for a year.

Townsend's bill has been approved by the senate committee and passage at this session has been predicted.

Raps 'Multiple Gifts.'

"How the American silver program hands out multiple gifts to foreigners, without any thought of reciprocity or corresponding benefit being extended to us by the beneficiaries, is a matter inadequately understood by most Americans," Townsend said.

"The foreigners who sell us their unwanted silver call our attention to the fact that they take our goods [i. e., our wealth] in exchange, and many Americans think that we, and not the foigners, are the beneficiaries of such shell game economics. Since 1933 about $1,000,000,000 has been handed over to foreigners in this manner.

"From 1934 thru 1939 Mexico produced and sold 464,900,000 ounces of silver, an average of 78,100,000 ounces a year. In 1933 Mexico produced only 68,100,000 ounces. Therefore, Mexico's production since 1934 has been 60,000,000 ounces greater than it would have been had its output continued only at the pre-silver-program rate.

Cites Other Benefits.

"In 1933, when silver was already high in price because of the London silver agreement and other artificial factors, Mexico's silver production yielded that country an estimated $23,875,000. Had there been no American treasury purchases in the ensuing six years and had 1933 conditions continued, Mexico would have received for its silver during the period 1934-'39 the sum of $140,010,000. In reality, and almost entirely because of the American silver program, Mexico was able to sell its silver output during those six years for an estimated $219,852,000."

RIPS TELEVISION CONTROL; WORLD LEAD AT STAKE

Washington, D. C., April 10 (AP).—David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, testified today that the Federal Communications commission had held up and "thrown into confusion" the company's commercial television plans at a time when the United States had an opportunity to seize leadership in the field from Great Britain.

He made the assertion to the senate interstate commerce committee after James L. Fly, FCC chairman, had defended the commission's suspension of an order permitting limited commercial television broadcasting on Sept. 1. Fly said the commission feared that R. C. A.'s sales campaign would "freeze" television broadcast standards. Because the R. C. A. sets would not be able to receive other types of transmission.

Sarnoff, asserting that R. C. A. had not been given "a square deal" by the commission, said that a set capable of receiving all foreseeable methods of broadcasting would be more expensive than present models and might be of no advantage to the user.

The R. C. A. head testified that Great Britain had been several years ahead of the United States in commercial television and that the war now made it possible for the United States to take the lead.

HARRISON QUITS BANK, WORLD'S LARGEST, TO HEAD INSURANCE FIRM

New York, April 10 (AP).—George Leslie Harrison announced today his resignation as president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, rated the world's largest bank, to become president of the New York Life Insurance company. After 25 years in the reserve system, he will take over administration of the big insurance company on July 1. Alfred L. Aiken, the company announced, will move up from president to chairman of the board. He has been president since 1936.

George L. Harrison.

The New York Life's veteran officer, Thomas A. Buckner, who recently celebrated his 60th anniversary with the company, will become chairman of the finance committee, relinquishing the board chairmanship.

The stockily built Harrison, now 53, steered the New York Reserve bank thru the turbulent years of monetary upheavals following the 1929 Wall street crash. The bank has total deposits of more than $7,500,000,000 consisting largely of reserves of New York City commercial banks. New York Life, doing a nation-wide business, has assets of $2,762,000,000 and $6,831,000,000 of insurance in force.

FAVORABLE TAX DECISION IS WON BY MRS. ARMOUR

Washington, D. C., April 10 [Special].—A board of tax appeals decision today largely overruled a treasury claim for $173,026 of additional income taxes against Mrs. Lolita Sheldon Armour, widow of J. Ogden Armour, Chicago packer.

The controversy involved a trust fund established by Mrs. Armour for her daughter, Mrs. John J. Mitchell. The board decided Mrs. Armour should not be required to pay taxes on ordinary income of the trust, but should pay on the capital gains, amounting to $28,720.

The trust, which had tax exempt income amounting to $90,178 and taxable income of $357,764 for the four years 1932-'35, was established after Mrs. Armour's sale of 500 shares of Universal Oil Products company stock for about $9,500,000. The trust was established to provide Mrs. Mitchell a monthly income of $10,000 for life.

REPUBLIC'S NET INCOME IN FIRST QUARTER RISES

Libbey-Owens-Ford Has Gain Also.

First quarter reports of both Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company and Republic Steel corporation and subsidiaries yesterday showed large gains in net income this year over the same period in 1939.

Republic Steel listed net profit for the quarter of $3,111,723, equal to 43 cents a share on the common, after preferred dividend requirements, compared with $532,899, or 91 cents a share on 119,597 shares of 6 per cent preferred, in the first three months of 1939.

Calls Wage Figure Exaggerated.

T. M. Girdler, chairman of Republic, said yesterday during the annual meeting that the National Labor Relations board decision against the company would not involve any serious reëmployment problem because "by far the greater number of those who filed applications for reinstatement have returned to work." He added that it was not possible now to state the amount of back wages the company would be required to pay, but that the publicized $5,000,000 was greatly exaggerated.

The glass company announced net profit of $2,897,952, equal to $1.15 a share on 2,513,258 shares, against $1,722,780, or 68 cents a share on 2,509,750 shares, in the March quarter last year.

Tool Firm's Earnings Tripled.

Independent Pneumatic Tool company, Chicago manufacturer of portable electric and pneumatic tools, announced net earnings for 1939 of $938,121, or $2.50 a share, more than triple its $288,047, or 76 cents a share, in 1938.

"Our business for the first quarter of this year," Neil C. Hurley, president, said in the report, "shows a decided increase over the same period last year, and indications at this time are that this will also be a satisfactory year."

Ask Congress to Cut Budget 500 Millions

With the federal debt approaching the 45 billion dollar legal limit, the Chicago Association of Commerce moved yesterday to get national support for a reduction of at least 500 millions in the estimated budget for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1941.

Roy C. Osgood, head of committee studying government finances.

Oscar G. Mayer, president of the association, addressed communications to the United States senators and congressmen from Illinois and to leaders of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States warning that unless the recommended budget cut is assured, it may be necessary to levy new taxes or to increase the federal debt limit, or both.

Debt Nearing Legal Limit.

The federal debt at the end of the present fiscal year, June 30, 1940, is expected to total 43 billion, 222 million.

Roy C. Osgood, nationally recognized authority on governmental fiscal affairs and an executive of the First National Bank of Chicago, heads a committee of the association which has made a study of the government's financial plans.

"The President's budget message calls for expenditures in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1941, amounting to 9 billion 27 million dollars," the committee said. "The official estimate of revenues for the year shows a total of 6 billion 151 millions. This indicates a deficit for 1941 of 2 billion 876 millions.

Three Methods Proposed.

"According to the President's plan this deficit was to be financed by three methods.

"1. Thru 700 million obtained from the surplus assets of various government corporations.

"2. Thru 460 millions of new taxes.

"3. Thru approximately 1 billion 716 millions of new borrowings.

"There has been no official statement as to which of the government corporations will make the contributions of 700 millions.

Congress Does About Face.

"As appropriation bills were presented early in this session there was indicated a spirit of economy and independence in congress. In their earlier legislative stages appropriations bills were cut approximately 300 millions below the estimates. However, beginning with the agricultural bill, the pending measures indicate appropriations of several hundred millions above the estimates."

The statement says that taxes are already too high and the only real solution for the situation is economy and reduced expenditures. Federal expenditures proposed for the year ended June, 1941, it added, are such that, unless appropriations are cut at least 500 millions under the estimate, either new taxes or an increase in the debt limit will be necessary.

Beech Aircraft Corp. Sales Tripled During Six Months

Beech Aircraft corporation, Wichita, Kas., yesterday reported net delivered sales of $932,937 for the first half of its fiscal year, Oct. 1 to March 31, more than three times the $261,997 for the corresponding period of 1938-'39. The company's current backlog exceeds $1,500,000, it was reported.

RAILROADS PLAN SPEEDY, DE LUXE FLORIDA TRAINS

May Begin Fast Runs Next Winter.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

High speed streamlined train service between Chicago and the Florida resort areas appears to be fairly well assured for the next winter season it was learned yesterday. Executives of the railroads that would have a part in the service met recently in New York to discuss the proposal, it was learned.

Railroad authorities have expressed the opinion that 26 hour service between Chicago and Miami would be feasible. The present fastest time during the winter season is 31 hours and 40 minutes over a 1,434 mile route, with standard equipment used. However, it is not held likely that a 26 hour service would be installed at once.

Consider Four Trains.

Several plans were discussed in New York, railroad men said. The one that met with the most favor was a proposal to install four streamlined trains so that each of the four Chicago railroads that have Florida service could start a train south on a different day.

The Chicago roads are the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, Illinois Central, New York Central, and Pennsylvania, each of which connects with southern railroads at various points to send the trains thru the southland. Among the southern railroads over which the trains would travel are the Louisville and Nashville, Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis; Atlanta, Birmingham and Coast, Atlantic Coast Line, the Florida East Coast, and the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac.

De Luxe Train Offered.

It is reported that the Florida East Coast has offered to contribute its streamlined de luxe stainless steel coach train, the Henry M. Flagler, which it has been operating in a shuttle service between Jacksonville and Miami.

The Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company and the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company, car builders, and the Electro-Motive corporation, Diesel-electric locomotive builder, are reported to have been coöperating actively with the interested railroads in making plans for the fast service.

One of the main difficulties that has to be overcome is the large number of railroads that take part in the Chicago-Florida service, each of which has advanced legitimate claims as to why it should be included. Another has been the matter of expense, the various roads wanting to be certain that the traffic would justify expenditure on de luxe trains.

Eastern Service Successful.

The noteworthy success of the streamlined lines that have been operating between New York and the Florida resort area has encouraged railroad executives who are now hopeful of tapping a large travel reservoir in the middle west. Surveys made in the south have shown that the middle west contributes a large number of the Florida visitors, many of whom drive in their own automobiles.

The railroads hope that with fast and comfortable streamlined service a large number will travel by train so as to have more time to spend in the Florida resorts.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, April 10 (AP).—Conflicting reports from Europe's battlefronts dominated the action of the stock market today, upsetting prices in an active, erratic session. Early reports of German successes, followed by counter claims of British victories, swept quotations alternately up and down.

Transactions totaled 1,287,290 shares, far below Tuesday's 2,135,760, but still much above the average of recent months.

Shares of paper companies climbed to new highs for the year when Nazi troops landed in Norway, but when the British reported victories in battles with the main fleets of the German navy the paper shares dropped as much as 2 points from their best.

Steels and motors, on the other hand, rallied from their worst points to end the day within fractions of previous closes. Other sections of the list trailed these two leading factions thruout the day.

This was regarded as more encouraging in view of declines in electric power production, carloadings, the rate of steel production, and the rate of steel sales—all regarded as sound barometers of general industry.

Finishing lower were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Glenn Martin, North American, American Telephone, Union Carbide, Standard Oil of N. J., and Santa Fe.

Closing higher were International Paper and Power common [the preferred was off ½], Crown Zellerbach, Armour, Wilson, International Mercantile Marine, Celanese, Pan-American Airways, and Consolidated Edison.

New York Bonds.

New York, April 10 (AP).—Rallying from Tuesday's collapse, Scandinavian loans recovered 1 to 6 points in a nervous bond market today. Selling flurries alternated with activities of bargain seekers and the result was a highly erratic price movement thruout the list.

Corporate liens generally felt a preponderance of selling, altho most losses were comparatively narrow.

Leading the recovery in Scandinavians were Denmark 6s and 4½s, Norway 4¼s and 4½s, and Copenhagen 4½s. A few which were not traded yesterday took their beating today. Oslo City 4½s dropped 34 points on sale of one bond.

United States governments, excepting scattered issues, lost further ground in light trading.

Chicago Stocks.

Food shares recorded substantial gains yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in trading in which seven new highs were attained. However, of the 106 issues traded 59 declined. Of the rest 21 advanced and 26 were unchanged. Armour gained ⅝ to close at 6¾. Libby was up 1 to close at 8½, Swift rose ⅝ to close at 24, Swift International rose 1¼ to close at 30¾.

Shares which touched new highs were J. R. Thompson, Sunstrand Machine, Container, Hormel, Harvey-Hubbell, National Battery preferred and Reliance Manufacturing. Volume totaled 38,000 shares.

Bank Stocks.

Three Chicago bank stocks declined in yesterday's trading. Northern Trust was off 3 points, First National 2 points and City National 1 point. Other leading issues were unchanged.

Commodities

Commodity futures for the most part moved indecisively yesterday. Straits tin futures and sugar climbed alone, tin closing 25 to 50 points higher and sugar up 1 to 3 points.

Leading producers lifted the cash market price of lead 0.10 cent from the year's lowest price to a basis of 5.10 to 5.15 cents a pound. No. 1 scrap copper advanced ⅛ cent a pound to 9⅞ cents, indicative of a refined price of approximately 11⅝ cents. Copper sales Tuesday of 15,568,000 pounds compared with sales of 3,558,000 pounds on Monday. The market continued firm at the new 11½ cent a pound price.

Threats of curtailed consumption thru expansion of the war pushed coffee futures 5 to 9 points lower. Sharp gains made in raw hide futures Tuesday were largely lost yesterday with prices 4 to 20 points lower.

OIL GEOLOGISTS TELL HOW THEY FIND NEW SITES

Hunters for "Black Gold" Meet in Chicago.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

America's oil geologists and geophysicists, the "secret service men" of the petroleum industry who are the pathfinders for leasemakers and drillers, reported on the latest methods of oil exploration yesterday on the first day of their annual convention, being held in the Stevens hotel.

Theron Wasson.

Meeting in Chicago because of the interest aroused by the sudden expansion of oil production in southern Illinois, many of the geologists were discussing the story of the men responsible for discovery of the fastest growing oil basin in the United States—Theron Wasson.

Chicagoan Given Credit.

Wasson is a Chicago geologist and a member of the Mattoon chapter of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, which is holding its convention jointly with that of the Society of Exploration Geophysicists.

It was Wasson who, acting on the theory that oil might lie deep beneath the failing 1,200 foot wells of the old Illinois field opened in 1908 in Crawford and Lawrence counties, began in 1930 a technical study which lasted thru six depression years and which culminated in successful tests in 1937 east of the old field.

For five years Wasson, chief geologist for the Pure Oil company, and his staff dug into the case histories of old wells and dry holes in southern Illinois. From the company's records and from the reports that had piled up in nearly 30 years in the office of the state geological survey, Wasson took technical data. Then in 1935 he sent out 20 men with seismographs, dynamite, and other equipment to test the depth of rock strata underlying the surface in several counties.

Seek Dome Formations.

The purpose was to locate the area in which the rock layers bent upward into a domelike formation hundreds and even thousands of eet underground. Oil, when found, lies just beneath a layer of limestone at the top of the "dome." The oil floats on water just under the limestone and is contained in the pores of sandstone which has the appearance of solid rock.

To locate these domelike ridges, as far down as 7,000 feet, Wasson's staff set seismographs on the ground, and at a distance set off small charges of dynamite. These explosions sent sound waves down to the rock layers, and the sound waves echoed back, enabling the geologists to measure the depth of the rock at various points and determine where the highest part or dome was located.

First Test Successful.

After a year of this work, Wasson had selected a long, narrow area containing 250,000 acres and including land in Wayne, Clay, Edwards, Richland and Jasper counties. Oil men explained that all this work had to be done as nearly secretly as possible to avoid arousing a speculative rush to the land which the company was studying.

In 1937 the drillers moved in, and the first well, near Cisne, was successful. Two more wells near Clay City were drilled down to the McClosky sand, at about 2,900 feet, and the second of these was the Bunyan Travis No. 1, which flowed 2,640 barrels in 24 hours and definitely re-established southern Illinois as a major producer.

Pure Oil now has 630 producing wells in the leased area, and has drilled only 20 dry holes, according to company officials.

Look Now to East.

The results of the Illinois oil boom which has taken place in the last two years as a result of deeper pools have been far reaching, oil exploration experts attending the convention declared.

They said that the rejuvenation of Illinois fields that apparently had been exhausted has stretched the industry's horizon eastward, stirring scientific interest in possible new developments in Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

POUND REGAINS PART OF TUESDAY'S DECLINE TO CLOSE AT $3.49½

The British pound yesterday recovered 3 cents of its 9¼ cent loss Tuesday in terms of the dollar in foreign exchange dealings at New York. Dealers in the market were at a loss to explain this gain in British currency because the day's news contained no definite basis for the advance. The pound closed at $3.49½.

The Canadian dollar, moving with the pound, rose ⅝ cent to 83⅞ cents and the French franc rose 0.01¾ cent to 1.98¼ cents. The Belgium belga was unable to muster any strength after Tuesday's weakness and lost 0.09 cent at 16.91 cents. Other leading neutral currencies were unchanged.

Danish and Norwegian moneys were not traded at New York and a nominal price of 23.68 cents was quoted for the Swedish krona, a drop of 0.15 cent from Monday. No price was posted for the krona Tuesday.

Receipts of gold in this country in March were the largest for any month since April, 1939, the commerce department reported. The gold import total for the month of $459,844,673 was about twice that for February and almost $100,000,000 ahead of that for March, 1939.

SPREAD OF WAR DISTURBS STEEL SALES PICTURE

Unexpected and pressing problems for American steel exporters have been created by the spreading of the war zone in Europe, the trade journal Iron Age reported yesterday.

"While immediate effects of the new European crisis on the American steel situation are not yet clearly seen," the magazine said, "some mills are not processing material for Scandinavian countries until further developments.

"Meanwhile there is concern over material that is afloat and on docks at Atlantic ports awaiting shipment."

Ingot production this week is estimated at 61 per cent, a loss of half a point from last week, according to the magazine. Several districts, including Chicago, gained slightly.

United States Steel corporation reported yesterday that March shipments of finished products totaled 931,905 tons, a decrease of 77,351 tons from February shipments, but an increase of 86,797 tons over March last year. For the three months ended March 31, shipments totaled 3,086,753 tons, compared with 2,463,401 tons in the first three months of 1939.

UTILITY OFFERS SECURITIES FOR PLANT EXPANSION

The offering group is headed by W. C. Langley & Co., the First Boston corporation, and Bonbright & Co., Inc. West Penn is an intermediate holding unit in the American Water Works and Electric company system. It operates in the Pittsburgh industrial area.

The $36,000,000 Inland Steel company 3 per cent bond issue yesterday met a strong demand. Offered at 102, the bonds were quoted at 102¼ bid, 102⅝ asked, in over-the-counter trading in the morning. The books were closed by noon.

Committee Favors Boost in Exchange Commissions

New York, April 10 [Special].—Recommendations that New York Stock exchange commissions be increased and that service fees be raised to balance the budget and create a reserve fund of $5,000,000, were made to the board of governors today by a special committee headed by Philip W. Russell of Fenner & Beane. Members of the board are to consider action on the recommendations on April 24.

COTTON

Cotton prices held within extremely narrow limits yesterday with mill buying and reports of a broad demand for textiles offset by hedging and foreign selling. Closing trades were .03 cent higher to .02 cent lower.

Buyers were reported to have purchased liberal amounts of cotton goods in the New York market and prices on some lines were said to have been advanced ⅛c a yard. Sales on Tuesday were placed as high as 40,000,000 yards.

Spot cotton closed .01 cent lower to .03 cent higher with New York, 10.92 cents; New Orleans, 10.76 cents and Houston and Galveston at 10.43 cents a pound. Prices follow:

HEADS OF LARGE FIRMS TELL OF RISING PROFITS

Report Sales So Far Top Figures for 1939.

Officials of several major companies yesterday told stockholders at annual meetings of improved business during the first part of 1940 compared with corresponding periods of 1939.

George H. Bucher, president, calls Westinghouse outlook "encouraging."

These corporations included Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, Kraft Cheese company, General Foods corporation, Western Union Telegraph company, American Radiator and Standard Sanitary company, Bendix Aviation corporation, and Celanese Corporation of America.

Reports Record Backlog.

George H. Bucher, president of Westinghouse, in Pittsburgh said that the business outlook was "very encouraging" and that orders booked in the first quarter were more than 30 per cent above the same quarter last year. The backlog of unfilled orders on March 31 was about 83 million dollars, an all time record.

Sales of the Kraft Cheese company for the first quarter of 1940 exceeded last year's, James L. Kraft, president, said here, adding that prospects for the next quarter are "most favorable." The company now is employing a larger number of people in its plants thruout the United States than ever before, he said. John H. Platt, director of advertising, was elected to the board of directors to fill a vacancy.

Earnings of General Foods corporation amounted to about 80 cents a common share in the first quarter against 74.5 cents a share for the first three months in 1939, C. M. Chester, chairman, told stockholders in New York.

Censor Helps Wire Business.

Western Union expects an increase in earnings as a direct result of the coming election, a normal experience in a presidential year, Roy B. White, president, said in New York. Cable revenues continue to show gains in dollar amounts because of increased wordage brought about by foreign censorship restrictions on coded messages, White said.

"While final figures for the first quarter of 1940 are not yet available," Vincent Bendix, president of Bendix Aviation, said in South Bend, "preliminary estimates indicate that sales of our consolidated divisions and subsidiaries were approximately 6 per cent higher in the first quarter of this year than they were in the final quarter of last year."

Approve Employé Stock Plan.

Stockholders approved a plan to issue not more than 65,000 shares of the corporation's stock to executives and employés on purchase options over a three year period at an option price of $30 a share.

First quarter earnings of Celanese Corporation of America have set a new record, and prospects at this time indicate that a new high will be established for the full year, Dr. Camille Dreyfus, president, told stockholders in New York. The company will spend about $7,000,000 to increase plant capacity, he said.

Sales and profits of American Radiator and Standard Sanitary company, New York, were up sharply in the first quarter, Henry M. Reed, chairman and president, disclosed.

Stockholders of the Omaha railroad in St. Paul elected four new board members. They are R. L. Williams, president of the road; William H. Schellberg, Omaha; Charles M. Thomson, Chicago, and Chester V. Wanvig, Milwaukee. Williams, Schellberg, and Wanvig on Tuesday had been elected to the board of the Chicago and North Western, of which Thomson is trustee.

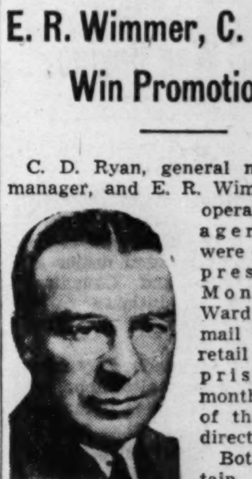
WARD'S NAMES 2 DIVISION HEADS VICE PRESIDENT

E. R. Wimmer, C. D. Ryan Win Promotions.

C. D. Ryan, general merchandise manager, and E. R. Wimmer, retail operating manager, yesterday were elected vice presidents of Montgomery Ward & Co., large mail order and retail store enterprise, at the monthly meeting of the board of directors.



C. D. Ryan.

Both will retain their positions at the head of their respective departments. Ryan takes the place of Frank M. Folsom, who resigned Dec. 6, 1939, as vice president in charge of merchandise, as general merchandise manager, and as a director.

Third Change in Five Months.

Ryan was appointed general merchandise manager when this vacancy occurred, but the vice presidency was left open. Wimmer occupies a vice president's post which has not been filled for a long time.

This action of the board brings about the third executive change within the last five months. In addition to the replacement of Folsom, Harold L. Pearson, vice president and controler, was named treasurer in the place of George W. Vaught, who resigned Feb. 26, 1940, as treasurer and as a director. Vaught was a veteran of 23 years in the organization.

No Word on Financing.

The directors made no announcement after their session yesterday on a new financing plan suggested last month as a near possibility by Sewell L. Avery, chairman, in a letter to stockholders.

Business Bits

Edward R. Stettinius Jr., chairman of the United States Steel corporation, will speak at the 15th dinner meeting of the Economic Club of Chicago in the Palmer House tonight. He will discuss "The Mutual Responsibility of Business and the Public."

H. W. Leland, assistant comptroler, General Electric company, Schenectady, N. Y., will speak at the meeting of the National Association of Cost Accountants in the Merchandise Mart tonight. D. L. Schroder will be the discussion leader.

BLAME NEW DEAL IN LOSS OF FARM MARKETS ABROAD

Discrimination Charged in Empires' War Buying.

ments to Canada totaled 9,726,000 pounds.

In contrast to the Canadian action the United States lowered duties on Canadian cattle and Canadians shipped 754,000 of dutiable cattle across the border in 1939, compared with 424,000 in 1938.

Hull has been approached by farm groups on the export situation, but has replied only that he is taking an active interest in the matter. According to the state department, the restrictions which the empires have placed against purchases of American farm products have been taken up with the British and French authorities, and the empires' economic representatives now in this country. As far as it is known, there has been no formal protest against the restrictions.

Some of the products controled by the British government under import licenses are tobacco, canned fruits, beef, veal, mutton, lamb, pork, paper, pulp, and paper products; wood and timber products; aluminum and aluminum products; eggs and egg products; raw hides and skins, flax, and industrial and agricultural machinery. Grain, cotton, and other raw materials have also been affected by the government controls.

Food Exports Decline.

Foreign trade figures, released by the department of commerce recently, showed that our exports of vegetables and food products declined 11 per cent in the first six months of the European war, compared with the six months ended with February, 1939, and were 29 per cent below the corresponding period two years ago. During the same period exports of aircraft, engines and parts rose 198 per cent and 290 per cent, respectively; exports of metals and manufacturers were up 90 per cent and 42 per cent as compared with one and two years earlier.

Senator Arthur Capper [R., Kas.], a member of the senate foreign relations and agriculture committees, said today of the market basket plan, "I'd like to see it done and I think the secretary of state might give a proposition of that kind serious consideration and study." He said that he felt that Great Britain ought to be sympathetic to the problem.

WAR 'BLACKOUT' BOOMS HOG PRICE AT STOCKYARDS

War news from abroad "blacked out" practically all other factors in the market and boosted hog prices at the stock yards yesterday. The surrender of Denmark to German military rule closes one of the chief sources of pork supply to the British and increases the chances of the United States to sell some of its huge pork surplus to England.

Despite a substantial increase in the Chicago hog supply, buyers bid up prices 10 to 15 cents during the day. Some sales at the close were 20 cents higher compared with the lowest prices of Tuesday.

Strength was also apparent in practically all classes of other meat animals. Most steers and yearlings went at gains up to 25 cents, the biggest advances being in the best grades. Heifers rose 15 to 25 cents. Beef cows, canners, and cutters sold 10 to 15 cents higher. Prices for sheep and lambs were firm.

CHEWING GUM.

Wrigley stock looks like a choice investment to me because of the company's unrivaled position in the chewing gum field. I would like to have its recent earnings and dividend record.—C. O.

Answer: Wm. Wrigley Jr. company is the world's leading maker of chewing gum. Its output represents about three-fifths of world production and its widely advertised products are distributed by 900,000 retailers in the United States and by dealers in virtually every foreign country.

Sales of chewing gum are supported by extensive advertising which cost the company in recent years approximately $5,500,000 annually. The cost of manufacturing has been kept low by the use of specially designed machinery, which is protected by patents, for the processing and wrapping of the gum.

The price of chicle, which is the main ingredient of chewing gum, and the price of sugar affect the profit margin of the firm. Chicle is obtained from British Honduras, Guatemala, and Mexico. Part of the sugar requirements is obtained from a subsidiary, the Gunnison Sugar company. Another subsidiary, the Wrigley Import company, buys chicle and other raw materials.

The main plant of the company is in Chicago, Ill., and has a capacity of more than 7½ million packages of gum a day. Foreign factories are situated in Canada, England, and Australia. A German plant is not being operated.

The present firm, a continuation of a business founded in 1891, was incorporated in 1927 in Delaware, and acquired a company of a similar name formed in 1910. The business was operated as a closed corporation until 1919, when the stock was listed on the Chicago Stock exchange. The company now has more than 9,600 stockholders and the stock is also listed on the New York Stock exchange.

Capitalization of the company is composed solely of 1,961,667 shares of no par capital stock. There is no funded debt. Dividends on the capital shares and on the old common stock were paid each year from 1913. The current dividend rate is 25 cents a share each month.

Net profit in 1939 rose 13 per cent over that of 1938. Consolidated net income, earnings per capital share, and dividends per share in recent years follow:

	Net income.	Earned per share.	Dividends per share.
1935	$7,725,000	$3.91	$3.50
1936	8,379,000	4.25	4.00
1937	8,744,000	4.43	4.25
1938	7,654,000	3.88	3.75
1939	8,651,000	4.33	4.25

Of total assets amounting to $62,271,829 at the end of 1939, current assets were valued at $41,790,266 in the company's balance sheet. Land, buildings, and equipment were listed at $9,633,124. Goodwill and patents were valued at $6,063,638. Current liabilities were $3,901,233.

HAY MARKET.

Timothy, light or medium clover, mixed: Alfalfa, mixed, No. 1, $15@16; No. 2, $13@15; No. 3, $8@11. Choice alfalfa, $22@24. No. 1 rye straw, $12. Receipts, 2 cars tame.

British Battle Germans for Norwegian Ports—25 Warships Sunk as Empire Sea Forces Fight Way Into Skagerrak
